Novelist Deals With Iews in America

By JOHN LEONARD

If Saul Bellow didn't exist, someone exactly like him would have had to have been invented, just after the Second World War, by New York intellectuals, in a backroom at Partisan Review. Everybody wrote essays and book reviews, but a novelist was needed, a very special sort of novelist, a highbrow with muscles, to tell the story of the Jewish romance with America. Nathanael West was dead, Henry Roth was silent, Daniel Fuchs did screenplays, Irwin Shaw and Herman Wouk were middlebrows, short stories by Delmore Schwartz and Isaac Rusenfeld were not enough, and Norman Mailer was clearly not to be

What was this stury? Well, one form of the Jewish romance with America was being worked out in popular culture-in Hollywood and in the theater of musical comedy. It was assimilationist: Look at us, we're just as American as you are; we're more American because we are feeding you your dreams.

This was not whal the New York intellectuals had in mind. Critics and explicators of the great texts of modernist literature, haunted by Europe, having been through the revolving door of Hitler and Stalin, at home with the problematic as a mode of knowledge. didn't want to disappear into American culture; they wanted to enrich it. to make it grow up.

What did they have to give from their experience? Irving Howe, in "World of Our Fathers," describes it this way: "An eager restlessness, a HONG KONG, Friday, Oct. 22-China confirmed for the first time today that Hua Kuo-feng had been appointed chairman of the Chinese Communist Party and said the Central Committee under his leadership had "shattered" an attempt by four senior leftists, including Mao Tsetung's widow, Chiang Ching, to "usurp party and state power."

The Chinese press agency, Hsinhua, In naking the extraordinary disclosure, said "the party central committee headed by Chairman Hua Kuo-teng adopted resocounterrevolutionary conspiratorial clique and liquidated a bane inside the party." Hsinhua gave no details on the tate of the four leftists, who have reportedly been under arrest since about Oct. 6 or /. considerably inwer than last year's but still high by historic standards. The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index showed that in September prices rose overall by the smallest amount for any month since April and that food prices, after allowance for normal seasonal variations, did not change. However, the rise of four-tenths of 1 percent in the price index, coupled with a reduction in the workweek of the typical worker, combined to reduce purchas-

Jimmy Carter, the Democratic nominee, emphasized the decline in purchasing power, which amounted to six-tentits of percent in September.

Carler Issues Statement

The lypical worker's weekly paychecks, adjusted for the loss of purchasing power that has occurred because of inflation, are "2 percent below what they were when Mr. Ford took office," Mr. Carter said in a statement, 'This is the bottom line of the disastrous economic policies followed by the Republican Administration," he said.

On the other hand, Ron Nessen, the White House press secretary, said that the reduction in purchasing power was based, "I'm told, on a very slight reduction in the workweek."

In addition, Mr. Nesson said that "the White House is pleased" with today's consumer price figures because they constitute "further evidence of a reduction in inflation."

U.S. Will Not Recognize Transkei After Its Independence Next Week

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN

Special to The New York Times
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The Ford Administration has decided against extendng diplomatic-recognition to the Transke when the South African "homeland" of wo million blacks becomes officially independent of South Africa next Tuesday, State Department spokesman said

The decision, disclosed to The New York Times in answer to a query, was expected since no foreign government has yet indicated it will recognize the cootroversial new nation.

There still has been no formal announcement about the American decision, however. As recently as three days ago, Representative Stephen J. Solarz, Democrat of Brooklyn, who had introduced a resolution in the House urging the Administration not to recognize the Transkel, was informed by the State Department in a letter that it was "continuing to study the question.

The apparent indecision of the State Department had provoked rumors in cir-cles opposed to apartheid policies in South Africa that the United States in an effort to help out Prime Minister John Vorster, might recognize the Transkei. The territory's independence has been a major project of his Government, but has been opposed by the United Nations and

When the State Department was asked by The Times yesterday whether the Transkei would be recognized it was given virtually the same answer as Mr. Solarz, Today, however, when the department was asked the same question, the spokesman, Robert L. Funseth, said:

The visitor to Umtata finds a pervasive South African presence. If he is a journal-ist, he will be escorted by a locally based official of Pretoria's Information Ministry, which spends millions abroad presenting the case for apartheid. If he sticks to the arranged interviews, most of the senior officials he meets will be white, assigned from Pretoria.

The army is an example of the South African effort. A little over a year ago, the two governments decided that independence would not be credible without a military force. Some 258 recruits were attracted through newspaper advertiscments, and the first group was dispatched to a base near Johaonesburg for training as instructors, cook and medics.

In April, training moved to a tent camp on a hill outside Umtata. While a S15 million base was constructed nearby, recruits were assigned to training as bandsmen, infantrymen, motorcycle dispatch riders and honor guardsmen. Overseeing the training were 30 South African offi-cers and men, sporting the Transkei's bull's head emblem in their orange berets. Mainly a Prestige Unit'

· HONG KONG, Oct, 21-With the emergence of Hna Kuo-feng as China's oew leader and the downfall of the so-called leftists, China has undergone its most important political changes since the Cultural Revolution of the 1960's. Ultimately, the events of the last six weeks, since Mao Tse-tung died on Sept. 9, may prove to be the most significant since the Communists came to power in 1949.

In Peking today, large crowds paraded through the streets to denounce the leftists as the campaign against them spread from Shanghal to the capital. Peking television said it would broadcast two important programs on Saturday and Monday.

The announcement was taken here as an indication that the new leaders might be ready to make a public announcement 00 the recent events, but after all the unexpected developments, analysts were wary of making predictions.

Return to an Orderly Course

It would appear, however, that the triumph of Mr. Hua and his allies brings back to power a group of men who follewed an orderly, conventional course in the 1950's and early 1960's before Mao intervened to check them in the Cultural

LISBON GENERAL WARNS OF A THREAT FROM RIGHT

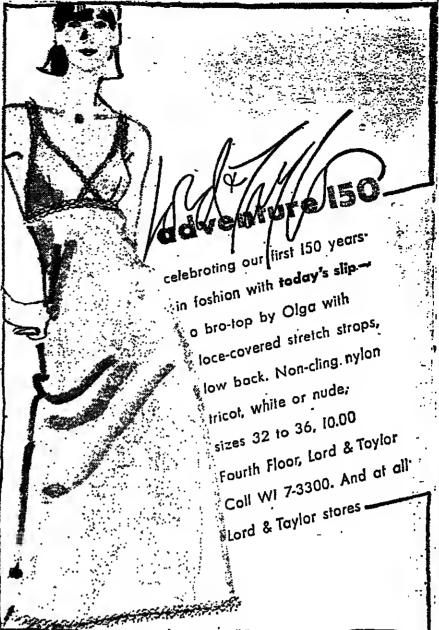

LISBON, Oct. 21—The Governor of Lisbon's military region warned today that "right-wing political forces" were trying to destabilize Portugal's armed forces.

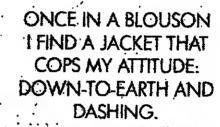

General VBasco Lourenço said conscript officers have genuine grievances over pay and slow promotion, but he said they were being "used." He made his statements during a visit to the Queluz infantry detachment a few miles northwest of the capital. The General confirmed that a secret meeting of officers had been de-

Post-Faulkner, Hemingway Generation

For a man who is considered the most intellectual of novelists, Saul Bellow has had a fair share of popular support. "Humboldt's Gift" was a choice of the Book-of-the-Month Club, "Herzog" a choice of the Literary Guild, and Bellow books have been on the best-seller list.

...Historically be seems to have come at the right momeot, in the literary generation after Hemingway and Faulkner, when the attention of the literary world was focused on the alienating awareness and consciousness of the urban inhabitant.

Mr. Bellow's urban conoections began at hirth in Montreal on June 10, 1915. His Russian immigrant parents bad come to Canada two years before. Until he was 9, Saul Bellow lived in the poorer section of Montreal, but he grew up knowing English, French, Yiddish and Hebrew; to this day he will greet a shopkeeper oo Maxwell Street in Chicago, where he now lives, in fluent Yiddish.

He eorolled in the University of Chicago, hut found the atmosphere there too "dense" and moved to Northwestern and the study of anthropology and sociology. He bad planned to do graduate work, but another element in his makeup was beginning to show. "Every time I worked on my thesis it came out as a short story," be said.

Odd jobs followed, including stints oo the Writers Project of the Works Projects Administration and on the editorial side of the Encyclopedia Britan-nica. Theo, during World War II, while serving in the merchant marine, be fin-ished "Dangling Man."

Over the next 30-odd years there were saveo more oovels, four plays, a number of short stories and uncounted essays. For some 15 years after the war he lived in New York, but left it as a demoralizing place. "I had the good luck," ha said, "to miss New York in the '60's. It was oo place for performers, virtuosi exhibitionists, self-advertisers and promoters." Saul Bellow is white haired, heavylidded, with a rather doleful counte-nance, balanced by his warmth and humor. Married three times and divorced twice his wife. Alexandra, is a teacher at Northwestern-be is he father of three sons, who live in different cities. "I seem them as often as can," he has said, "and sometimes bring them al together. When that happens we get along fine. They're like each other's uncles."

Honors and a Certain Anonymity His impressive honors include three National Book Awards, honorary degrees and membership in The National Institute of Arts and Letters.

In Chicago, free of extraliterary en-tanglements, he has achieved a certain amount of local anonymity, which he finds personally pleasing and conducive to work. He appears on television almost never, grants few interviews and keeps himself a private person. He is oo recluse, however. He is a member of the Committee on Social Thought and Professor of English at the University of Chicago, has taught and lectured in various universities, and likes to travel. His most recent book is an account of a visit to Israel— "To Jerusalem and Back."

sophic conversation with the reader. The academy singled out "Henderson the Rain King" as "the writer's most imaginative expedition." It went on to say that that book showed as did most of Mr. Bellow's works a fascination with a variety of settings—in the case of "Henderson," the jungles of Africa—as well as a continuing, lively interest in his most identifiable subject, the "man with oo foothold."

Yet the academy stressed that what had given the Bellow "anti-heroes"their "lasting stature" had been their courage the courage of a man "who keeps on trying to find a foothold during his wanderings in our tottering world, one who can never relinquish his faith that the value of life depends on its dignity, not its success."

Sinclair Lewis Was the First

The 61-year-old Mr. Bellow is the sixtle American to win the prize for literature following Steinbeck in 1962, Ernest Hemngway in 1954, William Faulkner in 1949; Pearl Buck in 1938, Eugene O'Neill in 1936 and Sinclair Lewis in 1930.

There were seven Nobel laureates this year, a relatively low number compared with recent years when aome of the science awards have been shared by as nany as three winners each.

The six other Americao winners this year were Prof. Burton Richter of Stanford University and Prof. Samuel C.C. Ting of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who shared the physics prize for the discovery of a new type of ele-mentary particle: Prof. William N. Lip-scomb of Harvard, who won the chemis-try award for his studies of compounds known as boranes; Prof. Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago, who woo the ecocomics prize, and Dr. Barucb Blumberg of the University of Pennsylva-nia medical school and Dr. Carleton Gajdusek of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases at Bethesda, Md., who shared the award for medicine.

A Laureate Blinks in the Limelight CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (UPI)-Saul Bellow, his eyes glistening, spoke of his fears and bumility today at winning the Nubel

Prize for Literature. "A primitive part of me," Mr. Bellow said at a oews conference, "the child in me is delighted. The adult in me is skeptical."

The writer, wearing a light greed turtleneck shirt and a dark green suit, said be hoped the award would oot be a hurden, as it was to John Steinbeck, who died in 1968. "I knew Steinbeck quite well," be said, "and I remember how burdened he was by the Nobel Prize. He felt that he had to give a better account of himself than he had done."

On the Price of Fame

Mr. Bellow, who met the press at the University of Chicago, where he is a Professor of English, said he had a real fear of becoming a celebrity. "Being a writer is a rather dreamy thing," he said. "And oobody likes to have the diaphanous tissues torn. One has to proect one's dream space."

He was told that President Ford had said that the sweep of Nobel awards this year by Americans showed that the United States was a great intellectual haven, "Somebody," he said, "must have told President Ford that because I don't think he would have discerned it tor himself."

$160,000 prize money, Mr. Bellow said: "I don't have any plans for the money. At this rate"—considering the publicity and attention—"my hears will get the money in a day or two."

A few minutes later Chicago's most distinguished author put on a battered fedora, adjusted a hlack leather topcoat and walked out into the cold, perhaps to look for some quiet dream space.

And Mr. Howe has elsewhere identified Jewish writing as "the fiction of urban malaise, second-generatioo complaint, Talmudic dazzle, woeful alieoatioo, and dialectical irony...fictioo m which the Jewish world is not merely regained in memory as a point of beginnings, an archetypal Lower East Side of spirit and place, but is also treated as a portentous metaphor for man's homelessness and wandering." All of which is to be found in the fiction of Saul Bellow, along with an amazing, scnurging sense of humnr. So one imagines the boys in the Partisan Review hackroom, lighting up an irooy, drinking down an ambivalence, admitting an alienation, trying oo ideologies like raincoats or sweatshirts, -waiting for their oovelist. He would have somehow to be a Yiddisb-speaking combination of Huck Finn and Herman Melville, with stamloa and hrains and a college education, good for the loog haul of a career and a shelf of books instead of a reliquery of fragments from old gray quarterlies. The Sixties' Wrong Kind of Energy

The family of New York iotellectuals was breaking up; the 1960's were chaotic; the wroog kind of eoergy was loose on the streets, while intelligence itself stayed home and howled from a window. Bellow himself had no use for the 1960's. Like many of the New servative. A play ("The Last Analysis," 1965) was unsuccessful. Short stories "Mosby's Memoirs," 1968) marked time: there was he said, no stability. By 1969, in "Mr. Sammler's Planet," he had bad it with the 1960's, New York, black pickpockets, the "degraded clowning of this life through which we

the last redoubt of Old World sensibility on the new barbaric shore, the last man to have met "the terms of his man to have met "the terms of his contract." But there was more: in "Humboldt's Gift" (1975) Bellow made savage fun of his entire geoeratioo of iotellectuals, of the romance with America itself. When last seen, be was heading in the disturbing direction of Rudolf Steiner's vapidities, but surfaced introduction with the morth in terms! faced instead this month in Israel (his "To Jerusalem and Back," his first oon

It's nn wonder, then, that Norman Podhoretz in his fine 1959 essay, "The-Advectures of Saul Bellow," have asserted: "There is, indeed, a sense in which it may eveo be said that the validity of a whole new phase of American culture has been felt to hang on whether or oot Saul Bellow would turn out to be a great novelist."
Reading his books is reading their history. He had to dn the job for all of them. Perhaps he needed the dis-tance of Chicago to do it.

A Scorn for Tricks of Form

That he has done so is obvious from the best-seller lists, the National Book Award he wins almost every time be writes a novel, and the Nobel Prize be won yesterday at age 61. FORD ORDERS PLANES TO MEET NOISE RULES

But He Wants Hearings to See if Airlines Need Financial Aid to Bring 1,550 Jets in Line

By RICHARD WITKIN

President Ford yesterday ordered that rent noise standards be muffled or re-placed in a program that would start Jan. I and be completed over the next eight

The President also called on William T. Coleman Jr., Secretary of Transporta-tion, to hold prompt public hearings on whether tha industry might need addi-tional financial help to meet such a timetable.

The coise policy statement was read by Mr. Ford at Kennedy International Air-port, a prime focus of contention in the protracted struggle to curb the environ-meotal impact of planes without stifling travel and commerce.

Interrupted twice by raucous jets, the President castigated Coogress for not passing his bill on regulatory reform of aviation and the Civil Aeronautics Board for its "outmoded regulatory approach."

Legislation Cited

Mr. Ford argued that the legislation, calling for increased competition and more flexibility in fixing fares, would enable "the airlines to modify or replace their noisy aircraft."

The bill has drawn strong opposition io much of the airline industry, although some carriers have gone along with some elements of the program. Despite these differences, there is almost universal belief that the doise-reduction program cannot be financed through regulatory reform and that governmental assistance is a oecessity. spring that the noise control program be financed through a governmental "escrow" fund fed by a two percent tax oo airline ticket sales.

A Proposed Tax Decrease

That would not, under the plan, increase the total tax. There would be a simultaneous decrease of the current airport and airway tax from eight to six perceot of a ticket.

The Administration has sharply repudiated charges that it was setting aside the problem for political reasons, and some observers thought that this might have been one reason that Ford produced his program.

However, it was apparent that the financial question, which has ben one of the chief reasons for the delay, had not been solved. Another problem in implementing any noise-control policy is what it would mean to foreign airlines serving the Uoited States.

On this point, Mr. Ford said: "We will also begin immediately the necessary steps to make certain that all international airlines flying into the United States met the same standards." He did not say how this could be done.

In all, there are about 2,200 commercial jetliners in the natioo's fleet. The noisiest of these are more than 300 of the oldest Boeing 707's and McDonnell DC-8's, planes that were introduced long before the current noise standards were put on the books by the Federal Aviation Admin-

It was for that reason that they were exempted from the standards. But environmentalists and communities near airports have joined forces to receot years in demanding that the planes either be phased out or "retrofitted" with soundmuffling kits that would enable them to meet the ooise standards.

Industry experts have estimated that it would cost $6 billion to replace the more than 300 four-engine jets, which is deemed far more preferable than re-

The antinoise forces have also been in sisting that the new rules be applied to less ooisey jets, such as the older Boeing 747 jumbos and early-productional jets such as the Boeing 727's and 737's and the DC-9's.

A Mistria! Declared In Reporter Slaying; Wide Publicity Cited

PHOENIX, Oct. 2I (AP)—A mistrial was declared today in the trial of John Harvey Adamsoo, who is accused of murdering Doo Bolles, a newsman. The judge, Frederic Heineman, said in Superior Court that pretrial publicity made it im-possible to select a fair jury now.

He made the announcement at an emergeocy hearing.

In rapid sequence, a defense attorney of prospective jurors would be called.

However, he refused a motion to transfer the trial to another county.

Mr. Adamson, a 32-year-old greyhound breeder, is the sole defeodant indicted so far in the bomhing murder of Mr. Bolles, a prominent investigative reporter. Mr. Bolles, who was 47, was a specialist in exposing land frauds and other forms of white-collar crime. He was fatally maimed when dynamite tore through the floor of his car oo June 2.

A Study of His Records Shows That Those in Banking in Georgia Gave Heavily

The following article was written by Nicholas M. Horrock based on reporting by him and Walter Rugaber.

ATLANTA, Oct. 21—A relatively small group of powerful Georgians—including bankers, business executives, contractors and lawyers—gave Jimmy Carter balf the money he collected in his 1970 gubernatorial campaign here, according to an anal-ysis of Mr. Carter's records by The New

Last Sunday-Mr. Carter published a list of 4,800 contributors who had given him a total of about $690,000. An examination of the list sshowed that about 298 individuals or husinesses, making contri-butions ranging from $500 to $26,500, accounted for half of total raised, an esti-

The study endeavored to identify the business or professional connection of these 298 contributors and through random interviews gain some understanding of their reasons for backing Mr. Carter.

Some business interests overlapped. For example, a lawyer might be on a bank board. But the Times found that Mr. Cartar received some $50,000 from persons directly involved in banking or the sav-ings and loan industry. He also received substantial amounts from directors of banks whose primary enterprise was in some other business.

Unlike Party Backers

These backers are not characteristic of the national Democratic Party, several Democrats bere pointed out. Special Interest Groups

Similar reasons for making contribu-tions were cited by special interest groups. Mr. Carter received some $20,000 from retail and wholesala liquor dealers, vending machine operators, a law enforcement association, a poultry group and railroad interests.

"These people are not trying to buy favoritism," one wholesale liquor distrib-utor said in an interview. "Most of these groups are involved in regulated industries and the people simply want to be left alone.

Another $60,000 or so came to Mr. Carter from the general business com-munity—Delta Airlines, which is based here, Coca Cola, and textile, insurance and retail sales organizations. At the ceoter of his backing was a small group of Atlanta lawyers, Philip H. Alston, Jr., Charles Kirbo, David H. Gambrell and Robert J. Lipschetz. In addition to backing Mr. Carter, they attracted other mainstays of support during the campaign. It was through this group that Mr. Carter first came to the attection of Anne Cox. The Carter campaign has allotted more money to this state per capita than to any other, enabling Deniel W. Slight Edge for Carter

Recent surveys by Robert Tetter for Mr. Ford and by Patrick Caddell for Mr. Carter show one-point margins for their respective sponsors. But Mr. Carter may still be hardpressed to get the 150,000-vote margin in the Cleveland area that Democrats usually need because of the extreme weakness of the party organization here. Mr. Celeste commented that local Democrats, who seem likely to lose control of the Cuyahoga County board for the first time since 1932, "can hear the death rattle in their own throats."

Robert E. Hughes, the county Republi-can leader, said that Mr. Carter "lost the election on Oct. 4 in this state, because they didn't register the voters they needed to." Despite a generally successful registration drive, the first statewide campaign since 1960, only 834,000 voters are registered in Cuyahoga County, compared with 834,000 four years ago. "Unless they pile it up down state," Mr. Hughes said, Mr. Carter would fall short.

Dole Focusing On Key Areas As Vote Nears

By DOUGLAS E. KNEELAND

LAFAYETTE, La., Oct. 21-Senator Robert J. Dole, the Republican Vice-Presidential candidate, clambered up on the body of a flatbed truck in the chill morning air on the outskirts of Jackson, Miss., today and waited expectantly for his introduction as a shivering country band flailed at the last notes of "Dixie."

Looking down upon a crowd of reporters, photographers and staff workers who probably outnumbered the truckers and other local people gathered at the interstate 55 Truck Plaza to hear the Senator from Kansas, the master of ceremonies beamed and bellowed: "The next Vice President of the United States, the honorable Senator Robert

Doyle."

Not that he doesn't expect it. As he makes the Vice-Presidential nominee's endless trek through second echelon cities on the long road to November, Senator Dole frequently jokes publicly that the average voter probably thinks that he and his Democratic counterpart Senator Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota Mr. McGough conceded in an interview are "a couple of guys named Doyle and that Mr. Ford's comments about Eastern Mundale or something."

In Marion County (Indianapolis and suburbs), which a Republican must carry to win statewide Mr. Lugar had a con-fortable lead in a recent Indiana University poll. Io a weathervane district of Evansville, where Mr. Hartke once served as Mayor, a voter survey by The Evansville Press last week showed the Senator trailing badly in his home area. And a statewide telephone survey taken recently for Mr. Lugar by Market Opinion Research, an Indianapolis market survey concern, gave the Republican a 19-point

In 1970, after one of the roughest cam-paigns in this state's memory, Mr. Hartke squeaked to a third term, defeating the ultraconservative Richard L. Roudebush by only 4,600 votes out of 1.7 million

Last spring, in Indiana's first statewide primary in modern times, Mr. Hartke again had to run for his life, winning hy another slender margin, 4,000 votes, over Philip H. Hayes, a freshman Demo-cratic Representative from the Senator's own home town of Evansville.

That primary cost Senator Hartke more than $300,000 and left his treasury badly bruised. In recent weeks he has been squeezed for funds while the affluent Mr. Lugar is well financed and backed by a united, bighly organized Republican or-

Sport Shirts and Sneakers

The change is most apparent in Mr. Lugar's style and mannerisms. Two years ago when he made a quixotic run against the folksy Senator Birch Bayh, and lost, Mr. Lugar was often starchy and pedantic, the personification of establishment conservatism who carried the extra burden of being called former President

This time the pinstripe suits bave been replaced by sport shirts, and sometimes Mr. Lugar even wears sneakers. Mr. Lugar still looks like a well-scrubbed choir boy and he has learned to mingle comfortably with the small-town crowds and college students. "it's easier this year," he conceded to a visitor. "I don't have to spend half of each meeting discussing Watergate. There's time to talk about more meaningful things."

Neither President Ford nor Jimmy Carter, who appear tied in the Presidential race in Indiana at this point, are lending any coattails for Mr. Lngar or Senator

Both Senate caodidates contend that the economy, inflation, and the state's relatively high rate of unemployment are the issues that should arouse the elactorate. Here there is certainly a choice between them.

"I'm a conservative moderate, you could say," Mr. Lugar told an overflow crowd at a combined Lions and Rotary Club luncheon here Tuesday. "The first priority is to get more jobs for our people. But it's private enterprise alone that can do that I would work for a systematic Federal tax reduction for both individuals and business. End of Series Gets Kuhn Off Hook

Looking like something that had been in the water for days and days, the Yankees went down for the fourth time last night. Unable to win a game in their 30th World Series, they went out with a whimper as the Cincinnati Reds be came the first National League team in 54 years to defeod the North Americao baseball championship successfully. It was the second time in their last three World Series that the Yankees bad lost four straight games, but they did accomplish one thing. By making a fifth game unnecessary, they got baseball's pliable commissioner out of a mess of his own making. He had offended everybody but the National Broadcasting Company by letting the network schedule the fifth game for 6 P.M. today, just ahead of the debate between Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

For years, going back almost to the time baseball became opener since they an evening promotion competing for the entertainment dol-: i00-sear building in lar with movies, belly dancers and professional wrestling, players have opposed night games when they must play the following afternoon in another city. The best they could get vho came are likely r a satisfying portion pregame ceremony ed (and retiring his was a rule against starting a game after 6 P.M., when there is a game the following afternoon in a city more than an onlookers were hour and a half away by air. Nobody tried to disguise the reason for the decision. NBC wanted to use the World Series as a gimmick to grab and hold the biggest share of the eudlence

> Yankees' owner, said bluntly: "The commissioner simply: Rhetorical Questions

It was not the first time Kuhn let his network masters call the tune, but this may have been his most abject Steinbrenner was furious. "Both teams opposed it," be said. "We had our say, the Reds had their say, then the commissioner made another arbitrary decision.

"It's the worst thing in the world. How about the traffic? It's bad enough at any time. But at 6 how ebout the inconvenience to the paying fans?

"How about the fan who wants to see the game and hear the debate? Can be get home in time? How about the media that covers the games regularly? Finally, how about the players? [They probably get to bed in Cincinnati before 3 A.M. tomorrow, with a championship game to play—perhaps the championship game—only 10 hours later.] The commissioner simply gave in to TV. NBC wanted It to lead into the debate, and be gave in." Considering Kuhn's past performances, Steinbrenner's questions were rhetorical. The commissioner has demonstrated often in the past thet when a World Series is on, he doesn't care about the quality of play, and does care deeply about Nielsen ratings.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Associ-ation, deplored the decision, but agreed that it probably did not violate the basic agreement.

A Stupid Rule "It'a a stupid rule," he said, "aod it is one of the rules we tried to improve but weren't able to. Instead of the flight time between cities, we wanted to measure the time from park to park. This whole thing has me so upset I don't trust myself to speak. These night games, playing last Sunday's game at night and now this—the whole thing is the result of an overlong season. We have tried for years to reduce the number of games, but they insist oo their 162game schedule, plus playoffs, plus a weekend TV schedule for the World Series, which is almost e guarantee of un-seasonable conditions. They have had phenomenal luck with weether, but some day they'll have e series between Detroit and Montreal and be snowed out."

In wintry Cincinnati, where Bob Howsam was inveighing against punishing cash customers on Arctic nights, the Reds' general manager said Kuhn had acceded to NBC's Sunday might proposal-to evade competition from pro football-and presented the idea to the major league television committee as a fait accompli.

"That's a cop-out by Howsam," Miller said. "When you have an employee who does something you don't like, you tell-him to undo it."

Ironically, Gerald Ford, Jimmy Carter and the League of Women Voters, which sponsors the debates, agreed to delay the start of their show in the event that the game encroached on their eir time after 9:30. Evidently they are as subservient to television as Bowie Kuhn.

A further irony is the fact that the moderator of the debate is Barbara Walters, the new glamour girl of the American Broadcasting Company's news staff. By using the World Series as a lead-in attraction, NBC hoped to outrate ABC on the latter's own show. By lining up on NBC's side in the ratings war. Bowie must have warmed precious few cockles among baseball's oew friends at ABC.

Los Angeles (4-1-1) at New Orieans (2-4-0)—Saints were crushed by 49ers' defense, as Rams were the week before. Ron Jaworski, his broken shoulder healed, will be Rams' quarterback, their third this season. Betting choice: Los Angeles by 12 Angeles by 12.

Mionesota (5-0-1) at Philadelphia (2-4-0)—Against inferior teams Vikings do just enough to win. They have improved the attack with Ahmad Rashad now permanent wide receiver and Jim Lash traded to 49ers. Eagles have acti-vated Roman Gabriel but the 36-yearold quarterback is not yet fit to play. Betting choice: Minnesota by 10.

SATURDAY NIGHT

Atlanta (1-5-0) at .. San Francisco (5-1-0)-Falcoos beat the 49ers twice last year but things are not what they used to be. Two young defensive tackles, Jimmy Webb and Cleveland Elam, have made supermen out of the old 49er defensive ends, Cedric Hard-man and Tommy Hart. Falcons may bave to play without Tommy Nobis, their main man since they began. Betting choice: San Francisco by 13.

MONDAY NIGHT

St. Louis (5-1-0) at Washington (4-2-0)—Neither has much of a pass defense but the Cardinals have a big edge in run and pass offense, areas in which Redskins have detericrated. George Allen is keeping his starting quarterback, Joe Theismano or Bill Kilmer, a secret Betting choice: St. Louis by 4.

Harvard, Lauded by Princeton Coach, Fears Tiger Defense

A year ago Harvard was slightly derailed en route to the lvy League championship by an unheralded Princeton team. The situation is similar this eason, and Joe Restic, the Crimsoo regards it with some trepida-tion. "People have been saying, 'Poor Princeton.'" Restic said yesterday.

"What do they mean?
They beat us last year and have the same league record now.'

There is, however, one major dif-ference this time. Jim Kubacki, Harvard's gifted running-passing quarter-back, is ready to display his wares on the Palmer Stadium grass. A year ago Kubacki did not play because of an injury, and that probably hed much to do with Harvard's loss. Each team goes into this 100th game ord in the league and a three-way tie with Yale for second place Boh Casciola, Princeton's coach, said, "Harvard is the best team in the league. They create a lot of problems with their multiple sets. All we can do is slt back and play sound defense and bope that they make mistakes."

Tigers' Pass Defense Is Strong The Tigers are fourth in the oation

in pass defense, a fact that may make Kubacki's aerial game less effective. The Tigers hope to utilize their own passing game more effectively with Kirby Lockhart.

"When Kirby's bot, he can throw like a pro, and he's the key to our offense," said Casciola. But the Tigers also have a pair of nifty runners in Mike Carter and Bobby Isom to put pressure on the Harvard defenders.

Harry Gamble, Penn's coach, thinks Tim Mazzetti's kicking may be a factor against Yale on Franklin Field's artifi-cial turf. Twice this season Mazzetti has booted field goals of 54 yards and he has a long series of unreturnable kickoffs into the end zone. Mazzetti's kicking plus a newly-organized defen-sive line has made Penn e stronger team, but Gamble noted, "our offense is mediocre."

is mediocre."

If that is so, the Quakers may be in for a long afternoon for a number of reasons. First, Yale has three of the toughest, fastest running backs in the league in John Pagliaro, Make Southworth and Rick Angelone; second, Yale has experienced passers in their quarterbacks, Stone Phillips and Bob Rizzo; and third, the Eli defense, archored by Pete Bonacum, Mike Tomana, Paul Denza, Bob Skoronski, Dave Humphre-Denza, Bob Skoronski, Dave Humphre-ville, Keith Bassi, Bill Crowley, Jeff Waller, Kurt Nondorf and Steve Skrovan, is second in the league.

Yale Is Called Improved'

"Yale," said Gamble, "is much im-proved since its opening-game loss to Brown and could become the best team io the league. Yale has a good size, good backs, a solid defense, does nothing fancy and comes right at you."

This will be the 44th meeting between Yale and Penn in e series that began in 1879—in Hoboken, N.J. Yale leads, 31-12, and 15-5 since the league began round-robin competition in 1956.

Darimouth will visit Cornell and If the Big Green (now 1-2 in the league) bopes to stay alive in the title race, it needs some punch in the offense. In the last two games against Yale and Harvard, Dartmouth's offense mustered a total of 79 yards and two first downs in first half play. In both defeats Dartmouth stormed back over the final 30 minutes but fell short. The defense has kept Dartmouth alive all season, having played about 75 magnet of the time.

75 percent of the time. Cornell Has Good Passing Duo

Cornell is big and strong and has an able passer in Jim Hofher and an amazing receiver in Eamon McEneaney. The Big Red has solid running backs in Tim LaBeao, Neal Hall and Joe Holland. Dartmouth has won eight straight over Cornell.

Brown's Ivy League leaders will face Holy Cross in Providence, R.I. The major game in the Met area will be the Columbia-Rutgers clash at Giants Stadium in the Meadowlands, the first college game in the new complex. Rut-gers holds the nation's loogest major college winning streak, 12 games, and leads the nation in defense, rushing defense and scoring defense. This will be Columbia's first game in a major stadium since 1936. In that season the Lions beat Stanford, 7-0, in the Polo Grounds and lost to Army, 27-16, in Yankee Stadium.

Bowie Admissions Unit Is Under Investigation

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Prince Georges County state attorney's office said today it was investigating charges that admissions personnel at Bowie Race Course skimmed money from the track's gate receipts.

Edmood J. O'Connell, chief of the agency's investigative division, said 11 prosecutor's subpoenas had been issued to persons connected with admissions at the track and that they were sched-uled to undergo further questioning

O'Connell said Bowie officials had told the state attorney's office about a week ago that they had suffered "financial losses," possibly connected. with crimical activity.

Night of No Surprises

There were no surprises in this crowded night of eight singles, though several seemed in the offing. Mona Guerrant led fourth-seeded Virginia Wade, 5-3, in the first set before losing, 7-6, 6-2. "I played very well from there oo," said the Briton, who had been discouraged wheo beaten by Betty Stove at Phoenix two weeks ago. "Twe been working hard and the feel is coming

Miss Stove galloped through her match with Mima Jausovec of Yugosla-via, winning, 6-2, 6-2, by sheer speed of shot. It's been a tough week for the Dutch woman, She had to play four matches just to qualify for the round of 16 and now has Mrs. Wade to play again in the quarterfinal.

Third-seeded Martina Navratilova normally a oet-rusher, subdued the fierce forehand of Sue Barker of Britain by staying on the baseline and keeping the rallies going for a 6-3, 6-2 victory and a date with Francoise Durr in the quarters. Miss Durr outmaneuvered Julie Anthony, the other qualifier to gain the round of 16, by 6-3, 6-3.

Nancy Richey, for years the best of the baseliners, won from Kerry Reid of Australia, 7-5, 6-1, and meets Miss Evert, while Terry Holladay, 0-4 down to the slugging of Marita Redondo, took six games running for the match at 6-3, 6-4 shortly before midnight.

Volk to Start People in Sports

For Giants At Safety

By GERALD ESKENAZI

It is this simple, and this complicated, to play safety for the New York Giants: "You've got to tell the difference between a pass and a run."

That is how Bill Arnsparger, the coach, described yesterday the duties that his new man, Rick Volk will have on Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steel-

Rick Volk? The former all-pro? The anchor of the Colts' secondary in Super Bowls III and V?

"I'm just glad I'm getting a chance to start," said Volk, who has been a Giant for eight days. "You've got to walk before you can run."

Some defensive shifts have made

Volk a starter again. Arnsparger has decided to move Jim Stienke to left cornerback, and Volk will move in to Stienke's spot as the weakside safety. This has been a year of shifts for Volk, who was selling industrial tools back home in Baltimore after being rejected by other teams. Volk, a threetime player in the Pro Bowl, gets cut in the nicest ways.

There was Baltimore last year, and Coach Ted Marchihroda. It was Volk's eighth campaign with the Colts, who had lost three of their first four games. "Marchibroda said to me, 'It's not you, but we have to make a change. We want to see what Jacky Wallace

The Colts lost their next game to the Patriots. But then they faced the Jets. The rest was part of the fairy-tale story. The Colts did not lose another game. Against the Jets Wallace returned an interception for a touchdown. Exit Rick Volk.

Then the Denver Broocos and Coach John Ralstoo picked him last summer.

"I spent five weeks in Denver," re-'spent ive weeks in belief, te-calls Volk. "Then Raiston said to me, 'You won't unedrstand this, but we'll have to let you go.'"

Next came Miami and Coach Don

"Shula said to me he could use me. I could be a starter. But I'd have to understand that if Bryant Salter came -he was in that Washington deal for Jake Scott-theo I'd be gone.

What happened?
"When Salter showed up, I went."
Back home again in Baltimore, he watched the weekly games on televi-sion and stayed in shape. He weighs 192 pounds, stands 6 feet 3 inches and is 31 years old.

"I'm goiog to try to make some hig plays," said Volk, "The Giants haven't had that many turnovers from their defense. I'm not saying it's the de-fense's fault. There are lots of reasons a team doesn't do well."

The Giants' main problem, he has observed, "is that they're heating them-selves. The other teams aren't beating them. They're hasically a sound foot-ball team. The coaches have confidence in their players. But when you've got a young team it doesn't know it can wio. I saw that happen in Baltimore. It takes a one-game or two-game string

Volk has made more than a few big plays. He has 31 career interceptioos.
"I suppose that making the hig play was the thing I did best," said Volk, when pressed. The Giants' secondary has been reconstible for pully true interhas been responsible for only two interceptions this season. In Volk's prime, that was a had year for him alooe.

Jets Sign Rogers, Former Saint

Steve Rogers, a running back released by the New Orleans Saints earlier this year was signed by the New York Jets, the National Football League team announced yesterday.

Rogers, a second-year player from Louisiana State University, carried the hall 17 times for 62 yards in parttime duty for the Saints last year. To make room for Rogers, the Jets placed a linebacker, Carl Russ, oo the injured reserve list. Russ, a secondyear man, bas been out since the sec-year man, bas been out since the secood game with a sprained knee.

The Jets said Boh Gresham and Clark Gaines would start at the runniog hack positions Sunday against Baltimore in place of Steve Davis, out with a knee iojury, and Ed Marinaro, who has an injured foot. Louie Giammooa, another running hack, also has a foot injury but could see some actioo, the Jets said.

Play-Calling Scheme Helps, But Not Much

SAN DIEGO (AP)-Losing by 76-0 was bad enough, but the other team had laughed when his team took the field, says a Southwest High Raider quarterback, Albert Armas.

"My cousin plays lioebacker for them, and he said they were going to tear the numbers off my jersey so we wouldo't know any plays," Armas said. Numbers on his jersey? That's the way the team calls plays in the huddle. The idea helps crack a language barrier, since Armas and the other quarterback are Spanish - Americans whose English is difficult for some players to understand. Instead of rattliog off a play in the huddle, the quarterbacks simply point to a code of 10 possible plays embroidered on their jer-

Coach Mike Davis paid $50 for the embroidery, which, he says, works—despite the awful score. "We haveo't busted a play all season," Davis said. The Raiders hadn't won, either. But the coach said:

The problem is oot execution, at least execution as far as a player oot knowing what to do oo a play. We can call aodihles. We can give plays from the sidelines without sending in a substitute. And there's no room for controversy in the huddle. They are in and out of the huddle before anyone can say anything."

Rueben Valdez, the other quarter-hack, says the Southwest High Raiders' backfield "caught the defense unprepared a few times because we get the plays off so fast."

The plays can't he overheard, either

Foreman Signs 3-Year ABC-TV Pact

George Foreman has signed a threeyear contract with ABC Sports that gives the oetwork first refusal rights on telecasts of all of his fights. The former heavyweight champion will also serve as a comentator on boxing telecasts and make appearances on various ABC programs such as "The American Sportsman" and "Good Morning Amer-

"The deal is for three years and the money, although we don't like to announce exact figures in things like this, is well into six figures," said Roone Arledge, the president of ABC Sports, at Gallagher's Restaurant, where the announcement was made yesterday. "We don't want to interfere with George's boxing career or anything. He doesn't have to have any set number of fights or appear in any set number of shows—just when he can work it around his fights and training."

"One of the things we hope to do," said Arledge, "say on the American Sportsman — because George's hobby is training lions and tigers—is to show him with his pets. This, of course, would be filmed through a long lens."

Arledge said the man who arranged the deal was Don King, who promoted the deal was Don King, who promoted Foreman's last two fights and plans to promote more of them. Of his plans for the future, Foreman

"I would like to fight Muhammad Ali again, because that was my only loss, but I would also like to fight Ken Norton again, whether or not it's for the title. I want to fight the top people. I wouldn't want to fight in a tournament to decide the championship.

The 6-foot-9-inch forward, who came to the Pistons in the American Basketball Association dispersal draft, was suspended on Wednesday by the Pistons for failing to report to practice two days in a row. No date has been set for his arraignment.

Barnes reportedly had a .38-caliber revolver in his hand luggage as he pre-pared to board a plane for St. Louis. A spokesman for the sheriff's department said Barnes maintained he had been framed. The spokesman said Barnes also denied he was a pro basketball middleweight boxer, fights Sandy Torres tonight in the feature 10-round bout at Sunnyside Gardens in Queens, his wardrobe will not be traditionalfor boxing.

When Ronnie Harris, an undefeated

Harris, a 27-year-old black who converted to Judaism four months ago, will wear a yarmulke. The State Athletic Commission had refused Harris the right to wear the yarmilke, but yesterday Leonard Finz, a State Su-preme Court justice, overruled the commission, finding its verdict "arbitrary."

Instice Finz also ruled that if the yarmulke is knocked off during the fight, Harris will not be permitted to put it back on. Harris, who wears his hair in braids, will secure the yarmulke by slipping braids through slits in the yarmulke.

Harris won a gold medal in the Olympic Games as a lightweight in 1968. He has won all 18 of his professional fights, 11 by knockouts.

Connors Takes Hickok Honor Jimmy Connors, the United States

Open tennis champion, yesterday was named the September winner in the Hickor professional athlete of the year award competition. Connors received 33 first-place votes and 167 points in balloting by sports writers and broadcasters. Steve Grogan, quarterback of the New England Patriots, was second and Ken Norton, beaten on a unani-mous but controversial decision by heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, was third. Ali finished 10th.

Nevada-Reno on Probation

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 21 (AP)—The University of Nevada-Reno was placed oo a one-year probation today for violating the minimum academic rule of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The N.C.A.A. said violations relate to the university's improper application of the association's 2-point grade average rule to enroll a student-athlete and give him financial aid.

The catcher hit a fly ball to left field that landed in the first row of the stands just above the desperaet reach of White, the left fielder, who had tried to climb the wall by placing his right food halfway up the blue padding.

That raised the Reds' lead to 6-2 and the Yankee prospects didn't seem too promising.

Pearson Captures Pole For Sunday Auto Race

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Oct. 21 (AP) -David Pearson won the pole position today for Sunday's $115,000 American 500 Grand National stock car race.

-- Pearson piloted his Mercury around the 1.017-mile NNorth Carolina Motor Speedway oval at an average speed of 139.117 miles an hour, fasetr than the track record of 139.048 set by Bobby Allison in 1970.

Dave Marcus qualified his Dodge for the other front row spot with a speed of 139.006 m.p.h. Second row qualifiers were Buddy Baker at 138.795 m.p.h. in a Ford and Richard Petty at 138.727 m.p.h. in a Dodge.

Allison had only the seventh fastest sped at 138.063 m.p.h. in a Mercury. Cale Yarborough, on the verge of clinching the season driving title also had a disappointing run. He was ninth at 137,725 m.p.h. in a Chevrolet.

Talk of the Series

Pure, No-Frills Talent Key to Reds' Success

were Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Dave Concepcion, who still batted in 234 runs. They stole 210 bases in 267 attempts, which is 4 for 5. And before Mickey Rivers did it last night, before Mickey Rivers did it last night, oobody had stolen a base on Bench in 26 straight postseason games going back to Oct. 15, 1972, when Matty Alou of Oakland somehow made it. But to the people around town who play with the Cincinnati Reds or against them, or who are grateful they don't, here are some reflections on the Big Mean Machine in our midst:

Mike Burke, the symbol of Yankee hopes during the 12 years of "re-building" and now the symbol of Madison Square Garden: "They compare favorably with the best that's turned up in any sport. Tremendous talent, with that wonderful ingredient that success brings to individuals ent that success brings to individuals on such a team—the veneer of success that's visible and almost tangible, in whatever sport.

"They have the carry-on of a champion. The way he walks, the way be postures himself. It's distinguished."

guishable, and they have it."

'We Are No Fluke'

Sparky Anderson, their manager for the last seven years of success: "I've wanted to win this Series to show people we are no fluke. We didn't play particularly well last year against the Boston Red Sox. So we wanted to show that this team is one of the greatest of all time."

Gary Nolan, who pitched last night for the Reds, two years after sinking to the minor leagues with a damaged sboulder: "Our pitching staff doesn't have any Tom Seavers, Catfish Hunt-ers or Walter Johnsons. But you've got guys who play every day like Johnny Bench, Tony Perez, Joe Mor-gan and Pete Rose, who's probably the greatest ballplayer I've ever

Larry Bowa of the Philadelphia Phillies, after the Reds had swept three playoff games for the pennant:

"They're too much." Thurman Munson of the Yankees, after the Reda had swept the first three against New York: "You give a team like that four mistakes, you might as well go home."

Red Schoendienst, who lost his job as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals after 13 years of grappling with the Reds: "You make one mistake against a team like that and you're gone. If you check their power, they'll run you to death. If you check their running, some guy will hit one out in the bottom of the ninth."

They Bring Out Weakness

Joe Morgan, who can run or hit one out: 'This club brings out the weaknesses in teams."

Joe DiMaggio, who knows about greatness in the game: "A beliuva team, They do everything, They hit the ball. They run. They are tough on the fiald. From the top of the order to the bottom, they can hurt

Even guys who don't play regularly can hurt you. Last year, they moved Pete Rose from left field to third base to make room for George Foster, who promptly hit .300 with 23 home runs this year, Foster hit .306 with 29 home runs and knocked in 121. Now they may have to trade Tony Perez to make room for Dan Driessen, the first and foremost designated hitter in National League history, and they could even use Perez to acquire more pitching.

"I'm not going to push too hard," said Driessen, showing that veneer of success that Mike Burke and all the others spotted in the Cincinnati Reds. "My day is coming."

Knicks Down Lakers in Opener; McMillian and Bradley Are Stars

brought them to the fourth period with a 75-70 lead. Bradley hit six straight shots and Frazier had six assists in that seven-minute stretch, and the same combinations were effective (with Monroe spelling Frazier) until the Knicks had a 95-82 margin with five minutes left.

It got close after that, as some fouls, misses and a little carelessness let the Lakers get to within 97-95 with 1:15 to go. But a spectacular pass by Frazier to Gianelli for a layup made a 5-point margin with 53 seconds left, and the Knicks were safe.

Abdul-Jabbar wound up with 29 points and 17 rebounds, but his early scoring was nullified by Haywood's outside shooting, and Gianelli, playing him in the second half, contained him pretty well Monroe, who had bad marksmanship in the first balf, caught fire in the second and turned on the crowd. He scored 21 points. Frazier had 14 with 12 assists, McMillian 18 after a 2-point first half, Bradley 16 on 8-for-10 shooting, and Haywood 14.

"We played good basketball," said Holzman afterward. "Even if we'd have blown the game at the end, which would have ben a shame, you'd have to say we played well. The two small forwards give us lots of movement, and we've never had anything like that combination in the past."

The Lakers, despite the presence of Kareem, have some problems and their debut under their new coach, Jerry West, was disappointing. The Knicks

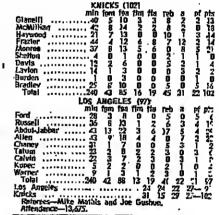

Amen Corner Is Victor At Penn Horse Show Special to The New York Times

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 21-Amen Corner could do no better than a second-place finish in the stake tonight, but won the first-year green working hunter championship by a narrow margin at the Pennsylvania National horse show.

With Terry Rudd riding, the 6-yearold chestnut mare, owned by Kay Hayes, scored 10 points to 8 for Kim Hattis's In the Black, the reserve champion who captured the stake. Ira Zhnmerman was up on In the Black.

Alex Dunzif, who won the national Maclay Trophy championship two years ago, piloted Sudden Death to victory in the mateur-owner jumper event, beating out Peter Strauss's In-dian Spring and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Blunt's Tinker Toy.

Knicks' Box Score

will face stronger teams later, but the quality and style of thei play in the opener was cause for encouragement

Rockers 120, Hawks 104

ATLANTA, Oct. 21 (AP)-Rudy Tomhanovich exploded for 14 points in the final period, including 11 in a row, to lead Houston to a 120-104 victory over Atlanta tonight,

The Hawks were paced by John Drew's 29 points, 14 in the first period. Houston led, 73-60, in the third period. but Atlanta came back with 11 consecutive points. From there on it was all Tomjanovich, who wound up with 20 points. Mike Newlin paced the Rockets with 33.

Racing Career Ended For Foolish Pleasure

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21 (AP)—Foolish Pleasure, the winner of the 1975 Kentucky Derby, has run his last race. John L. Greer of Knoxville, who owns the horse, said today that Foolish Plessure would be shipped from New York to Lexington, Ky., next week. Foolish Pleasure will stand at s'ud at Greentree Farms beginning early next year. Green said Foolish Pleasure would probably have a farewell gallop around the Keeneland track in Lexing-

Greer, a bakery executive. $20,000 for Foolish Pleasure at a year-ling. The horse made 26 starts and earned $1,216,705. The colt won 16 imes, was second in four races; third n three and ran out of the money three times. Foolish Pleasure was sired by What A Pleasure and his dame as ool Me Not. The General 'Clarifies'

It is deplorable that the personal services of Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld were required to police a news conference at which Gen. George S. Brown, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, "clarified" the ill-considered swings be had taken at a number of this country's allies and the wisdom of American military policies.

There is no need here to recount the general's murky judgments, expressed in the course of a soon-to-bepublished interview, concerning Israel, the Arab nations, Great Britain and Iran, or to try to reconstruct the real meaning of his answer to a question about America's "stomach" to resist the Soviet Union. Disconcerting as these comments seemed in the original, they gained little in clarification. When General Brown originally characterized American support of Israel as "a burden," it was fair to ask whether this country can support any ally without incurring a burden. Should the Marshall Plan have been so depicted?

By the same token, General Brown's latest assurance of his "personal commitment" to protection of Israel's security and survival is essentially irrelevant; American policies are not subject to the "personal" commitments of military officers.

What is troubling about General Brown's public statements is that they appear to fall into a pattern that suggests a mind dominated by ideological rigidities. Two years ago, the general was reprimanded by President Ford for highly questionable remarks about what he' considered excessive "Jewish influence" on national policies. Now, be has delivered himself of views that can best be described as simplistic admixtures of military and political judgments.

It is distressing that the nation's highest-ranking military officer finds it so difficult to understand and accept the wisdom of a rule, reinforced by tradition, of keeping the military out of politics. It would be alarming indeed if a general's ideologies could become reflected in the nation's defense posture and policies. In the end, this is a far more serious matter than the nuisance of a general who talks too much.

Productivity, T.A. Style

In the flap over transit budget shortages and a threatened fare rise, which appeared to recede yesterday, a hidden problem at the Metropolitan Transportation Authority has been overlooked—a deceptive misinterpretation of productivity that could further penalize the public.

Sidney Schwartz, the state's special deputy controller for New York City, has been investigating M.T.A. compliance with an Emergency Financial Control Board order issued last May demanding that the cost-of-living pay increases awarded to transit workers be tied to measurable savings through productivity. His studies so far. Mr. Schwartz says, indicate that a substantial portion of the saviogs claimed by the M.T.A. for COLA offsets are derived not from productivity gains but from service cutbacks-notably increases in headway between trains at peak hours on both the BMT and Independent lines.

Such a "solution" would be contrary to the Control Board mandate that savings to support pay increases must be realized "without reduction in services." It would impose a penalty of severe inconvenience on the transit-riding public, which already had suffered wholesale service cutbacks under M.T.A. Chairman David L. Yunich's earlier "productivity" program.

Productivity can only be interpreted to mean more service from the same work force or the same amount of service with fewer employees. Unless the M.T.A. can come up with real productivity savings-in addition to those already needed to balance the budget-COLA payments for transit workers should be suspended.

Legitimacy in Peking

Enough evidence has accumulated to suggest that a relatively moderate segment of the Chinese leadership, under Hua Kuo-feng, has consolidated power in Peking by imprisoning or otherwise removing from the contest the radical left leaders, notably Mao'a widow, Chiang Ching. Great masses of people have been brought out into the street to celebrate Mr. Hua's triumph. Peking's official news agency has even transmitted a statement that "Chairman Mao taught us never to take pity on evil snakes . . . who show their poisonous fangs or who have changed into beautiful women."

Among foreign analysts, consensus is beginning to build up that Hua Kuo-feng may abandon the strange practices symbolized by the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution, and that China will settle down instead to soher economic development with stress on more conventional education and industrialization. Such ahighly pragmatic regime would probably attempt to improve its relations with Moscow to permit a reduction of that high state of readiness against military attack from the north which Mao regarded as essential.

While China may eventually follow such a course, it seems premature to accept this forecast without continued attention to alternatives. The ontside world knows little about Hua Kuo-feng. The problem of legitimacy in Peking remains in the balance, For all the jublication in the streets, the question of Hua's justification for donning Mao's mantle and assuming Mao's eminence is not fully resolved.

Mao Tse-tung provided a sacred dogma for Chinese Communism and was elevated before his death to the status of a living god. Hua Kuo-feng was an obscure figure-virtually unknown outside the leading circles in Peking-until less than a year ago. He appears to be the beneficiary of the historical accident that Chou En-lai died some months before Mao, allowing Mr. Hua to occupy the key spot in the Government when Mao died.

Many of Hua Kuo-feng's associates undoubtedly question his claim to the power and position he has now assumed. Mr. Hua's efforts, once his seizure of power is completed, will most likely be aimed at legitimatizing his primacy. Until his tactics and strategies emerge. China's internal and foreign policies remain an enigma.

Congress: New York

The Senate

The focus of the election campaign in the New York metropolitan area-beyond the Presidential race-has been on the Seoate contest between Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Democrat, and James L. Buckley, incumbent candidate of the Republican and Conservative Parties.

Senator Buckley's record in the Senate has been among the most benighted in that chamber on practically all social legislation and, contrary to the general belief, only moderately better on environmental issues. He has been peculiarily insensitive—with his extremely conservative philosophy-not only to the needs of the most hardpressed of his constituents but also to the interests of the state's greatest city.

Mr. Buckley's election six years ago, with 39 per cent of the vote, was a fluke that needs to be undone-and Mr. Moynihan will doubtless succeed in undoing it despite the State Supreme Court ruling yesterday removing his name from the Liberal line. Mr. Moynihan voices an intense commitment to human welfare that Senator Buckley lacks. He bas tried to heal the wounds of a lacerating primary by concentrating on the social and economic issues and putting them in perspective. In his erticulate way, Mr. Moyniban has committed himself. to policies that are designed to advance the social progress of the country as a wbole and the economic salvation. of New York.

The House New York City

The only Congressional district in New York City where the contest for member of the House of Representatives this year is close and where there are also significant differences in the contenders' positions on major issues is the 23d, which includes some of the North Bronx as well as parts of Westchester. Here two thoughtful state legislators of more than average competence are fighting it out: J. Edward Meyer, until. recently a Republican but now the Democratic nominee, and Bruce F. Caputo, a Republican moderate even though he also has the endorsement of the Conservative Party. Both are men of integrity, but on the basis of issues—especially the question of a constitutional amendment on abortion and gun control-we give our strong preference to Mr. Meyer.

Elsewhere in this beavily Democratic city all incumbents appear to he sure of re-election, which is not to say that they all deserve it. Those who clearly do, in our opinion, are: Lester Wolff (6th), Joseph P. Addabbo (7th), Benjamin S. Rosenthal (8th), James H. Scheuer (11th), Shirley Chisholm (12th), Stephen J. Solarz (13th), Frederick W. Richmond (14th), Elizabeth Holtzman (16th), John M. Murphy (17th), Edward I. Koch (18th), Charles B. Rangel (19th), Herman Badillo (21st), and Jonathan B. Bingham (22d)

The seat left vacant by Representative Bella Abzug in the 20th District is being contested by Theodore S. Weiss (D-L), Bernard Ploscowe (R) and Herman Dinsmore (C). On the basis of his excellent record in the City Council, we have no hesitation in endorsing

The Suburbs

In the immediate metropolitan region east and north of the city, politics are more varied and election often less certain.

The closest contest in the entire state is expected to be in the Third District, straddling Suffolk and Nassau Counties. The seat was captured from the Republicans two years ago by Jerome A. Ambro, then Supervisor of the Town of Huntington. Mr. Ambro has earned high marks in his first term not only as a sound legislator but also for his leadership role in that group of freshmen Democrats who did so much to reform the House. He strongly merits re-election.

The Second District, Suffolk County, has been changed from a conservative Republican citadel to a politically unpredictable district by the work of Thomas J. Downey, who at 25, carried it for the Democrats two years ago. Mr. Downey's first term has likewise been marked by independence and good judgment. We endorse him.

Representative Otis G. Pike, Democrat, who is believed: to be assured of re-election from the First District, deserves special commendation for the record he has compiled in the House. We likewise endorse Gerald P. Halpern. the Democratic-Liberal challenger to Representative Norman F. Lent, the Republican-Conservative incumbent in the Fourth. Mr. Lent's voting record on social issues has been overwhelmingly negative.

An uphill fight is being waged by former Representative Allard K. Lowenstein (Democrat-Liberal), who is trying for the second time to replace Representative John W. Wydler (Republican-Conservative) in the Fifth District. Mr. Lowenstein's record, in Congress and out, has been bold and innovative in striking contrast to that of the incumbent. It would be good to have Mr. Lowenstein hack in the House.

Aside from the 23d District, mentioned above, there are no decisive races in the metropolitan region north of the city. We feel, however, that a special word of endorsement is due Representative Richard L. Ottinger, the Democratic incumbent from the 24th District (Eastern Westchester). Mr. Ottinger has made a major contribution as one of the first and best environmentalists in

Letters to the Editor

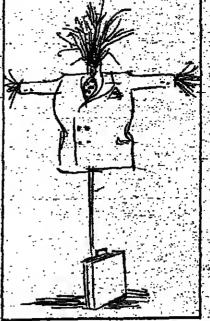

'We've Become a Cynical People'

To the Editor.

On Sept 26, The Times ran an article by Robert Reinhold indicating that scarcely half of the American voters are expected to go to the polls on Nov. 2: As Mr. Reinhold indicated, one of the explanations now in vogue for this low turnout is that after Vietnam, Watergate and "other political rot," the American voter is disenchanted alienated and uncertain that voting makes a difference. I think that this explanation needs elaboration.

Americans, particularly the post-World War II generations, are increasingly aware that they are not, in that renaissance view of the world, masters of their own fate. Ours is an urban/ suburban existence, increasingly dependent on a technology which increasingly fails us. Our Government has become a massive bureductacy which specializes in endless regulations and the form letter. Our life styles are characterized by efficiency games. We're in a big hurry, and have time for nothing. We travel everywhere, but see our land only through the window of a car or while taking off in a plane. We've all become speed readers; we can spot the crucial information on a page and move on to the next. Our political candidates are packaged in bright colors, labeled in big letters and distributed in the media market for us to buy, along with deodorant and processed food. It's no wonder we're disenchanted; we've forgotten how to live.

Perhaps this country needs its own form of cultural revolution. Congress, for example, could issue any interested citizen a backpack, a pair of hiking boots, a three-month rail pass and a copy of "The Federalist." We can take walks down our dirt roads and see where we live. And we can read about the origins of our Government Perhaps we should also create our own kibbutz system. We can set up all across the country agricultural and urban kibbutz-style communities. Those interested, both young and old, could sign up to work in them. And in our urban areas we can build a system of newer, better and more. numerous neighborhood centers. Our political candidates would be cordially invited to visit them. These could also be the focal points of a national debate on such issues as education, environment, energy and the continued life of our cities. If Americans are cynical about politics, it's because we've become a cynical people in general. And both the root and the cure of that cynicism lie within ourselves.

JOHN H. CROSS Medford, Mass., Oct. 4, 1976:

Of Black Families

To the Editor:

Herbert Hill, criticizing my Sept. 29 Op-Ed article on Herbert Gutman's The Black Family in Slavery and Freedom" [letter Oct. 12], finds I am "dismayed" because it allegedly "demolishes" what I wrote about New York blacks in "Beyond the Melting Pot" in 1963. He has imagined the dismay: I praised Gutman's book.

It is in any case scarcely relevant to what I wrote, since Gutman's research ends in 1925, and my concern was with the ethnic communities of New York in the 1960's. That I (and later Moynihan) also made brief reference to the most authoritative research of the time on the black family in slavery, the work of the great black sociologist B. Franklin Frazier, requires no apology.

But most important, Hill presents a farrago of irrelevant statistics designed to obscure the issue raised by the contrast between the stability of the black family until 1925 as Gutman describes It and the disaster that struck it in the cities of the black economic position improved in the 1960's. The fects are deadly clear: Throughout the 1960's and 1970's unparalleled proportions of black families broke up and of black children were born illegitimate.

We can and should discuss the role employment in this disaster and what can be done about it. But Hill makes himself, ridiculoos when he denies it NATHAN GLAZER Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13, 1976

On the G.A.O.'s Expertise

To the Editor:

Based on my experience with G.A.O. I had come to the conclusion the organization was expert in one area only: grabbing headlines. The report on the Mayagilez incident reinforces that view.

For years the G.A.O. has been very adroit with after-the-fact criticism of executive-department purchasing practices and management decisions (while carefully avolding any comment on padded payrolls and bribery. in the legislative, branch). Its. accountants have aptly demonstrated knowledge of the cost of everything and the value of nothing.

The opportunities to G.A.O.'s gallant defense of the-public purse must be lessening. To keep its them overnight into "crisis management" experts. Becoming experts in the accounting field would be a better and wiser alternative.

PETER G. RUTLEDGE Lieut. Colonel, U.S.A.F. (Ret.) Baldwin, L.I., Oct. 7, 1976

Arabs vs. Palestinians

To the Editor:

Ruth D. Terzaghi's Oct. II letter elevates distortion and misstatement to new levels. She sees hypocrisy in public outrage at ects of international terrorism by Palestinians and others.

Ms. Terzaghi, obviously not among us hypocrites, would have us believe that the selective murder of civilian women and children, planted bombs in crowded market places, the slaughter of Israeli athletes in an international Olympic arena, hijacking of commercial flights and subsequent acts of terror and carnage should be balanced against official Israeli behavior, which she blithely misrepresents, citing as her support the words of Noam Chomsky, whose ideology on Middle East issues consistently clouds his reason.

Contrary to the writer's assertion, the cause of the conflict lies in the refusal of Arab states in the region not only to recognize Israel but also to help their own Palestinian brothers. Palestinian leaders themselves, abetted by Arab governments, have conspired to keep their people in refugee camps for political purposes. Israel consistently has offered to assist Palestinian refugees and to help in a solution to their problems. How can Israel assist . or help a people or a nation which does not even recognize its right to exist and works dilligently for its destruction? I wonder if Ms. Terzaghi would alter ber opinion if a close friend or relative of hers were an innocent victim of indiscriminate terrorist attack. · KURT KELMAN

The Road to 'Certain Death'

To the Editor:

I read in the Oct. 10 Times that our men in the Pentagon are getting ready to spend $30 billion for the development of an ICBM that will enable us to make a pre-emptive strike against Russia. Don't those geniuses know that about one week after we might wipe out the Russians the radiation would spread and wipe out the rest of the world? A week after the Chinese exploded just a single bomb, our children are drinking milk with radioactive fallout from that bomb.

Ten years ago scientists had predicted what is happening today to the ocean off New York City and the Jersey shore. It is an ocean being destroyed by raw sewage. The air in New Jersey contributes to New Jersey's leading the country in death by cancer. When are our leaders going to wake up and lead us to life instead of certain death?

Following are excerpts of a Mika Wallace interview with the Shah of Iran, Mahammed Riza Pahlevi, that will be seen on "60 Minutes". Sunday at 7 P.M. The full transcript was made nvoilable by CBS.

Wallace: The Shah of Iran is one of the most powerful men in the world. His oil, his ambitinn and his growing military muscle make bim that Iran, he vows, will be the equal nf any Western European nation before annther generation has passed. "60 Minutes" made its yearly pll-grimage to the Shah's palaca in Teheran to canvass the Royal views on assorted topics. Wollace: Surely, Your Majesty.

you're not telling me ther the Jewish lably in the United States pulls the strings of the Presidency? Shah: Not entirely. But, I think, even a little too much, even for Israel interests. Wallace: You think the Jewish lobby in the United States is too powerful for the interests of Israel?

Shah: I think so. Sometimes they are disserving the interests of Israel. Wallace: Explain . . . Shah: Because they're pushing around too many people. Wallace: How do you mean "pushing arnund"?

Shah: Well, pressuring. They bave many means at their disposal. They are putting on pressure on many, many people. And at the end, I don't think that it will even help Israel.

Wallace: Why, if this is true, why would the President of the United States pay attention to that lobby? Shah: They are strong.

Wallace: Strong in whet sense? Shah: They are controlling many Wnllace: Controlling what? Shah: Newspapers . . . medlas . . .

Wallace: Your Mejesty . . . Shah: Banks . . , finances and I'm going to stop there.

Wnilace: Well, now, just a second. You really do believe that the Jewish community in the United States Is that powerful? They make the media reflect their view of foreign policy? Shah: Yes.

Wallace: They do not report, we do not report honestly?

Shah: Don't mix things, please. I don't say the media, I say, in tha media they have people. Not the entire media. Some newspapers will only reflect their views, yes.

Wallace: Well, The New York Times, for instance, is owned by the Sulzberger family, who are Jewish. Are you suggesting that The New York Times is biased in its treatment of the question of Zionism, Israel's existence, the United States' relationship with the Arab world? :

The Shah, on Israel, Corruption, Torture and...

articles of The . New York Times written on this subject and draw the conclusion. You can put this through the computer and it will answer you. Wollace: What you're saying is, that yes, you do believe. Shah: Well, let's wait for the answer nf the computer.

Wallace: The Washington Post . . . ? Shah: The same. Wallace: The networks? Shah: Less.

Wallace: I must say you're speaking with your characteristic candor. Shah: Yes, if you like. I try to be candid. I have always been.

Wallace: He was evenhanded in his candor. Next, he turned to the Polestininns

Shah: The Palestinians, obviously, have the sympathy of many, many people. Many or most of the countries of the world, prosecuted people, stateless people looking for a home or something. You know, exactly like the sympathy that the Jews had when they were searching for a home. Wallnce: Right.

Shah: But, our good Palestinian friends must know that there is only a limit to where they can go and bully the world.

Wallace: "Bully the world?" Shah: Yes, by terrorism and blackmailing and this and that.

Wallace: You know perfectly well, Your Majesty, thet the leaders of the Arab world find the Palestinians as much a problem almost as the Israelis do. Isn't that a fact? Shah: What I can say is that 'they should really open their eyes, reassert their situation, and if there is a hierarchy and someone there in command-

Wollace: Of the Palestinians you Shah: Of the Palestinians. . . . To start a new policy. Beceuse the actual one is going to lead them nowhere. Wallace: With whom do they really have understanding? With Assad? With Sadat? With Husseln? Shah: That's a very good question.

Wnilace: They have none with any of these leaders? Shah: Not to my knowledge, Wallace: And they seem to be out of control? Shah: It seems so today.

Wallace: And what about the Arab ader who supports the Polestinians, the terrorists, with his oil money, Shah: I will have to put all the Muammor Quddafi of Libyo? Shah: He's crazy.

> Wallace: Ynu really believe that? Shah: Oh, yes, Nn doubt, the man is absolutely irresponsible and crazy.

Wallace: We moved on to the subject of Iranian money and tales of manumental corruption, bribery, even in the Ruyal family. Princess Ashraf is the Shah's sister.

Let me quote to you from a piece in The Washington Post: "A wealthy Iranian businessman says, Not e truck can move anywhere in this country. without a payoff going to Princess Ashraf."

Shah: Whn is this silly person who can believe that? Wallace: Why would you imagine this kind of thing would find its way into print? Shah: First, you like to print those things. You newspeople people, always must be sensational, And-Wallace: You're satisfied-Shah: One of your whipping boys, todey, seems to be us in this country. So, you go for these things. Wallace: But so many stories like this have proved to be true. Shah: They all were true except for my country. Wollace: Grumman was true.

Shah: Not here. Wallace: Northrop was true. Shuh: Not here.

Wniloce: Well, how are you so sure? How can you be utterly sure? Because you speak with such assurance that it is still not going on in other arms? Shah: The arms I choose. All the systems I choose. There is no need for middlemen.

Wallace: And they're not bribing

Shah: Well, hopefully not. Wallace: We turned to the Shah's secret police force, his F.B.I. and C.I.A. combined. They are called Savak, and they have a reputation for brutality. He acknowledged that he has Savak ogents on duty in the United States. And they are there for the purpose of checking up on Iraniah students? Shah: Checking up on anybody who becomes affiliated with circles, organizations hostile to my country, which is the role of eny intelligence organi-, psychological profile about you, sir?

Wallace: And they are there with the knowledge and consent of the United States Government? Shah: I think it is.

Wallace: Now, when an outfit like the International Commission of Jurists comes here end then comes out with a report saying that in spite of what you say, Your Majesty, turture continues?

Shah: How do they know? Well, they can't continue saying this. But, you are-they have even accused the -Great Britain of acting against the human rights.

Wallace: We're talking for the moment about your country. Shah: They are putting us in the same category.

Wallace: In other words, you're saying you do what every country does?

Shah: Sure. Why not? Wnllace: If torture is necessary, you forture? Shah: Not the torture in the old sense of torturing people, twisting their arms and doing this and that. But there are intelligent ways of ques-

Wnlloce: I talked-Shah: Not any more. Mayhe in the ald days, maybe.

Wnllace: I talked, just today, to a man whom I believe, who told ahout torture.

Shah: He was tortured? Wallace: Yes.

Shah: And you believe thet he was tortured? Wallace: Yes.

Shah: How meny years ego?
Wallace: Within—I want to be very careful . . . Not yesterdey. Shah: Ahh, well, maybe. I don't Wallace: The word has gone out to stop it?

Shah: To stop whet? Wollace: Torture.

Shah: But a long time ago, yes. Wallace: How long ago? Shah: Well, I won't tell you as you' don't tell me.

Shah: Yes. What is it? Wallnce: This secret study portrays the Shah as a brilliant but dangerous megalomaniac who is likely to pursua his own aims in disregard of U.S.

Shah: So how could I he your man, your agent?

Wallace: How do you mean?

Shah: Say guarding your interests? Wallace: Well, it says that the Shah is an uncertain ally. His dreams of glory apparently-Shah: Oh, ahh. I know. So you would like me to be your stooge? Wallace: Do you want me tn go on or shall I forget about this, Your Majesty? Shah: Well, if some funny points, why nnt?

Wallnee: So we want on to quote to him from the C.f.A. profile. His dreams of glory, it said, opparently exceed his ability to finance them. When his nil revenues run nut in an estimoted two decades he might use his new military power to seiza some neighboring nil fields. Wallace: A criticism frequently voiced hy American husiness people bere, particularly in the last year or two is this, Your Majesty: Iran does not pay its hills nn time. Goods are delivered, services are rendered, but they have to wait end wait for their money. Surely you don't have cashflow problems, Ynur Majesty?

Shah: This is very new tn me. Wnllace: Oh, I've heard this over and over again.

Shah: Why don't they write to me? Wnlince: Well, perhaps - perhaps . now that you're suggesting that they write to you they will.

Shah: Sure. Sure. Wallace: They say months and months and months go hy. Shah: I can't believe that Wnllace: There is no cesh-flow problem? Because you yourself confess that you are in deficit this year. Shah: I don't think so. I don't think so. But this is worth looking after. And, at least for once you're very useful that through you we can reach these people and say, why don't they write to me.

Walloce: You say, "At least for once you are useful." Why? I confess that I'm curious, why are you willing to sit and answer these questions? Shoh: Because I like this kind of provocations. It gives me the opportunity of clearing, clarifying things, that, unfortunately, are said and not

Boycott Baloney

By Tom Wicker

Good for the television networks. that they refused to be conned by the White House into airing Gerald Ford's news conference this week as if it were a solemn and privileged function of the Presidency. Coming only six days after a previous news conference, just two weeks before the election, and with no indication of noncampaign news developments, Mr. Ford's appearance before the press was patently political, a campaign event staged in the White House.

The networks might more easily and cautiously have taken the attitude that Mr. Ford, as President, could preempt the airwaves at will; and Jimmy Carter, the Democratic nominee, would have had no recourse but to complain. But in asserting their right to view Mr. Ford as sometimes a candidate rather than always a bead of state, network news executives took a notable step toward fair play and equalization of an incumbent's natural advantages.

Mr. Ford then proved them right by conducting a news conference de-vnid of any but the most political contest-as for example his confusing attempts to take some kind of credit for what he called "affirmative action" against the Arab boycott of American firms doing business with Israel. "Affirmative action" is not a phrase or a topic for which Mr. Ford has shown enthusiasm in other fields, and his claim for it in the boycott matter is as then as his civil rights

Last November, for example, when the political campaign was not well under way and Mr. Ford was not yet weighing every action in terms of its net effect on the voters, an effort was being made in Congress to provide money authorizations in advance for the next three years for the operations of the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice's Antitrust Division. In describing the paucity of resources in the Antitrust Division, the Senate committee report on the measure, dated Nov. 25; 1976, had this to say:

'The investigation ordered by the President of the alleged Arab boycott of certain U.S. firms is being staffed by only two antitrust lawyers one using 20 percent of his time and the nther 50 percent." That's neither action nor affirmative, amounting to the full-time services of less than one lawyer. And while It's true that the Administration has brought a suit arising from the boycott against the Bechtel Corlewyers working on that litigation, well-placed sources say that no hroader investigation now is being conducted. Even so, these sources say, the Justice Department is anxious to settle the Bechtel case out of court. Late last year-again before votes became peramount-Rogers C. B. Morton, then Secretary of Commerce, and a House Commerce subcommittee staged a long tug-of-war as to whether or not Mr. Morton would supply the subcommittee with the names of comparries that had reported being asked to participate in the Arab boycott.

Armed with a legal opinion from Attorney General Levi and the obvious backing of the President, Mr. Morton at first refused to comply with a Congressional subpoena ordering him to turn over the list of companies: then he made an offer, rejected by the subcommittee, to turn over the list on condition the subcommittee keep it confidential; and finally, under immediate threat of contempt of Congress proceedings, lie provided the nemes in return for the subcommittee's pledgs to handle it "in consonance with their asserted confidentiality."

None of this offers much support for Mr. Ford's claim to be the unly President since 1952 to do anything "affirmative" against the boycott. Nor does his outright misrepresentation, in the second debate with Mr. Carter, of the Ford Administration's 'successful efforts to defeat provisions in the Export Administration Act that would have required disclosure ni, and penalized, past compliance with the boycott by American firms.

Mr. Ford falsely asserted in that debate, moreover, that "because Congress failed to act" he had ordered the Commerce Department to "disclose those companies that have participated"-in the boycott. Actually, Mr. Ford had opposed Coogressional action; and the Commerce Department in fact is disclosing only the names of companies involved in the hoycott since the Ford announcement this month. Yet, at his news conference this week, Mr. Ford again made the false claim that he had ordered "companies who had participated to bave their names revealed." (Italics mine) Mr. Ford may be right that Jimmy Carter, if he is elected, cannot as easily as he claims put an end to the Arab boycott. But in more than two years in office, Gerald Ford seems hardly to have tried-until be discovered how badly he needed votes.

That could be the price by 1980. If the present trends continue, some hospital stays in the Greater New York area could cost an average of $450 a day by 1980. Certain hospital stays in Manhattan already cost $300 a dey.

What is Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Greater New York doing about it? We have a number of programs to help hospitals to attain higher levels of efficiency and contain costs. But another thing we can do is to save that room charge by treating people on an where a patient has minor surgery and goes home the same day. For several years now, we've paid more claims for out-patients than in-patients. Many of our out-patient benefits were among the first in the country. And remain among the best. So we not only save room cost, but patients can lead more normal lives at home.

How home care saves hospital dollars. Since 1960 we've been showing the whole country how home care benefits can save money and make patients happier. Under our program, a patient can leave the hospital earlier and recuperate at home. Petients get all the medication, equipment, and nursing they need. And they feel better because they're at home with their family and friends.

Getting second opinions on surgery: two heads may be cheaper than one. Would a second specialist's opinion on elective surgery reduce the number of innecessary operations?

A study cited by Congress indicates it might: board-certified specialists disagreed 17.6% of the time with the original opinion. Thus, while we're not prejudging the results, we're now making second surgical opinion available to "experience-rated" groups as an added benefit. Subscribers in these groups can get an opinion on elective surgery from a second specialist at no cost to themselves.

We are hopeful that this program will save surgery, money, and hospital use while improving the quality of health care.

The home "kidney machine" saves lives and saves money. We were the first Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan in the country to offer the new home hemodialysis equipment as one of our benefits.

Since 1972, we have made out-patient hemodialysis treatment plus actual in-home dialysis equipment available as one of our benefits. Kidney sufferers whose conditions are stabilized can now lead nearly normal lives.

And each of them can save about $20,000 Be informed. We need your help. We want you to become interested and informed.

Atom Industry Group Bids Network Use a Fictional Episode About Terrorists After Election

By LES BROWN

CBS-TV proceeded last night with a scheduled episode of "Hawaii Five-O" about a band of criminals who attempt to build ouclear hombs for terrorists, rejecting an appeal from the Atomic Industrial Forum to postpooe the program until after the Nov. 2 elections.

The organizatioo, a trade association for industries and scientists interested in the peaceful uses of ouclear power, objected to the timing of the episode because six states will be voting on initiatives to curtail the further development. of nuclear power within their borders.

The states involved are arizooa, Colnrado, Ohio, Oregon, Washingtoo and Moo-

Carl Walske, president of the organiza tion, said that the program "plays into the hands of the opponents of nuclear power," and he accused CBS of "taking a positioo in a highly political battle" by showing the program before the elec-

Mr. Walske characterized the program as "anti-factual and highly emotional." Episode Was Not Previewed

Spokesman for the organization conceded, however, that no one in the Atomic Industrial Forum had seen the episode before the telecast and that the judgments about it had heeo made from script informatinn secured from CBS personnel in Hollywood.

Vao Gordon Sauter, vice president of Vao Gordon Sauter, vice president of program standards for CBS-TV, said that the network had carefully reviewed the film after receiving the appeal and determined that it was "apolitical."

"There is oothing in it rhat bears a tangible relationship to the issues hefore the voters." Mr. Santer said.

The story involved the theft of plotooium by the baod and the deaths of several persons as a result of exposure to the persoos as a result of exposure to the chemical element.

Mr. Walske said that exposure to plu-tonium, if it occurred as described in the story, would not cause death.

Seen as a Chief Issue

He noted also that a chief Issue coothe noted also that a chief issue con-cerning the nuclear power legislation in the six states has been the fear that plu-tonium might he diverted from nuclear power plants by terrorists who would use lt for nuclear weapoos.

"We are not denying that that's a large coocern," said Carl Goldsteio, assistant vice president of the organization.
"The problem we have with the television show is that it makes diversion look ridiculously easy, as if there were no se-curity precautioos. It also makes it seem that aoy high school kid, with two frieods to help him, can huild a ouclear homb."

Mr. Goldsteio stressed that the Atomic Industrial forum had oot asked that the program he canceled hut only that it he deferred uotil after the elections.

"There is a large difference hetween dealing with this subject in a fictional context and in a news documentary or public affeirs discussion show," Mr. Goldstein went on.

'No Accountability' "When the issue is raised in a oews discussion program, it's usually handled quite fairly. But io fiction, anything goes. There's no accountability to fact or reason."

Mr. Goldstein pointed out that a recent made-for-television movie with terrorists taking over a nuclear power plant and that an advance story-line for a forthcoming episode of the ABC series, "Most Wanted," gave the plot as "a large American city threatened with destruction by highjackers; of a plutonium convoy."

He said that even a recent episode of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" in-troduced a character who was a plutonium terrorist.

He added that the Atomic Industrial Forum was considering filing a fairness doctrine complaint with the Federal Communications Commission

Church Council Group Will Consider Charges Against Archbishop Trifa

By GEORGE DUGAN

A special meeting of the 49-member executive committee of the policy making governing board of the National Council of Churches will he held in "about" 10 days to consider charges that the board harbors an alleged Nazi war criminal.

A decision to call the meeting of denominational leaders was reached Wedoesday night by the council's secior staff offiers after an eight-hour closed session at council headquarters at the Interchurch Center, 475 Riverside Drive. The council represents 30 major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations.

Archhlshop Valerian D. Trifa of the Rumanian Orthdox episcopate, a member of the governing board by virtue of his af-fillation with the Orthodox Church in America, has been accused of war crimes. Last year, Government lawyers filed suit to strip the Archbishop of his citizenship on charges that he persecuted Jews as a member of the Nazi Iron Guard. Denaturalization proceedings are under study by the Immigration and Naturaliza-

Archbishop Trifa came under attack hy Concerned Jewish Youth on Oct. 8 when the group disrupted a meeting of the gov-erning board for two hours with shouted demands for his ouster from the board.

Board Says It Lacks Power Two days later, the board ruled that it did oot have the constitutional power to oust one of its members. Irritated by what the Jewish young people regarded as a brush-off, the youths took over council headquarters for six hours oo Oct.

Since 'then, the issue has broadened to include reactions from Christiao as well as Jewish organizations. Warren Day, director of the council's news and informatioo department, credited Con-cerned Jewish Youth for "raising the coosciousoess" of the National Council.

The Orthodox Church in America, one of eight Eastern Orthodox denominations in the council, is expected to take up the issue next week. A move is under way to arrange a meeting between that church's leaders and Jewish leaders.

"If you want stained glass windows, I'll just paint them black, darling," Louise Nevelson, the sculptor, told Dr. Ralph Edward Petersoo, pastor of St. Peter's

But she didn't bave to. Dr. Peterson, who in 1975 commissioned Mrs. Nevelson to design a chapel for the Lutheran church's new building on Lexington Avenue, gave the sculptor a free hand. And yesterday, at a news conference, the impressive result was revealed —Mrs. Nevelson's "total environment" design for the Erol Beker Chapel of the Good Spephers.

"I trusted and here is the outcome," said the pastor jubilantly, standing before a scale model of the all-white chapel, for which Mrs. Nevelson hes designed everything from a giant cross to the priest's vestments. 'It was done because we believed in each other and

1 knew it had to be," He embraced Mrs. Nevelson, elegantly clad in e black floor-length gown and a fur-trimmed leather jacket, and she responded, "We are giving a gift to the universe.

The five-sided chapel adjoins the main body of the polygonel church, now under construction as part of the Citicorp Center at Lexington Avenue and 54th Street. The new church replaces the Gothic house of worship sold to Citicorp by the Lutheran congregation five years ego for 89 million, with the proviso that it would erect a modern structure as an independent part of the center.

Compared to Matisse Chapel

The first permanent installation of a Nevelson environment in New York City, the chapel is believed to be the only one in the United States completely designed by a major artist. It evokes inevitable com-parisons with the famous chapel at Vence, France, designed by the late Henri Matisse for the Dominican order in the late 1940's.

Named for the donor, Erol Beker, a Turkish immigrent who is a member of St. Peter's coogregation, the chapel is a composition of white painted wood elements mounted on each of its five walls. Its chief adornment is a large cross depicting Christ as the Good Shepherd, mede of white wood and gold leaf, on the north wall directly behind the altar. Dr. Petersnn described it yesterday as "one of the great crosses of our century." It has a great sense of the life force. "he said. "It goes back to the early form of the crucifix, reflecting an ultimete triumph over suffering

The 44-year-old pastor, who says unabashedly that his vision of heaven is "the streets of New York City," is noted for allying his church with the art and artists of the city. Sr. Peter's has held lazz vesper services for some time, and last year held a 24-hour musical celebration on what would have been the late Duke Ellington's 76th birthday.

Contains Theater Facilities

The new church will contain facilities for theater and dance performances, a jazz center named for Duke Ellington, a recital lecture room and a flexible space for informal social and cultural events.

The 11-year-old artist's design for the chepel will ultimately include its bronze doors, and she has also been asked to do a large tryptych for the courch's main sanctuary.

Three hanging wooden columns to the left of the altar, designed to move with the circulation of air, represent the Trinity, as do three large relief triangles on the east wall, placed together to suggest the spread out shape of a priest's vestment. (The real vestments designed by Mrs. Nevelson, still in the drawing stage, will be a collage of gold and silver fabrics with bead-

On the west wall, the Apostles are suggested by 12 square relief boxes containing the "found wood" elements with which the sculptor has worked for many years. A bighly abstract Cross of the Resurrection bangs on the south wall, and over the entrance to the chapel a five-panel relief depicts abstract forms

"Each part of the interior is complete in itself," Mrs. Nevelson said yesterday. "We're not looking to make a unity of a beautiful place, we're trying to create a place of joy, of celebration." And she added that she regarded the chapel's creation as one of the most significant events io her life es an artist. "I don't like words such as 'purity' and 'truth,' but may I use them?" sbe said.

By EDWARD RANZAL

The Finance Committee of the New York City Council, in an angry mood, refused vesterday for the second time to approve millions of dollars in lump-sum appropriations in the capital budget because members were unable to determine how the money would be spent and why it was needed.

Their voices rising, committee members castigated the Beame administration for sending the wrong experts to answer specific-questions about various projects, and charged Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin with illegally making an installment payment on two large computers for the Board of Higher Education when the appropriation for it hed not yet been approved by the Council.

Although only a few items of the hundreds being considered by the committee were in dispute, the committee put over until next Friday coosideration on all the appropriations after the Beame administration agreed to have on tap the appropriate commissioners and experts to detail the necessity to spend for specific

She had never been out of the United States, and rarely out of West Virginia, although she went to Baltimore once. She didn't have time any more for a career, she said, but she used to work at a soda fountain. Now she stays home and reads Harlequin Romances. "With-out my Harlequins," she said, "I sometimes think I'd go crazy."

Harlequin Romances are a series of novels—published in Canada by Harle-quin Enterprises at the rate of 12 titles a month—that account for about 10 percent of the entire paperback book publishing industry in North America. Last year, readers in 25 countries bought over 72 million Harlequin books, representing a growth rate, for the company, of ebout 400 percent.

There is a nationwide advertising campaign going on now for the novels and the pitch of one, aimed at eocour-aging supermarket chains to stock the hooks, is "Love makes the rack go round and the cash registers ring. There is also a monthly magazine called Harlequin that features such recipes as Welsh rarehit and scones, so readers can approximate the meals their heroines consume. As for the quantities of books devoured-if all the words in all the Harlequin romances sold last year were placed end to end, the publishers report, they would "pave an astral path which would reach the distance from Earth heyond Mars."

Owns 1,100 Titles The 2,000th Harlequin title—"Not hy Appointment" hy Essie Summers—has just been published. Many readers of the books write letters to the romance authors, and to the publishers, informing them that they have close to every Harlequin title ever printed on their

The Lare of Foreign Settings

One of the most appealing elements of the Romances appearing elements of the Romances appears to be their foreign settings. The Dance of Court-ship," by Flora Kidd, takes place in Bolivia, "The Scent of the Maquis" on Bolivia, "The Scent of the Maquis" on Corsica, "The Eye of the Sun" in Egypt. "I have nearly worn out a map looking up the locations of stories," said a reader from Jerome, Idaho.

Even more than the settings, though, it is probably the novels, heroes who inspire reader passion. Harlequin men have such names as Link and Blake and Clive and Bart, and may be de-scribed at first (like Jane Eyre's Mr. Rochester) as "moody" or "inscrutable." They also tend to be rich. "We had the experience in our foster care and adoption program with mentally disabled and disturbed childreo," said Jace Edwards, the director of Spence-Chapin. "We saw the problem increase, and we saw that with help we could get the children into the mainstream. The program, in the newly renovated town house, includes morning and afternoon sessions, with the mother (or father, when available) participating in the play and learning groups, as well as specialized and individual meetings with staff members. One session is specifically for parents.

"We are anathema to the old guard there," Mr. Phynes said. "Here there ere no secrets, everything is out on the table." He was referring to the Byzantine hilling methods and discounts prevalent in the decorating trade. "The customer gets our invoice and pays the hill."

The designer then charges the client a straight shopping fee. 'That's why our real fans are the younger designers," said Mr. Phynes.

PARENTS/CHILDREN

The Ugly Countenance of Acri

By RICHARD FLASTE

Acne is a malevolent disease that can scar-both physically and emotionally—the waning years of childhood. Yet it is often trivialized. Adults manteen-age years, so that the self-disdain that was rampant then emerges now only as a certain repugnance associated with the word, acne, and occasional scornful references to "pimple-faced kids." But to be of any assistance to children with acne a parent has to be both understanding of how disturbing the disease can be and it's also helpful to be aware of new thinking that debunks a lot of the old myths about such things as diet and face-washing.

Talking about how emotionally painful acue often is, Dr. Arnold W. Rachman, a psychologist who works with teen-agers, described it as "a dramatic symptom of the body identity crisis that adolescents go through—they're in a container that seems to be out of whack."

He said parents could aid youngsters having a hard time of it hy sharing with them in conversation what has already been shared with them genetically-acne is helieved to bave a bereditary link—and talk about those uncomfortable memories.

Another move he supports is taking the child to a dermatologist. Even if dermatologists couldn't help much, Dr. Rachman asserts that hrioging a child for treatment will at least show the child that the parents are working on his side.

It appears, however, that dermatologists truly can be helpful, using treat-ments that were either unknown or rare in the teen-age years of today's parents. Dermatologists say that they can reduce the disease in most cases to a level that leaves a teen-ager unemharrassed to do the important things, such as go to a party.

Still Incurable

But acne remains incurable: It is geo-erally initiated by increased glandular activity that produces oils that be-come trapped when the pores are clogged by dead skin cells combining with the oil beneath the skin. Bacteria act upon the oil and release an irritant that causes the inflammation.

Demnatologists attempt to keep "the fires burning low," as Dr. Albert M. Kligman, professor of dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania, put it the other day, by using antibacterial agents that seep beneath the skin or vitamin A acid, which prevents the formation of blocked pores. In more serious instances, they administer antihiotics orally (antihiotics that can be used on the surface of the skin have not yet been approved by the Food and Drug Administration). And in the worst cases, some doctors will attempt to peel the skin mechanically to unplug

What they will not do, in most cases, is advise that the teen-ager relinquish chocolate, french fries or anything elsethat's greasy or sweet.

It's not that they're especially in favor of children devouring fats and sugar. And if a youngster comes to Dr. Nancy Esterly, director of pediatric dermatology at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, determined never to drink another cola, that's fine with her. But, she said, "I don't think it's fair to prohibit children from eating what they want to without solid evidence that it does the damage, and so far here's no evidence that shows such things as chocolate hars cause acne." Nor, according to the dermatologists, do emotional problems—except that a youngster who is tense about his face may press it and pick at It all the time, which could spread the irritation.

Dirt No Culprit

Dirt does not cause acne either. It does not even cause hlackheads to he black; that seems to be more a reaction to exposure to the air than anything-

Continuous washing more than the recommended two times a day can, in fact, do more harm than good since it irritates the already assaulted face. Greasy preparations, the dermatolo-gists say, such as some cosmetics and cleansing creams can be Estate that they would accelerate the of the pores.

Most of the skin experts s wrong with the judicious usthe-counter acne products. L_ Shallta, bead of the division tology at Downstate Mediors said that "Clearisi and the a place. They provide cuve speed up the drying of lesion present; they do heal."

rooms. Or the building may not lend itself, because of fireproof construction and insufficient ceiling height, to the creation of duplexes and triplexes, which provide the required bedroom count better than single-floor apartments.

The ultimate question, however, is probably the financial one. Will banks provide permanent mortgages for conversions and rehabilitations, even with major tax benefits? In general the answer so far seems to be no, unless the bank itself holds the first mortgage and has been forced to start a foreclosure action, in that case, willingness to provide a new mortgage may be the only hope of salvaging part of the

The outstanding exception to this rule has been the Lincoln Savings Bank. Over the last two years, the Lincoln has closed $50 million in mortgages for so-called J-51 conversions in the city. In that period it was closing $280 million of mortgages altogether. Covington Hardee, chairman of the Lincoln, said in an interview that the sociological result of luxury construction in the city unhalanced by new mnrtgage financing in nider buildings would be a further polarization of the city's rich and poor.

The Lincoln has financed Mr. Rosenberg's conversions plus the 95 epartments that Harvey Katz and other investors are doing almost next door at 39-45 East 12th Street, and many others. It has been quite selective, and it "hasn't had a dollar of trouble yet," as one officer out it.

Mr. Hardee is oo less forceful than other bankers in decrying the contribution of rent controls over the years to the very polarization that long-term tax abatements are indirectly working to combat. By suppressing adequate rent increases as inflation took hold in the middle 1960's and early 1970's, the bankers say, rent controls strangled both the incentive and the expective of both the incentive and the capacity of many owners to maintain properties in a manoer that would keep them desirable to middle-income tenants.
They also thus led to bank losses, hardly an encouragement to additional mortgage lending.
The new factor is the decline of older manufacturing and office buildings in central and lower Manhattan, Many are et or near foreclosure action. In fact, the most promising residential conversions are those that are forced upon the lender to whom a failing property has reverted.

The rule of thumb is usually that the building is worth to the converter, or builder, about $5,000 to $7.000 for each apartment he can create. That may imply a loss far greater than many a mortgagee is easily willing to accept. The second critical factor is Isbor cost in the conversion. Usually the work is done with a combination of union and nonunion labor. Unemployment has been so great in certain trades that unions have dropped the scale already, but the developers say it is not enough.

At best for the city the tax abatements for converting existing properties are a palliative with significant but limited usefulness. The geographic limits have been to Greenwich Village, the upper East Side, and parts of the West Side, Cheisea and Murray Hill, all in Manhattan, plus a few properties in Brooklyn Heights. Even there, someone must take a loss—the bank that bolds the old mortgage, the laborer in lower wage rates, the city in taxes forgone. But for the neighborhood, there is the promise of upturn.

In the last three years, according to the Department of Sanitation, more than 140,000 cars abandoned in the city have been towed off to destruction or auction in this fashion, and the city has collected $1.5 million from this contract with private the opera-tors. In 1975, according to the Phlice Department, 83,201 cars were stolen in the city, of which 40,029 were recov-

Early this week the collection of parking tickets on the automobile in Corona vanished. At the local police station, the 110th Precinct beadquarters, nothing was known ebout it or the parking tickets.

At Police Headquarters, an inquiry raised more questions than it answered. These license plates, an officer said, should have been oo a Chevrolet station wagnn, unt on an Oldsmobile. No cer with those pletes had been reported

If a Car's Abandoned

Here's what to do if you wish to heve a car that eppears to have been abandoned removed

If it bas a license plate, call the police station and report the number of the nizte. If it has no license plate, call the auto recovery unit of the Department of Sanitation, at 125 Worth Street, at 964-1800.

Under the state law, a car cannot be considered abandoned if it bears a license plate. The Sanitation Department police may ticket the car for ille-gal parking, but they cannot the it

A Police Department spnkesman said that the department seeks to locate the owners of apparently abandoned vehicles to determine whether they had been reported missing nr stolen.

In removing abandoned cars or nhvious derzlict cars that are stripped. the Sanitation Department works with eight private towing companies. The towaway operators remove the vehicles to their nwn lnts, and if the ownership is not traced, the contractors may then sell the car for scrap or parts.

cinses after summer.

Gene Frantz, who works in an apartment house oo 57th Aveoue, where the blue car was parked, is baffled by the charmed life of this vehicle. On one day, he seid, the windows of eight cars were smashed. "My cs: was stolen from bere," he said. 'I found it. It was stripped. I don't bave s car anymore. It's impossible."

Donald Feis, who used to live in the area, moved after his car was stolen four times, once from a garage in bis apartment house

i used to have a store," he said. The thieves knncked me nut. When bikes were stolen they would show up around here. They were stripped. At night, driving around you'll see people working on cars."

Now Mr. Feis runs his husiness from a panel truck. Louis Mahtila, with his little girl, was walking down the street nn which he

"It is a problem for people here," he said. "They work herd for a car. It is hard to find a parking place in the street. And they have to worry about these this erect on 100th Street."

In a sense, the spot on 100th Street—where the blue car had apparently set a Corona record for remaining intact after acquiring more than twn parking tickets—is a choice parking location.

For on that side of 100th Street, parking is permitted all the time, except nn Thursday, between 8 A.M. and 11 A.M. This would mean that it was unlikely that this car got more than one ticket a week.

A woman pushing a food cart along 57th Avenue, in the vicinity of 100th Street, stopped to look et a red Corvair with a flat tire, the only car on that block on that side of the street. It was in violation of the no-parking regula-

"It bes tn be a stolen car," she ssid. "Stolen cars are quite common in this neighborhood."

A little while later, a man and his wife also passed the red car. The man's

'Maybe it's just a car with a flat. But this car wasn't here yesterday."

He declined to speculate on how long it would remaio in one piece.

Science Succeeds

Enriched Flavor breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into separate ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris discovered very special "key" flavor units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor'.

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is MERIT. At 9 mg., one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet, MERIT actually packs the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

9 mg."tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method

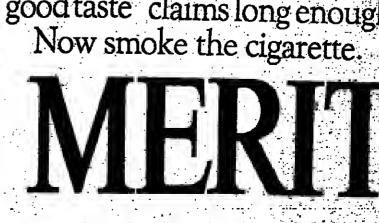

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

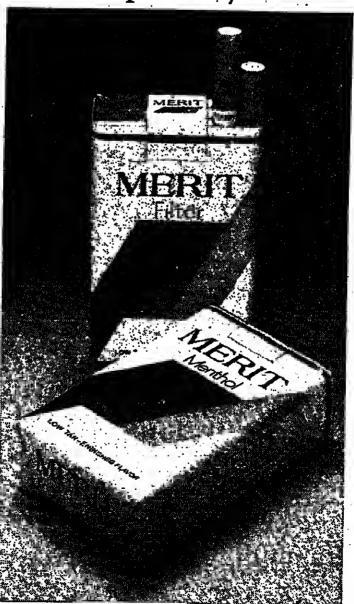

Up to 60% more tar.
If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste
9 mg. tar MERIT was tastetested against current leading low tar cigarettes ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The majority reported that even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT delivered as much—or more—taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

In the "Etudes," the composer was further guided by the map's colors and an abstruse numerology involving the number 64. This is the sort of shamanistic approach that sets conservative critics to grinding their teeth and has led many to dismiss Mr. Cage as a charlatan.

"Empty Words." a collage of prose and poetry that, on the printed page, looks like an interbreeding of "Finnegans Wake," E. E. Cummings and a runaway electric typewriter, is not likely to change the minds of these critics. They may easily discern in this seemingly chaotic mix nothing but the ves-tiges of avant-garde obscurantism of a generation or two ago. Whether Mr. Cage's own reading of the text clarifies it in any way should be interesting to discover, but experience with his read-ings leads one to predict that at least proceedings will be enlivened by a childlike charm and a gentle wit. While Mr. Valentl is seldom given to understatement, there does seem to be justification for optimism. There is an undeniable buzz of excitement in movie circles these days. Buffs who during the summer enjoyed "The Omen," "Silent Movie," "Murder By Death" and "The Bad News Bears," but have had little to rejoice about but have had little to rejoice about since, are suddenly becoming ecstatic, vocal and even quarrelsome about the brilliant; vividly violent "Marathon Man," the preclously stylized "Bugsy Malone," the politically infammatory "The Front," the raunchily chaotic "Car Wash," the conscience stirring "Memory of Justice." the brical "Memory of Justice," the lyrical, "Small Change" and the haunting "Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000."

So, will the movie buzz grow to a boom, or will it dwindle once again into the blahs? The following roundup of films scheduled to open here before the end of the year should provide a clue. This Sunday, two dramatically contrasting works will arrive in New York, "The Seven-Per-Cent Solution," Herbert Ross's intricately stylized account of an imaginary encounter between Sherlock Holmes and Sigmund Freud, will have its premiere at the Plaza. It boasts an all-star cast headed Williamson, Alan Arkin, Vanessa Redgrave and Laurence Olivier. On the other hand, Eric Rohmer's "The Marquise of O"-an austere German-language film which was praised at the New York Film Festival and opens Sunday at the 68th Street Playhouse-stars an enchanting unknown by the name of Edith Clever.

At least a dozen new films will open New York during the month of November. One of the most controversial promises to be Paddy Chayefsky's "Network," which takes a savage swipe at certain soulless folks who determine what you and your children are sub-jected to on the all-powerful home screen. The cast, under the direction of Sidney Lumet, includes Faye Dunaway, William Holden, Peter Finch and Robert Duvail. Anothec effort certain

SILENCE ON STAGE

The mime is Richard Morse; the company is the Richard Morse Mime Theater, and the performance at 8 tonight in Town Hall is supposed to be the first one that an American mime company has ever given in a major theater in New York. Mime has been flourishing bere for some time on street corners and in parks, and for the last five years Mr. Morse's company has been trying to flourish with it. In previous appearances about town the company has pantomimed things as diverse as a building threatened by "civic improvement" and de Maupassant's "A Piece of String." Moreover, Mr. Morse has performed three times with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, and next spring he is plan-ning to take the company to Greece and Israel. The tickets tonight are $4.50 and $3.50 for the general pub-

ANTIQUES IN DARIEN

Antiquing is at least a civilized pastime, and starting tonight you may indulge it at the Darien Community Association at 274 Middle-sex Road in Darien, Conn. The association has conjuted up 24 antiques weekend they will put on display silver, china, crystal, furniture, paintings and other fine old things. Admission is $1.75, and the proceeds will go to further the community association's good works. The hours are 6 P.M. to 10 P.M. tonight, and noon to 5 P.M. Saturday and Sunday. You may reach the community association bouse, which is called Meadowlands, by getting off the Connecticut Turnpike at exit 10 or 11, or the Merritt Parkway at exit 37. The Darien Community Association says it will post signs to help you after that.

New Comedy Gets Out-of-Town Test -On West Coast

NEW COMEDY by Ira Lewis called "The Sponsor," which will be directed and pro-duced by Jack Garfein, is supposed to come to Broadway early next year after trying out in California. More and more plays are trying out there, and now Westwood, Calif., will do for "The Sponsors" what New Haven might have done for it in the past. "The Sponsors" will run six weeks at the Westwood Playhouse, starting Nov. 24, and star Joseph Wiseman and Michael Strong. Mr. Wiseman was on Broadway last season in Elie Wiesel's "Zalman, or the Madness of God," while Mr. Strong was most recently out touring with Arthur Miller's "The Price." Mr. Garfein has been for years in Hollywood, hot when he was here he directed "End as a Man," and then the Broadway production of Sean O'Casey's "Shadow of a Gunman."

Once, the plan was that she and Anna Magnani would do "Mother Coorage," and another time it was that she and Vivien Leigh would do "Duel of Angels." Neither plan worked, and so Maria Schell got to Broadway only this week, when she opened in "Poor Murderer." This, she said, allowed her to "great in" meaning that "Boor Murderer." and other "sneak in," meaning that "Poor Murderer" had other stars, and so her name would not appear alone on the billboard. "A hullshot is supposed to be very good for energy," she said then. "Oskar Werner told me that." Miss Schell uses magnificent non sequiturs.

again," she says. "I have expectations. It is like having open arms to run into, like having a new love. Also, it is very wonderful to have my children here, giving them a wider view. In Germany, every-one in the theater knows everyone else."

Someone told Miss Schell that she was very pretty. 'Thank you,' she said, 'Now in America, you say, 'Thank you,' if someone tells you that. In Germany, you hang your head and are supposed to look girl-

Miss Schell hung her head and looked girlish. "I did film always," she continued, "but always with the fear that I lose the metier of theater. I would like as I grow older to do more theater. In film, the creative part is left to the actor. Marlon Brando—it is not what he says; it is how he says it. But an O'Neill play, it activates your whole spirit and personality. In films, you give. "I'm never mentioned he has been rather invisible. "I'm never mentioned on any list of playwrights hecause I'm an actor," he said. "I'm never mentioned on any list of actors because I'm a playwright." Mr. Williams, who is now doing his "Dylan Thomas Growing Up" at Theater Four on West 55th Street, has written, among other things, "The Corn Is Green" and "Night Must Fall," and has appeared on stage in, among other things, "Daughter of Silence," "A Man for All Seasons" and "The Deputy." Besides that, he makes movies; besides that, he directs.

"I suppose that as a writer you always hope that you'll do something imperishable, which I probably haven't," he said. "I hasten to add that I've never given an imperishable performance, either."

Mr. Williams did not look particularly upset, only urbane, he prohably always looks urbane.

"I've always directed my own plays," he said, "and I've never seen one of my own plays unless unless."

tage: 'The Innocents' Stars Claire Bloom

By CLIVE BARNES

How time jets. It is now a quarter of How time jets. It is now a quarter of a century since the English-speaking stage first saw William Archibad's play "The Innocents," based, somewhat clumsily, upon Henry James's short novel "The Turn of the Screw." In New York the leading role of the governess was played by Beatrice Straight, and I saw Flora Robson play it in London. A subsequent film verit io London. A subsequent film version had Deborah Kerr in this pivotal role of a woman who discovers two children who are possessed.

Last night at the Morosco Theater in a new staging by Harold Pinter, Claire Bloom emerged as the tortured Miss Bolton, the governess obsessed by other people's ghosts.

It is a remarkable novel, simply because James was able to suggest the presence of ghosts without actually making them tangible. In the book the ghosts hover around like mist; in the play they have to be given all too solid flesh. Interestingly, Benjamin Britten's later opera, "The Turn of the Screw," was a far more successful theatricaliza-tion of the story, because the medium of opera lent itself more to fantasy, and diabolic possession seems, in some way, bizarrely less melodramatic when

The story is simple enough. A governess come to a strange English country house. It is around the end of the last century. There are two young children, Flora and Miles. There is also a housekeeper, Mrs. Grose. And there are also two ghosts, Miss Jessel, a former governess, and Peter Quint, the late valet to the children's guardian. The ghosts are familiars. They don't speak, but they emerge in the shadows of stairs or the gloom of twilight windows. They seek to possess the souls of the children.

Oddly enough nothing much hap-pens. This tale of diabolic persuasion seems oddly mild to the theater, even though it is potent enough on the printed page. Ghosts, however eerily lit, never go down too well on the stage, except in Shakespeare, and even then we know them for what they are. Dramatic contrivances of the con-science. Here and oow, in "The Innocents" they seem obtuse and clubfooted, trampling through the play's atmosphere with a needless realism.

Certainly the original James novel had considerable atmosphere; one could hear a pin drop in the calculated tension of its narrative. The play does have some of this quality—much less, let me again insist, than the Britteen opera, which is a much more serious effort-but not enough.

Mr. Pinter has staged the piece with meticulously Gothic sensibility. Helped by Joho Lee Beatty's mysterious single setting (which manages, cleverly enough, to be both oppressive and at-Birtwistle's plaintively poignant music.

Mr. Pinter makes everything he can of the magic of suspense and the irony of dramatic contrast. It is most cleverly done.

Even the pace of the prose is given a wistful quality of sad, offstage music, and Mr. Pinter, particularly with his gifted children, tries to make the horror all the more horrific by stress-ing its commonplace core. But the play is not worth such attention. The mind recalls the subtlety of the novel and recoils. Yet what has been done has been well done.

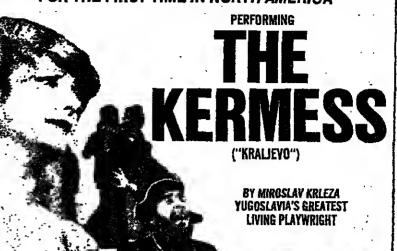

Claire Bloom never looks herter than when she looks Victorian. She has a kind of passionate placidity that suits the Victorian mode, and certainly here, as the puzzled, agonized governess, she looks and sounds perfect. Mr. Pinter almost sculpts performances to collaboration with his actors-we have seen him do this with Alan Bates-and here Miss Bloom does nothing extraneous and is perfect in every gesture and every nuance.

Mr. Pinter is no less successful with the children io dire need of exorcism, Michael Mackay and Sarah Jessica Parker, who with their delicately cal-culated oaivele paint a telling picture of unwitting evil, and Pauline Flanagan makes a decently stolid housekeeper. Catherine Wolf and Dino Laudicina are flittingly clusive as the housebold gbosts.

The question remains why it was thought interesting enough to revive the play. The taste with which the re-vival was accomplished is unquestionable, but when you have talents of the nature of Miss Bloom and Mr. Pinter on hand, merely to resuscitate a pedestrian stage adaptation of a great novel seems to savor something of folly.

Stuart Roseoberg's chronicle of a seemingly doomed boatload of passengers on a perilous journey from Nazi Germany, and Hal Ashby's "Bound for Glory"—the story of the folk singer Woody Guthrie, played by David Camading in "Grana of March" Carradine, in "Grapes of Wrath" territory. Then, at long last, it is possible that New Yorkers will see at least Part I of "1900," Bernardo Bertolucci's fiercely melodramatic sampling of Italian passion and polemics.

Perhaps this is the time to draw up list of must-see movies for the remainder of the year. Though, in truth, my last year's list was led off by "Missouri Breaks" and "Buffalo Bill and the Indians." And I thought "Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000" was the latest model off the Disney

The City Opera Comes Back Singin

By HABOLD C. SCHONBERG

Somewhat bloodied but still full of vitality, the New York City Opera weekend at the New York State Theater with two new productions. Theater with two new productions. Wagner's. "Der Fliegende Holländer" will have its premiere tonight at 8 and there will be a repeat performance tomorrow afternoon at 2 (a few seats available for both, $3.75 to $10.95). On Sunday at 7 P.M. comes the new "Barbiere di Siviglia," with Sarah Caldwell conducting and directing Beverly Sills as Rosma in the Rossini opera fall seats sold out). Thus the City opera (all seats sold out). Thus the City Opera hastens to make up for lost time. A strike of the orchestra musictwo weeks.

The strike scared some people stiff, and not only the personnel of the City Opera. This country does not have many important opera houses, and there were those who felt that the very existence of the New York City Opera was threatened. If the season had been canceled because of the strike, there was a good possibility, according to many knowledgeable observers, that the house respect to the hou servers, that the house never would have reopened.

For like all opera houses, the City Opera is constantly scrounging for

Opera is constantly scrounging for money to meet its ever-growing deficit. Cancellation of the season could easily have alienated donors or, at the very least, made it almost impossible to do any real financial or artistic planning. The feeling is that cancellation would have led to an interior that might have meant death. ertia that might have meant death. Would Have Left a Gap

In the operatic scheme of things, the departure of the New York City Opera would indeed leave an irrepa-rable gap. It is true that the company has come under some criticism in recent years. One faction strongly be-lieves that the City Opera should be an organization that avoids standard repertory completely.

What is the City Opera doing with "Traviata." "Meistersinger" or "Carmen," this faction wants to know. The Metropolitan does that kind of thing better. Rather, the argument goes, the City Opera should be doing Monteverdi, Berg, Britten and in general. should devote itself exclusively to a kind of repertory that the Metropolitan Opera never touches.

The castings and conducting staff of the City Opera have also come under criticism. At present, there is only one superstar on the roster, and she is, of course, Beverly Sills. Some believe the management coold make more streouous efforts to upgrade the overall quality of singing.

Yet, as one studies the year-in, year-out repertory of the City Opera, these criticisms have a habit of receding into the distance, The late Sol Hurok ooce described a balletomane as somebody who wants new productions and free tickets. Critics of the New York City Opera seem to ignore the fact that no opera house can exist on a repertory of unfamiliar stage works. And these critics also seem to ignore the fact that the City Opera still has the most adventurous reperiory of any or house in America and, very likely Julius Rudel, the manager of the Opera, has through the years can introduced an interesting mixture the familiar and unfamiliar. For a "Butterfly" there is a "Raby Doe" every "Cav/Pag," a "Makropo Affair."

Thus the City Opera clientele h much more interesting repertory does the clientele of Big Brother ac the Lincoln Center plaza. And, who must be pointed out that the City O has its own following and prothose "Traviata" and "Bohème".
formances at a considerably in price than the Metropolitan does.

Nobody is going to maintain that standards of singing of the City O at its best are equal to those of Metropolitan at its best. The bi house has the means to attract cream of the world's singers. Mr. Rudel, on the other hand, made his company basically an Ar respect cannot be underestimated. City Opera is a forum for the American vocal talent: Many City C singers, from Dorothy Kirsten the Placido Domingo and Sherril Mi have gone on to the Metropolitan C and great international careers Basically an Ensemble Company The City Opera does not like t called a junior bouse to the Metro tan. It has its own style, and cons itself hasically an ensemble come composed of the best American sir who also can act and are first-musicians. Mr. Rudel and his stal sist that they have a function different from that of the Metrope Opera. They are a more "democr house, willing to take chance, h table to the American compose April, they will offer the world mere of Leon Kirchier's "Lity."! on Saul Bellow's 'Henderson, the King"), with a following that least as faithful as that of the w politan Opera.

There is some liaison between two companies. In the old days dolf Bing used to turn purple a thought of the City Opera, espe on those evenings when both a nies were offering the very same. In the post-Bing era there has the realization that New York is than big enough to accommodate get together for discussions of tory, and there is some tradi singers. Basically, however, they independently. So if the Metropolitan Oper has the glamour, the City Open tinues to occupy its own olche w more adventurous repertory, its tion as a stage for American and its ability to provide on musiciovers who simply cannot Metropolitan Opera prices. In words, the New York City Op majos a supplement to the Melitan Opera in the best sense word, and has carved oot a place at a start way, itself that makes its continuistence mandatory.

"A CELEBRATION AND A JOYOUS ONE. MAGICAL AND BLESSEDLY -Jay Cocks, Time Magazine,

"★★★*! A MIRACULOUS ACHIEVEMENT." -Kathleen Carroll, New York Daily News

"It's magic time. An enchanting, disarming, thoroughly engaging montage. Do, do see 'SMALL CHANGE.' It's a love."

-Bob Salmaggi, WINS Radio

""SMALL CHANGE" IS A KALEIDOSCOPIC RHAPSODY. It is an act of love in the rhythms of art." -Jack Kroll, Newsweek

"This one is really for the whole family. Truffaut is a master of movie-making and he is able to charm you right out of your seat." -Walter Spencer, WOR Radio

"Lovely ... a rarity, a poetic comedy that's really funny."

-Pauline Kael, The New Yorker

"AN ORIGINAL, A MAJOR WORK... LILTING, MARVELOUSLY FUNNY. It's a labor of love with splendid verve."

At the Movies Guy Flatley

S A DIRECTOR, I'm 41; as an actress, I'm 35," said Joan Darling, an attrac-tive, lamentably unemployed actress who is making her debut as a movie director with "First Love," a romantic comedydrama about a fervent college student whose vulnerable heart is set on having an old-fashioned love affair, replete with ringing bells, moonlit embraces and vows of eternal fidelity. The film, written by Jane Stanton Hitchcock and David Freeman, is scheduled for Paramount production this January by Lawrence Turman and David Foster.

Strictly speaking, "First Love" will not be Miss Darling's first job as a director, A couple of seasons ago, the desperate actress—known by a select few for her diverting performances in such forgettable films as 'The Troublemaker," "The President's Analyst' and "Kansas City Bomber," as well as a featured role in TV's "Owen Marshall" series—summooed up the courage to corner producer Norman Lear and pitch the notion of a 90-minute special on Golda Meir, to star Miss Darling as the intrepid Israeli heroine. In one of those bizarre twists of showbiz fate, the persuasive Miss Darling eoded up not acting for the unpredictable titan of television, but instead directing for him—two half-hour pilots for an absurdly offbeat nighttime soap opera called "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman,"

Miss Darling went on to direct over 20 episodes of the iconoclastic hit show, as well as installments of such highly-rated programs as "M"A"S"H" and "Rich Man, Poor Man." Neophyte that she was, she never for an instant felt any pressure to prove her skills in a male-dominated medium. "Put it this way," she said. "My husband is 6-foot-4, and I'm 5-foot-3. Yet I always think of us as the same height. I'm a very task-oriented person. I've taught acting for the past 15 years, and therefore dealing with actors is my specialty. Coming from the improvisational Premise Players, I eocourage every bit of input I can get from the actors and the crew; eight beads are better than one. But the truth is that I love Playing boss-woman to a hunch of men can be something of a bonus. "I love men; they are half of my favorite people. I have a delightful time being on the set with 50 interesting men. You can hardly call that a bad job for a lady, can you? The feminists may kill me for saying this, but I like to flirt. It's fun. In the eod, it all comes back to what First Love' is really about—the relationship between men and women, and the roles society has determined we must play.

"The boy in the movie, Elgin, is a romantic by choice, something very unusual for the 70's. He wants to love in the tradition of Dante and Shakespeare. The girl, Caroline, is like many women today; she has a casual attitude toward sex. Io the past, women didn't believe that men could have deep emotional feelings. I used to think that way, myself; I feit I was always the one to be hurt when things didn't turn out well. But that hasn't turned out to be my experience. Men have a lot of warm feelings and they've had as bad a rap as women. They've been taught they can't cry, but that's all wrong. Gentle is good, gentle is sexy. It's much more sensual than macho."

Miss Darling, born Joan Kugell in a middle-class

Joan Darling, now a movie director "I didn't choose directing. It chose me."

Boston family 35 or 41 years ago, is married to television writer Bill Syance. "We have no children; the only children in the house are the two of us, and that's enough of a problem. At the moment, Eric Darling, my first husband, is also living with us. We all get along line. Eric gave me custody of his name because he said I had brought honor to it."

Both husbands have urged the budding director not to abandon her career as an actress. "I'm dying to act again. I'd like to play Madame Arkadina in 'The Seagull,' and I'm still eager to do Golda Meir. But, most of all, I'd love to play a woman like Margo Channing in 'All About Eve,' a mature and flamboyant person with emotional problems. She's a women, grown-up lady struggling to find a new identity, now that she is over 40. That's a rough age for an actress. Fortunately, I had the problem taken care of for me. I didn't choose directing. It chose pers, the Big Apple has turned sour, if not quite rotten to the core. Former partisans of Sunday-in-the-city can now be spotted puttering about Scars-dale gardens or zooming off to catch a second-run movie at a piggyback shopping-ceoter theater in the wilds of Loog Island.

Refusing to say die, the Committee in the Public Interest, a determinedly optimistic organization headed by Mayor Beame, will make an effort this Sunday to lure suburbanites and stay-at-home city dwellers down to the Elgin Cinema, at Eighth Avenue. and 19th Street, to see a quartet of films celebrating the glories of our melting-pot metropolis. Mint-fresh, 35-millimeter prints of "West Side Story," "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "A Thousand Clowns" and "Next Stop, Greenwich Village" will be shown for a total admission price of $2.50 or $1 for children and senior.

citizens, The program begins at noon, with the complete show running from 9 P.M. to 6 Head morning. According to the Eigin's manager is Gould, proceeds from the mini-festival will price the establishment of additional New Yo

Once the mad-for-Manhaitan weekend has the course, the Eigin will bounce back to its con inematic grab-bag policy, with a week that inel's "Viridiana" and "Externinating Angel of sawa's "Throne of Bhood" and Ideasal's "Madde Bergman's "The Magic Frone" and Russell's Music Lovers," and a triple header of Cha "Modern Times," "The Great Dictator" and "a in New York."

Moviemakers have rarely succeeded in sugge at mortals who put words down on paper are of the same flesh and blood as the remainder population. Recall, for painful example, the Rod Taylor as Sean O'Casey, Merle Oben Georges Sand, Fredric March as Mark Twain, He Marshall as Somerset Maugham, Danny Kaye as Christian Andersen, Michael O'Shea as Jack an George Hamilton as Moss Hart, Jeffrey Lynn as Kilmer and Ida Lupino and Olivia de Havild the Brotass.

Nevertheless, portraits of authors may sod on the screen. Tempted perhaps by the structure of "All the President's Meil" the structure of Journalists Carl Remote Bob Woodward—Hollywood is delving into the ten word and will soon deliver an assertion real-life versions of real-life writers.

The late Dashiell Hammett, anthor of the toughest crime stories ever published with prominently in two new films. In 'Rulia' his ing association with playwright Lillian Relimbe touched upon, though the primary focus Zinnemann's movie—based on Miss Hellman biographical 'Pentimento'—will be on here participation in the scheme of a for to rescue "undesirables" from Hitler's Jason Robards will be seen as Hammett, J. as Miss Hellman and Vanessa Redgrave a istic Julia. Rosemary Murphy will co son

"Hammett," Joe Gores's 1975 blender inction dealing with the cynical authorities late 20's—the years when he operated as incident investigating the thick layers of officialdom in San Francisco—has also hear filming. Cage's direct spiritual ancestor, Charles Ives, whose music prefigures that of John Cage. Both composers showed themselves fascinated by the interweaving of poetry, prose and musical sounds, by smultaneous and apparently unrelated happenings, and by the notion that a mystic oeed oot be a solemn bore. In Ives's "Concord" Sonata for piano, all these strains are present, not least in the movement called "Thorasu."

Anarchy and American Art

The passion for wildness and the yet-The passion for wildness and the yetto-he-structured present moment seems to be especially strong io a certain strain of American artist. In Europe, the revolutionaries in music during the last half-century have not been such anarchists. Schoenberg was hurrying to build his 12-tone techniques into a well-ordered government to replace the well-ordered government to replace the diatonic system even while he was helping overthrow that system. In European ing overthrow that system. In European art, and in American art with direct, unbroken ties to Europe, no vacuum can be tolerated: As one dogma falls, another is immediately propped up in its place. Continuity and tradition are valued, perhaps even more than the esthetic experience itself.

Tha American anarchists, who take Rousseau's ideas more seriously than Rousseau did, do not seem to abhor a vacuum. They do not fear it because they have lived in it all their lives. The obsession with Thisness and Nowness, the reluctance to consider a past or a future, the attraction to the sensuous present—all are familiar attitudes in present—all are familiar attitudes in American art. It would be strange if they were oot found in American music. Europeans have always regarded us as wild children, a random collection of people who have wandered out of touch with history. And that in a sense is what we are.

Why, then, shouldn't chance be the god of such a people, and why shouldn't that savage god have his prophets?

Thus, in the works of Thoreau, Ives and John Cage, we see a tradition at work that is peculiarly though by no means exclusively American: a worshiping of wildness, a romanticizing of the savage. No matter that Thoreau's Walden Pond was just on the outskirts of his native town of Concord. No matter that Charles Ives was a Connecticut commuter whose life was largely spent in prowling through the jungles of the Manhattan insurance husiness. And no matter that John Cage is a Leather-stocking whose tepee is a brownstone in Greenwich Village and for whom the thrill of the bunt comes in stalking the wary subsidizer of new music.

No matter, either, that Mr. Cage's elder colleague Virgil Thomson slapped him down hard a while back, proclaiming that his "aim with music, like Samson's in the pagan temple, has long been clearly destructive." Despite such criticism, which has followed Mr. Cage throughout his career, he continued to the continued of t ues to be a disturbing and leavening influence. His music may not survive to be classified and catalogued by the cultural botanists of the future, but for those in tune with its celebration of the passing moment; it exists; and that may be enough. John Cage is the high priest of Thisoess and Nowness, one of the oldest religions known to man, and the only religion Thoreau ever bent a knee to.

Rohmer's 'Marquise' Is Talk in Action

By RICHARD EDER

Eric Rohmer's universe is curved. His theater is in toward the middle of things. The passions in his films set off outward bound at a gallop. They approach an extreme, bounce, and soon they are back, trotting the other way. The tragedy turns funny, the comedy serious. The erotic is tangled in constraint—the hand that never gets above Claire's knee, the long night of weighing possibilities at Maude's. The escapes become returns.

Conversation is Mr. Rohmer's water beetle. Thought, conscience and emotion assemble and divide, shifting their proportions and their bite, in the work of this artist for whom talk is action and as filmable as a troop of horses. From this Sunday, New Yorkers will be able to see a new specimen of Eric Rohmer's speckled vision. "The Mar-quise of O," which was shown at the New York Film Festival to wide if not unanimous critical enthusiasm, will open at the 68th Street Playhouse. If it does as well as "Maude," "Claire," and "Chloe in the Afternoon," it will run a long time.

"Marquise" by rights should be a complete contrast to Rohmer's previous films. Those formed a series called "Moral Tales," which be wrote himself and which dealt with contemporary emotions in the most contemporary settings, "Marquise" is a film version—textually faithful to the point of deliberately including one grammatical error—of a short story by the earlyerror—of a short story by the early-19th-century German writer Heinrich von Kleist. In many ways—principally, perhaps, in the occasional feeling of being pulled along by a cast-iron plot that has a timetable to meet—it has obvious differences from the director's other work. Bot it is pure Rohmer.

Obviously an Affinity "Kleist didn't copy me," Mr. Rohmer said the other day, "and I didn't copy him, but obviously there is an affinity. When I started, it wasn't so clear, but as I worked on the picture, I realized bow close it was to Moral Tales." The director spoke in his Algonquin Hotel room. He was nursing a cold, which is about as close as he comes to personal public exposure. He is an eloogated man, beginning to look old at 55, and dressed in a plaid flannel shirt and brownish trousers.

Humorists are traditionally solemn in person, Interviewers traditionally re-port authors of violent action stories to he quiet and mousy. Mr. Rohmer, the master of filmed talk, is not an easy conversationalist. He is not taciturn; on the contrary, his words seem impatient to come out, but he insists on inspecting them, adjusting their nuances, before letting them go. Then they all rush out at once, stumbling and colliding. He speaks in bursts and ellipses. "Marquise" is about a woman who mysteriously becomes pregnant after a Russian officer, of the gentlest nature and highest principles, has saved her from being raped by his soldiers. Her family throws her out of their home, and she advertises for the real father. When the officer admits it was hehaving taken advantage of her in her sleep-and asks her to marry him, she spuras him on principle. Eventually, things work out.

Grand Speeches and Emotions

Kleist's story is cast in a mode of grand speeches and emotions, with the characters' feelings constantly colliding with honor, convention and so on. Yet nothing is quite carried through: Every flight stumbles comically or ironically. And without changing a word; Rohmer makes these shifts his own.

The wrath of the marquise's father is malterable; yet he is also a funny, susceptible old man, and he comes shuffling to her room one night, bubbling and weeping like a comic teaket-tle. The marquise announces lordly that she will marry anyone who are swers her advertisement. "Unless he is a scoundrel," she adds cautiously. She spuras the officer furiously, calls him a devil and throws boly water at him. The holy water catches her brother in

"There is an equilibrium between laughter and the pathetic, between the comic and the terrible, between the grotesque and the serious," Mr. Rohmer said. "It is something like Kafka," he added, recalling that the late Max Brod had written an essay comparing Kafka

In his films, Mr. Rohmer said, he tried to achieve an uncertainty of effect, on the border of laughter. "I'm not interested in making a story where the effect on the audience is predict-

The Serious and the Ridiculous "In that holy water scene, for exam-ple, there is a tension building up, a tension between the serious and the ridiculous, as she makes that theatrical speech and casts water at the count. And then we see the brother wiping his eyes. It allows the audience to laugh, but at the same time it purges them of laoghter."

After writing and directing the six films in "Moral Tales," wby had Mr. Rohmer decided to use a text that was already there?

"I think," he said, "that 'auteur' films, where the director writes out of his own experience and sensibility, have become increasingly frail. The films get longer and longer, and thinner and thinner. In 'Moral Tales' I think there was density of material, but they took me nearly 20 years to do. At this point I don't find myself capable of such a thing. such a thing.

"Also I wanted to perfect myself as a director. As a writer, my universe is very limited. I don't like to write violent scenes. I like to show people who talk. And by directing other texts,

Eric Rohmer, whose "The Marquise of O" opens on Sunday When he called for "torrents of tears," he meant it

I have an opportunity to work-with types of action that I am not capable of writing."

He intended eventually to get back to writing, he said. His next film proj-ect, though, which he declined to discuss, will be a story set in the Middle

use a classic text, Mr. Rohmer stuck to it with an unworldly thoroughness. For one thing, he spent nearly four years studying German, so he could do the film in German with German

"It wasn't simply the action I was drawn to, but the text itself," he said. "I didn't want to translate it into images, or make a filmed equivalent. I wanted to use the text as if Kleist had put it directly on the screen, as, if he were making a movie."

He deliberately chose German stage rather than movie actors. Their performance, incidentally, is one marvels of the film. How did he

"For one thing, I told them would trust Kleist. When he s the actor was to sit. When h for 'torrents of tears,' I didn mere weeping, but real torrents

Music: Fisher Hall Even Better on 2d Hearing

HE first subscription concert of the New York Philharmonic's 1976-77 season, in the hrandnew Avery Fisher Hall, took place last night and was devoted to one work-the Third Symphony by Gustav Mahler. Not even the glamour of the new auditorium was enough to overcome the handicap of a relatively unfamiliar and exceedingly long work, and there were many unoccupied seats.

Mahler's Third Symphony, wbat with a huge orchestra, a chorus and an alto soloist, is a good test for any hall, and since acoustics are still on everybody's mind, let's go to that first.

Whether it was a different position of the orchestra, which was pushed to the footlights to make room for the chorus, or whether the musicians are getting better used to the hall with every performance, the over-all sound was even more impressive than on opening night. For one thing, the strings sounded silken, and for another there was more of a throw from cellos aod hasses.

That coupled with the unusual clarity of the hall, provided a most impressive evening of pure sound. Fisher Hall handled the biggest climaxes with ease. One used to flinch in the old hall when the musicians began to approach a fortissimo. Now the listener can sit back and relax, with the comforting feeling that the orchestra's sound is going to come through undistorted. The string tone was especially impressive. The only question this listener had last Monday and Tuesday was the strength of the lower strings. But last night everything was in proportion. Dr. Cyril Harris, the acoustician, had said that there had to be a bit of experimentation, and the musicians of the Philharmonic seconded his remarks. It was clear last night that Pierre Boulez and the violin section were listening carefully for balances.

It can be pointed out ,too, that the solo voice came through perfectly. Yvonne Minton was the mezzo-soprano -the first singer to appear in the new Fisher Hall. She is a marvelous vocalist to begin with, and the hall perfectly reproduced her big, warm, luscious singing,

Many symphonies have nicknames. Mahler himself jokingly referred to this Third as "the monster," though that name has never entered the books. Depending on the conductor, it can run from 90 minutes to almost two hours. Back in 1961, for instance, Leonard Bernstein went through the symphony in about 98 minutes. Last night Mr. Boulez took 113. Most of the difference occurred in the last movement, which Mr. Boulez took at an unusually slow pace. But a miracle of his own he managed to hold it together. This was Mr. Boulez at his best-a musician who stressed coherence, an interpreter who shaped the music with well-paced tempos and with a cannye use of ritards and other devices to lend variety.

The interpretation had plenty of sentiment without being sentimental. Mr. Boulez has been known to go through a score in a manner more methodical than inspirational, but on this occasion he threw himself into the music. It obviously means something very close to him, and he was the complete master of the mixture of elements that go into this sprawling score—the mad march of the first movement, the dancelike "Ländler" elements of the second, the scaring lines of the finale.

The Camerata Singers and the boys' choirs (from the Little Church Around the Corner, Trinity and the Brooklyn Boys' Chorus) fully held up their end. It was a magnificent evening in all resetting, with walls paneled in wood or covered with rose matelasse, floral-etched glass panels, mirrors reflecting frosty Lalique-like flower wall sconces and a pressed-tio, Art Deco ceiling left unfinished to retain a satiny pewter glow.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPERTY

Owned and managed by the Countess Marina de Brantes, sister-in-law to President Valery Giscard-d'Estaing of France, and a graduate of cooking schools in Switzerland, London and the Cordon Bleu in Paris, and Ludovic Autet who directed the short-lived Le Notre in New York, this latest joint effort seems slated to become one of the most "in" places

The limited menu offers many dishes that are beautifully prepared. The soupe de moules Paul Bocuse was like liquid ivory, generously enriched with mussels; it would have been perfect had it been hot. Tender, plump snails in an emerald parsley, shallot and butter sauce were blanketed in a flaky putf pastry, while a cloudlike mousseline of red snapper in a delicate velouté was spoiled only slightly by a touch of grapefruit, a jarring note in the otherwise gentle sauce.

The most extraordinary appetizer was a salad of duck meat and warm cracklings of duck skin tossed with a vinaigrette-dressed chicory, in the manner of the Lyon green salad made with bot bacon.

Just about the most perfectly poached fish I've ever bad was the snowy sea bass, again in a light white wine sauce made without flour but merely a reduction of cream, butter and fume. Julienne strips of carrots and celery topped this and the only error in judgment was the puree of carrots that accompanied the dish. Tender yeal kidneys in a light basil cream sauce a ragout of duckling thigh and leg with slivers of glazed turnips, and a beef filet with marrow in a Bordeaux red wine sauce

Green salad here was overly spiked with vinegar, and desserts were only moderately interesting including a fine, chocolate mousse that had tiny flecks of chocolate in it by design or accident, fresh raspberries, sherbets, and a lemon tart not available were all expertly done.

Dance: Feld's First Solo Leans to the Experiment

By ANNA KISSELGOFF

HERE is an impression that the Eliot Feld Ballet, which opened Wednesday hight at the New York Shakespeare Festival's lewman Theater, is run by a director who is not keen on guest irilists.

Yet in his first company at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, Mr. Feld. created a work for Anna Laurkesen of the Royal Danish Ballet. Now he has invited Birgit Kell and Vladimir Klos of the Statigart Ballet to appear this season with the Eliot Feld Ballet.

Wednesday's program even presented the premiere of "Impromptin" a solo Mr. Feld has choreographed for Mass Keil. This is the first time Mr. Feld has created a solo ballet and for a choreog rapher who excels in group composi-tions, it was obviously a first attempt: Set to harp music of the same name composed in 1919 by the French composed. Albert Rosssel, "Imprompting verges on a lyricism that stems from the inusic's Impressionat origins. Yet in the end, it becomes flatly austere mainly because its deliberate repetitive.

mainly because its deliberate repetitive-ness of movement never explains why such repetition is justified.

The curtain rises on Ming Cho Lee's clinical decor. A steel pole with metallic streamers at the top. The impression is of whiteness. There is a white floor cloth and Willa Km's white fights and timic for Miss Keil is relieved by a drape of squa chiffon. Unfortunately even the recorded music gives the hard

Portraiture, we quickly realize, eojoys an unfair advantage over other forms of art. No matter how well schooled our minds mey be io the niceties of pure pictorial form, our hearts always leap a little io the presence of a significant likeness, especially if the subject—as is frequently the case in this "Modern Portraits" show—has acquired ao aura of historical, culhas acquired ao aura of historical, cul-tural or personal importance for us. Confronted with such a portrait, es-less pure and restricted, Memories, as-sociations, anecdores, gossip, fragments of history or legend come flooding to mind. We find ourselves, often involuntarily, reflecting on the mysteries of personality, manoers and morals. For portraits carry us "beyond" art into the realm of social and psychological history.

Considering the vast appeal of this impure but irresistible form, the wonder is that we do not have more frequent exhibitions of portraits. Certainly our own age abounds in their production, and there is scarcely a great artist of the modern era who has not. at one time or another, turned his hand to creating them. This is what gives the current show its unexpected quality: it brings out in the open what we have always known was there, but that for some reason—esthetic snob-bery? misguided theory? simple newe have rarely been shown in a ambitious exhibition.

Unexpected, too, are some of the selections. Picasso's 1905 painting of figures in a Montmartre café, "At the Lapin Agile," is not an obvious choice for a show of portraits, but it is a brilliant of for the property and the selections. liant one, for it contains a self-portrait of the young artist in the costume of Harlequin - an image that evokes a crucial period io Picasso's life, and in the life of modern painting.

It is part of the fun of this show, too, that in the photography section—for it cootains photographs as well as paintings and drawings—we encounter Picasso again, now the eager and photogenic celebrity, in Irving Penn's 1957 nortrait 1957 portrait.

With Matisse, also, we find a surprise—his 1908 portrait of Greta Moll, a German artist who was a vigorous champion of Matisse's work. The powerful painting has seldom been seen in public, and it is a great pic-

Again and agaio, we are treated to the kind of surprise that sheds an un-expected light on the life of modern art. Here are portraits of Tatlin hy Larionov, of Jean Cocteau by Modigli-ani, of Jean Arp by Frederick Kiesler, of Max Jacob by Juan Gris, of Jean Metzinger by Robert Delaunay and of Delaunay by Metzinger.

And what self-portraits! Max Beck-mao and Marie Laurencin, Bonnard and Vuillard, Otto Dix and Lovis Corinth and Max Ernst and Thomas Eakins, and on into our own period with Claes
Oldenburg, Francis Bacon, Chuck Close, Red Grooms, Lucas Samaras and Bruce Nauman, among others.
It is when we get to the present scene, however, that some of the choices become questionable. Where are Alex Katz and Alfred Leslie and Fairfield Porter and Leland Bell—all artists infinitely more accomplished in the art of portraiture than some of those represented in the exhibition? Where, for that matter, is Milton Avery among the earlier artists? One would gladly have substituted his marvelous portrait of Marsden Hartley for some of the more trivial "symbolic" portraits in this Still, "Modern Portraits" is a fascinating show, and we are all in the debt of Professor J. Kirk T. Varnedoe, who organized it, and of the Columbia students woo collaborated with him on both the show and its excellent catalogue. It remains on view through Nov. 28, and is open every day except Sunday from 10 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. General admission Is $2, students $1. The catalogue, which contains illustrations and scholarly commentaries oo each Item in the show is priced at $8.

Duane Michals (Janis, 6 West S7th Street): Mr. Michals is one of the photographers represented in the "Modern Portraits" show (above). His is a por-trait of the Surrealist palnter Reoe Magritte that consciously echoes the visual incongruitles we associate with this painter's style. There is another print of this picture and another Magritte portrait, in the Janis show.
It is as an imaginative portraitist that Mr. Michals is at his hest. At times, he tries a little too hard to be really "artistic," and the result is only stagey—e.g., in his hare-breasted por-trait of the photographer Deborah Turbeville (is it a parody, I wonder?). But his 1974 portrait of Bill Brandt is a little masterpiece, and there are others almost as good.

Mr. Michals has other amhitions, however. He is interested in a kind of dream narrative-in picture sequences for which figures pose and for which Mr. Michals writes (in his own hand, on the pictures) oarrative continuity. These generally take romantic, crotic or psychological scenarios as their themes. Some are quite creepy, but nooe, I think, really effects the requisite synthesis of literature and pho-tography, for Mr. Michals's literary gifts are very slight. Truman Capote did this sort of thing better—in his short stories-when we were all a lot younger, (Through Nov. 13.)

Charles Burchfield's watercolor "Flower Pot in Window" at Kennedy

The show commemorates the vivid moment in 1915 when he let his color rip together and makes them a picture, rather than a catalogue, is the transparency and the exactitude of tone with which Miss Dolnick makes color do her hidding. Watercolor here takes on its purest and most heguiliog form, in that water and color are equal partners. Through Nov. 13. "Autohlography of Time Landscape" by Alan Sonfist (112 Greene Street): Mr. Sonfist doesn't like what has happened in his lifetime to the natural resources of New York City. He has in mind oo the one hand those resources as we know them to have existed in precolonial times, and on the other the cootinuous dilapidation of today. How to get people to pay attention? Mr. Sonfist works in terms of visual epigram; text and photograph match up with one another until it gets into even-the thickest head that something has to be done: Is it art?

Drawings by Faculty Members of the Yale Art School (Pearl Gallery, 29 West 57th Street): Yale Art School has in its new dean, Andrew Forge, an English painter who believes that we just can't see too many good drawings—and, in fact, that we don't see nearly enough. So here is a clutch of recent work hy his colleagues. Some of them are well known (Al Held, David von Schlegell, John Walker, Lester Johnson). Some of them aren't, as yet (Norman Ives, Gretna Campbell, Winifred Lutz). But if there is justice in the world, someone will fasteo on Mr. Ives's "Large Collage," which so neatly sums up the relationship between cuhism and futurism. Mr. Forge's own drawings of pine and aspen repay study, too. Through with "found environments." in San Francisco, where she rented e room in a seedy hotel and turned it into a tableau that was soon the talk of the town, she got the idea of doing "something appropriate" for New York. Bonwit's, approached by Miss Hersh-man two years ago cold off the street, grew to love the plan. Artists—Jasper Johns, Andy Warhol, James Roseo-quist and even Salvador Dali, who once heaved a brick through the window when his work was censored by a display director - have done window dressing for the store before, but always with the aim of selling goods; Miss Hershman's notion is to put art before the public outside of museums.

"There are other ways of presenting art than in museum situations," she says. "I wanted to show that you could create an interesting work of art in its own environment for not very much money." The multimedia saga at Boowit's (it will use television, blown-up photos, etc.) has a cosmic theme: the "time transition" of a typical shopper at the store, and also the future of the man-in-the-New-York-street.

The show is sponsored by the Institute for Art and Urban Resources Inc.,

an innovative outfit with a talent for using "alternate spaces" for the arts (it runs the Clocktower, the live-wire downtown exhibition hall, and recently renovated an abandoned school Queens ioto a warren of artists' studios). The institute joined forces with Miss Hershman because, says Linda Blumberg, program director, "We're interested in projects that make use of the urban fabric."

And oow, apparently Bonwit's is too.
"Our cultural institutions are limited by space and financial support, and it's important that we keep exploring new spaces for the arts," says John Schn-macher, the store's new chairman. The cost to Bonwit's will be about $4,000 in cash, but the store will also pot its display staff at the artist's disposal, and calculates that the loss of a week's exposure of merchandise in its Fifth Avenue windows could equal a dey's sales. No one has measured the publicity benefits, however.

"When I went into the business, it was respectable," says William H. Wolff, one of the country's major dealers in Far Eastern entiquities. "I was doing a service to museums. It was a gentleman's trade. Now the whole business is under a cloud."

Mr. Wolff, who opened his gallery in 1959, is referring to the increasing restraints on dealing in works of antiquity, brought about by a surge of heritage-consciousness on the part of such countries as India, Thailand, Cambodia and others who charge that antiquity are the surfaces to be a before allowable are the contributions. cient artifacts are being illegally smug-gled beyond their borders. They have not only activated stringent export laws, but are also making efforts to get back artifacts already in the United. States.

Already one dealer, J. J. Kleiman who sold the "Lydian hoard" to the Met), has retired, reportedly in frustration over the situation, and others are fading away. Matters will not be helped, the trade believes, by United States participation in the 1970 UNESCO treaty, which provides for worldwide controls over traffic in cultural properties.

being pushed out," says Mr. Wolff, who is known for his uncanny ability to get hold of top artifacts and whose roster of clients has included Norton Simon, John D. Rockfeller 3d, the Norten Simon, John D. Rockreller Id., nor late Avery Brundage and every major United States museum with a department of Oriental art. "Twe imported nothing since 1975. Regardless of whether the UNESCO treaty is enforced, the museums will no longer buy, or they'll be reluctant. The tyto be at their mercy." And so, reluctant to fade away himself, Mr. Wolff is "easing" into contemporary art. This week, at his gallery, 22 East 76th Street, he opened his first contemporary show. drawings and paintings of the Far East by a Swiss artist, H. A. Sigg, carefully deployed among the arcient works that still crowd his gallery: an 11th-century sandstone torso from Cambodia, a polychrome Japanese goddess of the ninth century, an eighth-century gran-ite Vishau from South India. And already he's beginning to feel one of the dealer: "When you work in the present," he notes with a smile, "the artists tend to be alive and around."

All signs at the Denise René Gallery—glowing neon ampersands, flickering fragments of letters, backward N's and other, more abstract glyphs—indicate that Chryssa'e back in town. Chryssa, the Greek-born sculptor, whose elegant leads to the second of the s alphabetomania has not been in evi-dence here for the last three years, is working in a quieter, more contem-plative vein these days. MERIGAN COLLECTORS of musical instruments have complained for years that to buy or sell at auction the fine period strings, winds, keyboards or brasses they cover, they must do it at or through London galleries. Now the practice is the property of the partice is the property of the period. at or farough London safferies. Now the practice is changing—dramatically. Tonight and next Friday. New York will be treated to its first two auctions of specialty musical instruments, at Tepper Galleries 3 West 61st Street, and at Sotheby Parks. Bernet, 980. Madison Avenue (at 75th Street). Following today a laliday exhibition at Tepper, which is open from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M., the public safe starts at 730 and will dispose of 196 vintage music makers and bows at prices estimated to range from $100 to $100,000.

The instruments, a few of which date to the 17th and 18th centuries, but most of which are 19th century, include a Joseph Guarneri cello, a violin and viola by Jean Baptista Vullaume and a violin dated 1712 by Giovanni Battista Rotieri, a classmate of Antonio Stradivari when they worked in the shop of Nicolo Amati. The auction concern is also extremely ground of the large number of cellos (10) and bows (27 choice ones and 37 other period designs) it was able to assemble. designs) it was able to assemble.

Guarnerius and Stradivarius

Tomorrow, Sotheby Parke Bernet begins an even more spectacular exhi-bition that will offer such rarities as a Petrus Guarnerius and two Stradi-varius violins, Vuillaume and Amati varius violins, Vuillaume and Aman cellos, and a double virginal devised by Hans Ruckers the Younger in 1623. The exhibition is on view at the galleries tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M., and Thursday until 3 P.M., before Friday's sale, which starts at 2 P.M.

What is most unusual about the three all bave well-known pedigrees. One of the Stradivarius violins is the Mackenzie made in 1785 that was in the news in 1974 when it was stolen from Dr. Frederick Apfelbaum, its owner, to whom it was returned last summer.

The other Stradivarius, known as the Prince Uchtomsky, dates from 1697 and, was consigned by the estate of Pierre T. Goodrich, an Indianapolis banker. This Petrus Guarnerius violin was one of the favorites of the late Arnold Gingricb, the former publisher of Esquire, who played it frequently in preference to the Stradivarius be also owned.

Actually, once even novices have viewed the two selections of quality instruments, it will be possible for them to separate the finest from the obvious Stradivarius imitations, Both sales con-Stradivarius imitations, Both sales contain superb specimens of stringed intruments, violins violas and cellos with shapely and gently rounded fronts and backs, meticulously matched woods, inlaid or solid ebony fingerboards and neatly chiseled, scrolled beads.

There are about 600 known Stradivarius violing in existence. But these varius violins in existence. But there are thousands of other violins extant boasting ersatz labels that claim the riddles were made by Antenio Stradi-vari of Cremona. Of the many linita-rions submitted to Sotheby's for its coming sale, one still to be returned shows the gullibility of those who believe shoddy workmanship could emanate from the shop of a master. Tha traces of mouse nibbles. races of mouse nibbles.

The reason for the widespread imitation of quality violins is ohvious: Stradivarius instruments command substantial prices today. When Dr. Apfelbaum purchased his in 1960, be paid $18,000. But instruments of comparable quality have since soared to $200,000

Actually, neither auction concern foresees setting a new record for the sale of a single instrument, eclipsing the $201,600 paid in 1971 at Sotheby's in London for the Stradivarius coosigned by a California collector that was known as the Lady Blunt Stradi-

But both auction bouses are bullish about their sales. Graham Wells, who heads Sotheby's musical-instrument department in London, where he does at least six such specialty sales a year, catalogued the keyboard instruments in next week's sale, and described the assemblage as "the most comprehen-sive, the finest musical instrument auction ever held."

all this mean for the relationship of tek? Well, first we have to start with at most Western popular music of the ades (or the last eight decades, maybe) ctly or indirectly, on black music. The his trend, logically enough, bave been as without significant black minorities. Italy, Sweden and France have viable shrined (enbalmed?) in the Eurovision of a popular music based on indigensongs in English, the firm basis of its musical style is a much popsified electric folk music.

In the late 1960's, there were hopeful signs that black and white music and audiences were coming together in a fruitful way. There were artists — Jimi Hendrix, above all — who appealed to both audiences, and much of the very best rock was based on black music in a way that bonored the debts without being enslaved by them.

But in the 1970's there has been a backlash against integration on all fronts, including music against integration on all fronts, including music. Artists like Earth, Wind and Fire play largely to black audiences in huge stadium concerts, in which whites can actually feel unsafe. The O'Jays have enjoyed a somewhat greater "crossover" success by trying to emulate white middle-of-the-road supperclub and suburban-arts-center conventions. But they, too, by and large, make black music for a black

Abba, on the other hand, is white music for white folks. Naturally there must be occasional black people who buy Abba records; generalizations based on racial demarcations can be dangerous. But the total absence of any indebtedness in Abba's music to the black-derived musical traditions that underfile rock is particularly striking. So is the failure not only of Abba-type pop but of traditional rock in general to keep abreast of the developments in 1970's black music represented by Earth, Wind and Fire.

What all this suggests is that we are slipping back into a country of eoclaves, cut off from one another in our life styles, our neighborhoods and our music.

There are exceptions, certainly, Mr. Wonder above all. But while much is made of the power of electronic communication to smooth out differences in our society, for phonograph records it looks as if separate musical cultures can sustain themselves quite nicely indeed.

Bruce Springsteen's three concerts at the Palladium, starting Thursday, will mark his first New York appearances since the publicity blitz of a year ago. ome anti-Springsteenians have suggested that Mr. Springsteen has been "spooked" by all the attention he received, and indeed he neither toured extensively in 1975, nor has he gone into the studio to record a follow-up to his critically and commercial successful "Born to Run" album.

But as far as one can tell, it hasn't been excessive publicity that's hurt Mr. Springsteen so much as circumstances and a nasty managerial battle. Reports from his recent West Coast tour suggest that his live shows are better than ever. But Mr. Springsteen's next album was first delayed because the producer he wanted—Ion Landau, who had done "Born to Run"—was tied up with the much-delayed new Jacksoo Browne album, "The Pretender."

More crucial, however, Mr. Springsteen is caught in the middle of a court battle between Mike Appel, his current (or former, depending on whose side you take) manager, and a group of lawyers and advisers headed by Myron Meyer, who has been acting recently as the singer's business manager.

This is hardly the place to take sides in the squabble. Mr. Appel alleges Mr. Springsteen has been fured away by devious sharpsters, and has obtained an injunction preventing the singer from working with Mr. Landau on the next album. Mr. Springsteen's suit argues that Mr. Appel mismanaged him to the point that their contract should be terminated. Mr. Meyer describes the situation as "a procedural mess," and nobody seems to disagree about that. In the meantime, Mr. Springsteen isn't making his record, and his millions of fans are being denied the opportunity to hear him, except through his occasional, impossible-to-get-into concerts. Mr. Springsteen, speaking recently from California, professed confidence that the court suits would be settled and that he would make the record. "If Jon [Landau] can't do it. I'll probably do it myself, after the Palladium concerts, Mr. Springsteen said. "To tell you the truth, I don't worry about it very much. It's gonna come around; it's gonna get settled one way or another. One way or another, there'll be a record, without compromising the quality of the music,"

The bus raced along through a golden The bus raced along inrough a golden late afternoon on its way back to New York. Inside, the talk among tha passengers was of Matisse, Cézanne, Soutine and Modigliani. Bunny Mautner walked up and down the narrow aisle serving cream sherry in little paper cups. "Bunny's first class all the way;"

Art tour or one-day vacation-it was both, really. Fifty people had spent a aparkling autumn Friday in Pennsylvania's lush and leafy Main Line, had enjoyed a good lunch in a quiet restaurant and had seeo e bit of Philadelphia and some fall foliage along the way. But all this was only peripheral. The day's central event was visit to one of the world's bestknown but least accessible art collections: the Barnes Foundation, in Merion,

For Bunny Mautner's Gallery Passport tours, this was oot an unusual day. Part of Mrs. Mautner's business is specializing in trips mostly on Saturdays, to out-of-town art museums and galleries, some not opeo to the general public. (She also offers guided visits to current New York axhibitions during the week, and will soon begin a Saturday series in tha city.)

A Gallery Passport day starts early. At 8:45 most of us were buddled in a crisp hreeze outside the West Side Y.M.C.A. on West 63d Street when Mrs. Mautner's team desceoded on us: Joyce Cowan, her new (and only) assistant; Noel Frackman, an art re-viewer and student at New York University's Institute of Fine Arts who lectures to the group, and Bill Merten. the charter coach driver who wouldn't miss one of Mrs. Mautner's tours for anything. He says he's the only one who manages to keep the passenger count straight.

Has a Loyal Following

As the bus rolled off toward tha Lincoln Tunnel bound for Philadelphia, Mrs. Mautner was in the aisle passing around candy in a red straw basket. She greeted many of the passengers hy name; she has a loyal following. When we reached the Naw Jersey Turnpike,

Mrs. Frackman began the first of her lectures, outlining for the group the story of the controversial Dr. Albert C. Barnes, whose extraordinary collection of paintings, sculpture, furniture and bandwrought ironwork the group was on its way to sea.

The artwork collected over half a century by Dr. Barnes, a Philadelphia-born chemist who devised and manu-factured the antiseptic Argyrol, had been locked away from public view until 1961, 10 years after the 79-year-chemist's death in a car crash. A series of taxpayer suits and an appeal by the Commonwaalth of Pennsylvania finally hrought an agreement by the tax-ex-empt Barnes Foundation to open the collection on a very limited basis.

The foundation, an educational insti-tution set up by Dr. Barnes, had con-tended that opening to the public would interfere with the primary function of the collection, which was to serve as instructional material for students. At the time, tha collection was thought to be worth $100 million. It is housed in an 18th-century, French-style building constructed in 1922.

John Canaday was at the Barnes Foundation as art critic for The New York Times the day it opened to the public. His description of what he saw has been echoed by amateur and expert alike over the last 15 years. He

'The well-known statistics mean little — the count of more than a hundred Renoirs, the staggering accumulation of Cézannes, Matisses, Rousseaus, Soutines, Picassos and so on; the case after case of African sculpture, not to mention Egyptian, Greek and medieval sculptures that are next to invisible, oot hecause they are in any way hidden, but because the eye becomes so glutted that it slides over whole areas of objects in shifting from one magnificent painting to the next."

Getting a Thorough Briefing

Oo the bus, Mrs. Frackman was ex-plaining that the foundation prohibited lecturing in the galleries, and that paintings were labeled only by artist; no other information was given. She described what the group would see, often room by room, so that anyone needing guidance would have points of reference. She drew attention to things that might otherwise be overlooked: small paintings by the American primi-tive Horace Pippin, Charles Prender-gast's trames, a small drawing of Dr. Barnes, the Matisse murals over the main gallery windows that the artist-came to Merion to install himself.

Nearly everyone on the tour (cost: $37, including everything but drinks at lunch) was no stranger to the world's fine art collections, and all had come specifically to see the Barnes. Among the group was Michael Certet, a tourist from Düsseldorf, West Germany, whose friends in the New York area knew about the collection and Gallery Pass-port. He remarked that access to tals kind of private collection would be virtually unknown in Europe.

Joyce Keslow and a group of friends from the Hewlett, L. I., area had been planning to drive to Merion to see the foundation, But one of the party, Meryle Samuels, suggested a Gallery Passport trip instead. So five of them and a friend from Manhattan had joined the group for the day. Lila Holland of Woodmere, L.I., got nods of approval when she said: "It's one of the very best tours I've ever been

Places to Go North of Tappan Zee This Weekend

By LESLIE MAITLAND

The scenic homelands of Dutch set tiers on both sidas of the Hudson River north of New York City will come to life this weekend with a craft show, demonstrations of such activities as quilting and cheesemaking and a tour of bouses the settlers once lived in.

With richly colored autumn leavas providing natural decoration, the separate celebrations of tradition can lead the interested explorer from the Ramapo Mountain regioo and Bear Mountain in Rockland County across the Bear Mountain Bridge to Croton-on-Hudson m Westchester.

Highlands Crafts

Crafts workers of the West Hudson Highlands are taking their sixth annual show to the Bear Mountain Inn with an exhibition that starts today and will run until a week from Sunday. Many of the craftspeople, who all live in the area, will be on hand to sell their work, which ranges in price from five cents, for ceramic beads, to several thousand dollars, for furniture, large tapestries and gold jawelry.

With more than 90 artisans from Rockland, Oranga and Ulster Counties participating in the show, their work has been divided into two areas Next to Hesslan Lake at Bear Mountain Inn will be some 40 exhibitors' booths with varied wares for sale.

Inside the inn-in the first part of the building to reopen since restoration work began-one-of-a-kind items will be displayed in a craft-as-art gallery. The theme in the gallery is "Living Crafts," and a portion of the exhibition area has been set up to simulate a home, with living room, bedroom, child's room and "powder room" furnished entirely with objects handcraft-ed by the show's participants. There are, for example, a cherry-wood dining table with walnut high-back chairs, a vanity with e handmade sink of dark stoneware and a Tiffany-style lampshade.

Noted craftsmen whose work will be for sale include Steven Robins, a furniture designer, who is offering a davenport with built-in end tables, and Karen Karnes, a fellow of the American Crafts Council known for salt-glaze stoneware. She is exhibiting leaded jars and

The show is open 10 A.M. to 6 P.M. all weekend.

Bear Mountain Park

For children whose enthusiasm flags over cloissonné, band-woven baskets and wood carvings of all kinds, Bear Mountain State Park provides another hroad range of sights and activities for which there is no admission charge. They can take a paddle boat out on Hessian Lake or hike a marked nature trail. The park has a geology museum, a nature-study museum and a historical museum with artifacts and uniforms from the Revolutionary War. There are also links here from the massive chain that the Continental Army tried to string across the Hudson to prevent British ships from sailing up the rivera scheme that was a dismal failure.

Crafts and Tasks

Across the river, at Van Cortlandt Manor in Croton, tomorrow and Sunday, e festival called Autum Crafts and Tasks will offer a chance to witness the time-consuming chores that made up the daily lives of colonists.

More than 20 tasks will be demonstrated by members of the Sleepy Hol-low Restorations staff dressed in costumes from the Colonial era. You will be able to watch, among other things, lace making, rail splitting, soap making, candla dipping and basketmaking, see butter churned, hread baked, cider pressed, fruits and vagetables pre-served and medicines and ointments prepared. Visitors will be invited to participate in some activities and sample the adible results of others.

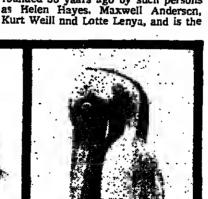

Tours will be conducted of Van Cortlandt Manor, a national landmark owned by Sleepy Hollow Restorations, which owns other historical properties open to visitors in the area. The hours for the festival at the manor are 10 A.M. to 5 P.M., and there is an admission charge of $2.25 for adults $1.50 for children.

First thing every Wednesday—starting November 10—millions of New York Times readers will devour the authoritative words of Times food writers Craig Claibome, Mimi Sheraton and Pierre Franey. Also contributing to the occasion will be famous writers and personalities with fascinating insights on food, meals and cooking.

The Living Section will explore the art of living in many other stimulating ways. Top Times editors and writers—Charlotte Curtis, John Leonard, Enid Nemy, Jane Brody, to name a few—will focus on the life styles of people in the news, the pulse of life in foreign cities, news and views about home furnishings, personal health, personal finance and much, much more.

The Living Section will also feature Frank Prial's Wine Talk, the Going Out Guide, the crossword puzzle, the Bridge column, Art Briefs, theater and movie reviews, book reviews and new listings, TV and radio listings, reviews and news and two new cultural features, "Arts in America" and "Critic's Notebook."

This big, new separate section grows out of the enthusiastic response by readers and food advertisers to The Times current eight-page Food Day feature. It follows in the path of The Times Friday Weekend, a separate section devoted to the arts, entertainment and leisure activities.

And like Weekend, which has helped add 35,000 copies to The Times Friday circulation, The Living Section will be launched with a heavy promotion campaign in TV, radio and print.

Starting November 10, The Living Section will make Wednesday breakfast a feast for readers and food advertisers. So get into The Living Section now. Marathon Men and Women on Their Marks

The new sensation is running. Not just jogging. But running. Runoing for miles and for hours until you experience physical atrain, then feel your body settle into a routine and then, finally, the third wind of beightened senses, a spiritual elation, the new high of running. More and more metropoli-tan New Yorkers are doing it, though this weekend the big experience will be vicarious—at least on Sunday as about 1,900 men and 100 women sprint off on the city's first five-borough

Samuel Rudin Trophy, named for the late huilder and philanthropist who was also a runner.

Bebind all the color and dasb and excitement, behind all the pain and anguish and exhaustion, behind all the elation and cheer lies the makeup of the runners, who are growing significantly in numbers as more and more people take to the roads, the parks, the drives and the walkways of the city every weekend. They are running for the physical exercise and good health it brings. They are running to get a release from the tensions and worry of the day. But more important, as they are finding out now, they are running for a sense of awareness, a special sensation that attunes them closer to the world yet also raises their consciousness and provides a sense of elation.

This sense of euphoria in running, high that transcends and cleanses, not yet defined or understood as much as the medical benefits-enlarged arteries, a slower heart beat, more blood and oxygen generation with less effort, all of which combine to help keep coronary disease at bay. And these sensations are well-described by Dr. George Sheehan, 57, a cardiologist from Red Bank, N. J., and a runner

Dr. Sheehan says that there are two unusual stages at the heart of running: physiological and psychological. According to the doctor and others who have studied this, about six minutes into a run the physical stage occurs—the "second wind." Bodily functions establish a stable routine: blood moves into the muscles, running becomes easier, a rhythm is set. But more interesting and still being researched is a state that comes 30 minutes to 45 minutes after steady running: the "third wind." Dr. Sheehan and other researchers liken this to a mystical state such as meditation or Zen-a creative aware-

George A. Hirsch, 42, another runner and publisher of New Times (one of the sponsors of the race along with Manufacturers Hanover Trust, Finnair and the Rudin family), said that some researchers believe that there is There is a recycling to metabolizing a point when morphine derivatives are produced in the brain, bringing on a high, Mr. Hirsch said.

Speculation and research aside, running is now also being used to treat-certain psychological problems and disorders. One such practitioner and again also a numer is Dr. Thaddeus Kostrubala, director of psychiatry at Mercy Hospital and Medical Center in San Diego, Calif. In his recently published book "The Joy of Running," he states: "Every time you go on a long, slow run, all these things are going on inside of you. While you are running, enzyme systems are active; the brain is being recharged with new loads of oxygen; old tired glands are reawakened with bursts of fresh ox-ygenated blood; and if you let all of this happen to you in a regular way, you'll get addicted to an 'up' feeling caused by increased physiological activity."

Dr. Kostrubala, like others, cautions that there are inherent dangers in overexertion from running and recommends medical consultations and tests before a program is undertaken, much less marathon participation.

Sunday's marathon is sanctioned by the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Association of the U.S.A. and conducted under the supervision of the N. Y. Road Runners Club. After the ascent onto the Verrazano bridge, the course continues over rela-tively flat terrain. Which means, according to Fred Lebow, Road Runner president, that the world marathon record of 2:08:33.6 set by Derek Clay-ton, an Australian, in 1969, could be broken. Among the celebrity runners, as distinguished from the athletes, are Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark. Jacques D'Amboise of the New York City Ballet and Leonard Harris, television commentator.

The first "New York City" marathon was held in 1970 within the limits of Central Park and had 126 entrants. By 1975, the sixth such race, the number had swelled to 550. Mr. Lebow said that he expected a little more than half of the runners to finish in the city's first race to be held in all five bor oughs. The problem, he said was that a seasoned runner will often misjudge his pace and start out too fast, the easoned runner will often not know what to do.

George Hirsch ia one runner who knows what he will do this weekend. "You've got to get into a rhythm, a stride, and adopt a subtle hut critical mix of relaxing under pressure, yet pushing your body to the limit. All this is changing during the race... as you reach an eccord with your body.

"At times you think that you can't finish, but don't think in terms of the overall race. You must not say that you have seven miles, or whatever, to go. You must run to that sign 500 yards ahead. After 19 miles when you feel your body breaking down and your legs tightening up if you say that you still have six miles to go-that's very devastating. Set goals of a few hundred yards at a time."

Mr. Hirsch said that this is the point when the cheering of the crowd can give the runner a good lift. "Cheering is so necessary. It takes your mind off the pain and agony—and all runners

The cozy oneroom library, with its comfortable read-ing chairs and large windows that look out on the harbor, is a pleasant place to rest and werm up on the walk along Main Street. The library is open from 9 A.M. to 5 P. M. on Saturdays, but is closed on Sundays. (516) 673-0584. The library has its own park, a lovely setting of fine trees and well-kept grass that provides the best view of the harbor. There are still enough leaves on the trees so that from this vantage point the three Standard Oil tanks cannot be seen. Only the quiet harbor is visible, much as it appeared a century ago.

Continuing west on Main Street, is Veterans Fishing Station, hard by the town pier. The deep-water pier is particularly good for flounder, although blackfish, porgies and hluefish are also in abundance at this time of year. Veterans sell bait and tackle and rent rowboats for $10 a day for those who want to get out into the barbor. The fishing station is owned by two brothers, Harry Powles, 81 years old, and Miltoo G. Powles, 74. The two men, who have lived in Cold Spring Harbor for more than 60 years, have a wealth of infor-mation end anecdotes about the village.

(516) 692-9869.

If the visitor doesn't find any fish off the Cold Spring Harbor pier, be can follow the bend in Route 2SA and find thousands at the State Fish Hatchery. The hatchery is open daily from 8 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. (516) 669-1000.

Next to the hatchery is St. John's Episcopal Church, a greceful, white, steepled church, with delicate stained-glass windows, which was founded in 1835. The church is in a beautiful setting next to a duck pond and a nature sanctuary whose trails are open to the public. (516) MY 2-6369.

Eating and Drinking

For a town that was once a haven for sailers, Cold Spring Harbor is marked by a lack of good watering boles. The only standup bar in town is, appropriately, at Whaler's Inn, a restored 1850 hotel that stands across from the town pier. The drinks and the food are hearty here and served in a warm, friendly setting. (S16) 367-

The only other restaurant in towo is Wyland's Country Kitchen, at SS Maln Street, with its colorful curtains and dark wooden furniture. The main fare bere is salads, casseroles and quiches. The plece is also famous for its abundance of desserts, including foamy chiffon pie and homemade

Both restaurants are somewhat expensive, but there are few low-priced alternatives in Cold Spring Harbor. Veterans Fishing Station has a popular stand-up clam bar, where sandwiches and coffee are also available.

Another elternative is the local deli-catessen, which, in a town of houtiques, has the unromantic name of The Service Food Market (516) 692-9751. Take-out sandwiches and soft drinks can be purchased here, and, on a sunny day, eaten in the library park across Main Street.

Weekend Gardening: Chestnut Trees

By RICHARD W. LANGER

The Chinese chestnut tree, Castanea mollissima, is a close relative of the American chestnut, that former monarch of the eastern forests whose spreading boughs no longer grace the landscape except in rare skeletal sil-houette. The Chinese chesnut is not the majestic tree the American chestnut was before blight wasted it away, nor is it suitable timber for wideboard floors. But the nut itself is hy ail accounts superior, being far larger and often sweeter in taste.

If you've thought about planting a nut tree, consider the Chinese chestnut. The nuts are both delectable and highly nutritious. The tree bears more quickly than other nut trees, often producing a crop in the fourth year, and is easy to grow and more or less pest resistant. Sometimes it is affected by the chestnut blight that invaded the United States from the Orient, but unlike the American chestnut, it rarely succumbs to this disease.

Relatively little work has been done in developing specialized strains of Chinese chestnuts, so if you'd like to start from the very beginning and plant a nut, chances are it will develop into a tree as productive as a seedling purchased from a nursery. The nursery seedlings are grown simply from nuts that they themselves have plented. And there is an indescribable satisfaction in knowing you have started a tree from scratch, nursed it along through the early years, and then one day harvested your reward.

To start with, choose several large plump nuts from a batch at the local greengrocer's. Those that are still shiny will be the freshest ones. Throw them in some water to make sure they don't float. Now, decide on the spot where you want the tree to be located at maturity. Chestnuts can be transplanted quite readily, but why not plant the tree where it's wanted in the first place and save some digging?

The tree should be located in a welldrained spot, but not where the soil dries out in the summertime. Chestnuts have a very shallow root system as trees go, and if the roots do not have enough moisture during the growing season, the tree will become stunted. A sunny location, as for fruit trees, is also important.

After the site is selected, dig a hole about one foot in diameter by one foot deep. Fill it with rich topsoil and 25 percent peat moss mixed well. The nut itself should be laid on its side. Both the taproot and the tree trunk will emerge from the tip of the nut, and both will expend less energy and generate more productive growth if the nut is placed this way rather than with its point down, Insert a marker to pinpoint the spot, then cover the out with an inch or two of the soil and peat moss mix. Tamp everything down firmly. Water well, then cover the area with an additional two-inch mulch layer of straw or grass clippings. The marker is there, by the way, not only to fix the location of the nut so that next year the insipient tree won't be moved down, but also because, come spring, the mulch should be pulled away a little from the place where the seedling

If squirrels abound in your area, chances are they will not have the pa-tience to wait till the tree matures for their harvest, so before you put on the mulch, cover the spot with a foot-and-a-half square of hardware cloth. Remember, in that case, to remove it in the spring so the seedling can come

Once you've planted your first chestnut, start looking for a spot for a second tree. If you don't have enough room, talk your neighbor into planting one. There is some debate as to whether Chinese chestnuts can self-pollinate or not. In any case, two trees will definitely produce a petter crop.

Personally, I'm planting a couple of dozen, in e long row, nursery style. The trees are excellent for wildlife, and once they've been nursed to a size where they can survive in the woods, I intend to transplant a batch to the back forty in the hope that birds and forest animals will go there instead of to the cornfield. The popularity of chestnuts with the larger birds is such that the decline of the wild tudget has that the decline of the wild turkey has been attributed as much to the demise of the American chestnut tree as to other causes.

Jazz: What's in a Label?

The ECM Festival of Music Wednes-day night in Avery Fisher Hall should have served two functions: the showcasing of talent oo the ECM avant-garde jazz label, and a further demon-stration of the new Fisher Hall's attributes. For this was the first non classical concert in the reconstructed facility, and indeed the first concert nf any kind open to the general public.

Not that the public responded; the place was by no means full. But the concert failed to fulfill either of its two functions as well as it could have, for overlapping reasons.

Unlike the ECM label itself, Wednesday's concert was amateurishly handled. Scheduling wandered awry, with the whole marathon beginning half an hour late, with one group getting 40 minutes but Jack DeJohnette at the end squeezed down to 18, and with one scheduled duet — Ralph Towner and Gary Burton — eliminated alto-

Worse still was the sound system, a worse still was the sound system, a harshly ungrateful affair that kept emitting all manner of buzzes and hums. Several of the musicians meotioned "sound problems," but it was hardly the new ball they were talking about.

Given all that, the best music of the night came from the "surprise" guest, Keith Jarrett. Mr. Jarrett is the com-mercial and artistic star of the ECM mercial and artistic star of the ECM label, and he justified that position with a riveting 20-minute solo-piano set (marred only by vocalizations and contortions that have by now reached baroque proportions). For all practical purposes — especially after he complained about hum—Mr. Jarrett was unamplified. As a result, he became the first registalist to perform in the period. first recitalist to perform in the new facility, and it can be reported that the future for plano recitals at Fisher Hall looks bright.

The bulk of the ECM artists are apparently shy, artsy sorts given to a kind of jazz closely related to avant-garde-classical and progressive-rock im-provisation. It is a music relatively unconcerned with both the traditions of older jazz or the screaming chromaticisms of the new jazz of a few years ago. Instead one hears washes of sensual sound, a string of lush effects more pretty than moving.

Jazz: Return Of Saxophonist Packs Club

Dexter Gordon, the most girted and influential teoor saxophonist to emerge from the modern jazz movement of the 1940's, played his first American engagement in four years at Storyville on Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Gordon, who settled in Copenhagen some years ago when the popularity of jazz was perhaps at its lowest ebb bere, seemed surprised that the club was packed and the listeners almost aggressively

He responded with a broad smile and some of the most accomplished and stirring improvisations heard here in

In fact, Mr. Gordon re-established himself as the living master of the tenor saxophone with his first night of playing. Many of the aficionados who crowded into the club had never doubted his importance, of course, but some remembered performances here four years ago, or more recent ap-pearances in Europe, when Mr. Gordoo was in less than optimum form. Those days seem to be over, as more listeners will be able to discover when Mr. Gordoo performs at the Village Vanguard from Oct. 26 to 31.

On opening night at Storyville, the saxophonist could do no wrong. His saxonomist could do no wrong. His solos were graceful, soaring construc-tions, full of legato phrases that laid back into the beat, carefully blocked-out double-time passages, brusque lower register punctuations, and meaningful silences.

The fire in his playing must bave been because of, at least in part, his energetic and astute accompanists, at least one of whom, the bassist Stafford James, surpassed his substantial prior accomplishments with solo passages of sustained brilliance.

But the evening belonged to the saxuphonist In a fall season that has already witnessed several important jazz events, Mr. Gordon's return is the most important event so far.

ROBERT PALMER

The opening duet between Mr. Townr and John Abercromble, both guitarists (and the latter part of Mr. DeJohnette's Directions, set the mood, and it wasn't broken when they were joined by Mr. Towner's partner from Oregon, Collin Waicott, on sitar and tabla.

Colours, a quartet led by the standup electric bassist Eherhard Weber, fleshes out such impressionism but offers a similar sort of clever mood music. And Mr. Burton's Quartet, even when it's going full tilt, remains a mellow affair since it is dominated by the sound of Mr. Burton's vibraphone. Mr. Weber joined them for their final

Mr. Jarrett's pianism has its artsy side, too, although it has a redeeming vitality. Mr. DeJohoette's group offered a rougher, more overtly urban American energy, but he hardly had enough time to alter the mood of the evening.

Bridge:

Metropolitan Tournament Returning to Original Home

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

After years of practice, even the riore absent-minded tournament play-rs can generally find their way to the ight table. Those who plant them-elves at the right table number, but he wrong section, run the risk of being described, in a bellow from a ricrophone, as sectional deviates.

Today, some of the absent-minded bridge professors are likely to arrive not merely at the wrong table hotel wrong section but at the wrong hotel. The metropolitan championships of the Greater New York Bridge Association, which have been played since 1963 at the New York Hillon, have been transferred beek to their original have ferred back to their original home at the Statler Hilton, Seventh Avenue and 33d Street. The schedule is:

Ind 35d Street. The schedule is:
Today—Men's pairs and women's pairs, 2
P.M.; a newcomers lecture by August Bockim on "The Calculated Overbid," 6:45 P.M. Mixed pairs and newcomers pairs, 7:30 P.M.; annual meetings 11 P.M.
Tomorrow—Master pairs and newcomers pairs, 1:30 P.M.; cpen pairs, 7:30 P.M.
Sunday—Swiss teams, 12:30 P.M. and 6:30 P.M.

The play required in the diagramed deal would be a good test for sontest-are limited to players with lewer than 20 master points. Players who can find the right plan would certainly be capable of competing in open events. The bidding is straightforward for partnerships using traditional jump raises, guaranteeing a game. North raises one club to three clubs, and some part with a minimum hand and straightforward straightf South, with a minimum hand and stop-pers in all the unbid suits, bids three no-trump. With only one or two side-suit stoppers, he would bid his lowest-ranking stopper.

Playing limit raises in the modern style, North would have a problem, since three clubs would be invitational and therefore an underbid. His best move would be to make a waiting bid of one diamond and then raise his partner's one no-trump rebid to game. West leads the diamond queen, and a declarer who proceeds without due, care will go down. It might seem routine to win the closed hand and take a club finesse, but he will then be in jeopardy if East wins and returns either spade or a diamond.

South should recognize that he can only be in any difficulty if East gains the lead early. So the right play is to-win the first trick in dummy with the diamond ace and take a heart finesse. If this loses, the contract is safe because West cannot make a damaging lead, and South will be able to develop chibs at his leisure.

For the practical purposes of making nine tricks. South can also win with the diamond king, lead to the club ace and take a heart finesse. This runs a purely theoretical risk, that West may have led diamonds from a doubleton queen holding and will be able to con-tinue that suit effectively.

Music: Bach Cantatas and Arias

By ALLEN HUGHES

The Bach Aria Group, a durable organization to say the least, opeoed its 1976-77 season of three concerts at Alice Tully Hall on Wednesday night with most of its regular members on hand and a couple of guests. Louis Lane appeared as guest conductor and Thomas Nyfeoger, flutist, substituted for Samuel Baron,:

The program consisted of two complete cantatas—No. 62, "Nun komm, der Heiden Heiland," and No. 180, "Schmütcke dich, o liebe seele"—and seven arias selected from various

Of the cantatas, "Schmücke dich" was the more affecting because of its musical content. In the lengthy first chorus, the chorale theme, which is beautiful of itself, holds the central position in a richly textured counterpoint of vocal and instrumental lines. Another choice part of the work is an elaborated setting of the chorale melody for soprano solo.

Mr. Lane guided the Bach Aria Group Chorus and Orchestra and the four vocal soloists-Lorna Haywood, Lois Marshall, Seth McCoy and Norman Farrow-through a poised and tasteful interpretation of the work.
Miss Haywood was particularly persuasive in her singing of "Die Seele ruht in Jsu Händen" (from Cantata No. 127), which is one of the loveliest of Miss Marshall did "Es ist vollbrach" (from the St. John Passion) with fine sensitivity. vice, one of these days someone is going to do it.

Plausibility is no problem for Mr. Mills, whose best-known previous books are probably his nonfiction work "The Panic in Needle Park" and hisoovel "Report to the Commissioner." All it takes in bring New York City to the edge of doom is a mixed-up young woman named Aizy, who happens to be a genius at math and physics; a black bourgeois classmate of hers at Princeton with Messianic ambitions to alter the world's food distribution, and a Harlem street tough who knows where plutonium can be heisted. In no time at all, we are fairly well hooked . . . and rooting for the police and the F.B.I. men and a representative from the Atomic Energy Commission to save our beloved slums from a fate worse than Hiroshima.

But since all of us can in much less time than it takes to read 236 pages imagine our own scenarios to illustrate the awesome Taylor proposition, how does Mr. Mills win our indulgence of his own particular version? Very curi-ously, he does it by describing in terms ously, he does it by describing in terms as simple and graphic as I have ever come across almost exactly how one goes about mixing up an implosion bomb in the comfort of one's own kitchen. (As one of the characters observes to Aizy when she doos a pair of red-and-white checked harbecue gloves to remove a crucible from n furgloves to remove a crucible from n fur-nace, "You look flike] some kind of nuclear Julia Child.")

How is one to react to these instruc-tions, especially considering the cry of outrage that went up when The New York Review of Books diagramed the art of concocting a mere Molotov cocktail? One might well protest that Mr. Mills is tempting fate or some madman by spreading the word in so blatant a fashion. To which Mr. Mills would probably reply that, like Alzy and Theodore Taylor himself, he only wanted to dramatize how easy it is to make a bomb so that the world would take the threat more seriously. (Besides, as he points out in his concluding note, 'All technical information and descriptions, including the methods employed by the characters to construct nuclear weapons, have been extracted from un-weapons, have been extracted from un-classified material readily available to the general public.")

But the sad fact is—or maybe it's tha happy fact—we won't take Mr. Mills's threat seriously until it materi-alizes in real life. Like emphysema from smoking, automobile fatality from drinking and other craticular probabile drinking and other statistical probabilities, a homemade bomb won't seem a threat until it happens to us. That's why "The Seventh Power"—so named because there are today six nuclear nations in the world—is interesting only for the length of time it takes to readit. One minute after we've finished it, wo've forgotten it. Come to think of it, I can't even recall now why they wanted to rajse the Titanic.

Professor Howe, a historian at the University of California at Lbs Angeles, sets a brisk pace for his fellow contributors, which they manage to match. Their essays cover such seminal topics as modernization, American intellectuals, the origins of the reform movement, the beginnings of the voluntary hospital, literature and, ultimately, the attack of Victorianism that took place in the early years of this century.

Without exception, the essays are lucid, well-informed and eminently readable. Their totality provides, if not an easy, at least a coherent, synthesis of the Victorian age io this country. Nostalgically, many Americans often look back to its standards of conduct and values, especially at a time when we seem to lack a domioant cultural pattern. All the more interesting, therefore, is this book's intelligent synopsis of ao era with a virtually absolute certitude that whatever was wrong with society and culture would yield to bighminded and muscular correctives.

The last Presidential debate starts Friday night at 9:30 on ABC, CBS, NBC and PBS. Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter will face the press, if not each other, at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. The moderator will be Barbara Walters of ABC News. The questioners will be Jack Neison of The Los Angeles Times, Robert C. Maynard of The Washington Post, and Joseph Kraft, a syndicated colum-

Earlier in the evening, there are also a couple of items of special interest. On Public TV, the second half-hour of a two-part discussion about the Peo-ple's Peace Movement in Northern Ireland will be carried on Channel 21 at 7. Sandra Elkin, producer and host of "Woman," interviews two founders of the oew movement: Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan. The interview was recorded in New Orleans.

The two Irish women describe the "crippling" conditions of daily life in Northern Ireland; the search-and-frisk hypolicities and the search-and-frisk hypolicities. humilistions when shopping, the childreo with nothing to do, the young people who never see anything but their own kind and the lack of all social settings except for a few "drinking clubs." They recognize that they now have become "legitimate targets" for militant groups oo both sides because of their press efforts. of their peace efforts, and they are con-vinced that "the people will discover they don't oeed armies to protect them."

At 8 P.M., on CBS, these images of conviolence will be shattered to a certain degree by a videotape replay of the recent heavyweight fight between Muhammed Ali and Ken Norton. The desired the recent and Ken Norton. Mulammed All and Ken Norton. The decision in favor of Ali was considered highly questionable in expert quarters. Behind-the-scenes news reports and excerpts from a radio talk show are among the devices used to generate new electronic energy. In addition, the half-hour includes comments from Lewis Mumford, warning about a "sadistic technological fantasy," and Henry Steels Commager, crustily commenting about "men like Mr. [Ronald] Reagan and others, who know nothing about history—and I don't know why I should isolate history." At 7 P.M., CBS News's "60 Minutes" comes up with still another segment bound to raise international eyebrows. In what Mike Wallace describes as his "yearly pilgrimage" to the Shah of Iran's Teheran palace to canvass the royal views, the Shah repays this journalistic dedication with some candid comments

Analysts Find Slow Recovery and Believe Worst Is Over, but They Note That Dangers Still Exist

By PAUL LEWIS

The American banking industry is recovering alowly from the economic recession, and among those who follow its fortunes the belief is now widespread that the worst is over—at least for the

With third-quarter results now pubished, most bank analysts expect the industry's earnings for 1976 as a whole to be roughly unchanged from last year, although with a clear upward treod dis-cernible in the second balf. Big lossea are still resulting from loana turned sour by the ecocomic downswing. But these are felt to be manageable, and the months ahead are not expected to produce any unpleasant aurprises.

'Higher Than the Average'

"We anticipate that this year's fourth-quarter loan losses for the 10 biggest bank will be higher than the average for the first three quarters," said Thomas H.

the first three quarters," said Thomas H. Handley of Salomon Brothers, "but we don't expect a duplication of the big bulge in last year's fourth-quarter earnings."

"The American banking iodustry is io the recovery room," commented Morris A. Schapiro of M.A. Schapiro & Company, a New York specialist in banking stocks. All the same, the road ahead may not be easy. For one thing, the fortures of be easy. For one thing, the fortunes of banks are tied closely to the progress of the nation's economic recovery, and the current "pause" in the upturn is giving grounds for concern about the future. In addition, there remains the threat that third world countries may add to the industry's existing bad-debt difficulties by defaulting on their burse borrows.

Finally, the new Congress that convenes next year is expected to try again to tighten the regulation of banks.
The most significant fact about the banking industry's third-quarter results is that in overall terms they show the first earnings gain this year from the comparable quarter of 1975. Salomon Brothers calculates that the third-quarter earnings produced the first gain this year from the year-ago quarter for the top 10 hanks, before allowances for gains and losses on securities trading.

5% Higher Than Last Year For the current year as a whole Schapiro expects earnings about 5 percent higher than last year, while most other analysts predict they will be very close to 1975 levels. The banking industry may

Is the Die Cast on Resorts International?

By ROBERT METZ

The Class B voting shares of Resorts International, have almost doubled in the last week or so, and Wall Street is baffled.

A short squeeze wherein investors are unable to repurchasa shares they have borrowed, would normally explain the rise. There are only 333,900 of the shares outstanding, with 54 percent closely held. However, short-interest figures released yesterday by the Amex do not seem to support that theory.

Short interest in the Class B shares rose to about 6,700 shares in the accounting period ended Oct. 15, up only alightly from 5,700 shares a month earlier. On the other hand, the short position in the more widaly held, nonvoting Class A shares, of which there ere 2.9 million, jumped to $1,900 shares on Oct. 15 from 28,800 shares a month earlier. Why then Wall Street is asking, did the price of the B shares rise from 81/2 in the week ended Oct. 8 to 201/2 on Monday, only to drop to 151/4 on Tuesday? Why did the Class A shares, which closed the wee of Oct. 8 at 934, move to 11%—so much less than the B shares — and then close yesterday at 8%?

Behind this lively market for Resorts

International shares is speculation over the outcome of a Nov. 2 referendum in New Jersey, which, if passed, would allow gambling in Atlantic City. Resorts International is a seasoned casino operator that has run a casino on Para-dise Island in Nassau, the Bahamas, for some years.

However, the Government of the Bahamas announced some months ago that it would assume ownership and complete control of all casinos there in January 1978, although the company may be permitted to continue operating its casino thereafter.

A spokesman for the company said in a telephone interview that the Baha-mas casino was the only one the company operated. Resorts clearly hopes for a favorable vote in New Jersey, and at least two of its top officials at present occupy a suite in a hotel

On Aug. 26, Resorts International be-came the owner of the Chalfonte-Had-den Hall Hotel in Atlantic City, which has 1,000 rooms. Earlier this year, Resorts made a nonrefundable $200,000 deposit on a $5.6 million. 56-acre parcel of Atlantic City beachfront and disclosed plans to build a new 1,000-room; $50.000-million hotel at 'be site.

It was reported in August that the company's New Jersey lawyers were relatives of the legislators who were the chief sponsors of the gambling referendum in the Assembly and State Senate.

by Resorts International, backers of gambling in Atlantic City hired Weiner-& Company of San Francisco and commissioned a atatewide poll to help chart the direction of the campaign.

Until recently anyway, the proposal was regarded as heving an even chance of success. The recent action in the stock caused Amex officials to attempt to find out whether a private poll had indicated success for the company in the referendum. The exchange learned that a poll by The Herald News, which serves north Jersey, indicated that resi-dents were leaning toward approval. The poll results were released Tuesday by a pro-casino group.

An Amex official said that he had spoken to the company officials, who said that there were no unannounced developments that would explain beavy trading in the two classes of stock.

Some observers believe that beavy publicity concerning the referendum on area evening news programs broadcast by the three principal networks may have led speculators to "gamble" on the referendum itself. A previous referendum failed.

One observer commented that, were the current referendum defeated, disappointed speculators could be expected to cause a definite reaction in the price of Rescrts International stock. The stock exchange was asked if the

B shares might not be in a soueeze, even though the short-interest figures are low. If a few institutions owoed B shares, further reducing the float available in the market place, relatively few shares short could lead to a squeeze. The spokesman said thought not since there were no signs that brokers were being asked to buy to cover shor; ossitions.

The spokesman added, however, that the Class A shares were probably de-pressed because of short selling in the issue. As long as shares are available in brokers' vaults for short-selling, such actions on the part of speculators will force the price lower as long as a squeeze does not develop, he explained.

Resorts International is remembered as the high-flier in the lete 1960's that attempted to take over Pan American World Airways. In 1974, the company wrote down the carrying value of its Pan Am investment by $23 million. Resorts International peys no dividend. The company earned 51 cents a share in 1975, down from 85 cents a share in 1974. a share in 1974.

October 20, 1976

To Our Shareholders:

On Tuesdey, October 19, SCM reported earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1977. It's good to be able to tell you that those eernings, $1.20 per share, exceeded those of any other quarter in the twenty years I have been associated with the Company.

Even more gratifying is the significant improvement in margina, one of the tests of good management. In the first quarter of last year our return was 2.1 per cent and for 1976 as a whole It was 2.3 per cent. A margin of 3.3 par cent in the first quarter of fiscal 1977 is a decided improvement. It shows a healthy trend and real progress toward our goals tor all SCM operations. In recent waeks all of us have haerd ebout a slow-down in the rate of economic recovery.

t can only speak for SCM's businesses, of course, but, with only a few exceptions, SCM's businesses performed very well in our first quarter. Earninga in our chemicala business, for axample, were more then triple last year'a and mergins were among the highest in the company. Glidden Organics had a complete turnaround compared to lesi year when the recession abroad had closed off export markets. Inorganic chemicals also improved greetly over last year's first quarter. Durkee Foods was ahead of lest year's very strong first quarter. Improvad demand and greater capacity utilization rates aided both industrial end consumer toods in the Glidden Coatings hed its most successful September quarter since it has been a part of SCM. Consumar trade sales products were in strong demand throughout the summer painting season. While this pert of the business heads into its normal seasonat slow-down, production of chemical coatings for industry continues at record levels. Smith-Corona and Proctor-Silex, our consumer durables businesses, both had a strong. first quarter with profits double those of e year ago. Indications are for a strong Christmas

 Allied Paper improved moderately on last year's first quarter despite softness in demand and consequently lower prices for paper and business torms. Pulp prices heve been reasonably firm and capacity utilization at our Southern mill continues high.

 Businass Equipment conlinued at a loss, but at a rate of loss reduced from last year, aven after giving effect to the cost of the disposition of the European copiar operations.

In general, then, while the economy seems to be continuing its gradual improvement, SCM's businesses ara moving ahead more briskly. This reflects the decisions mada a few years ago end the programa adopted in SCM's major businesses. Because our operations cover e ago end the programa adopted in some major businesses. Source of operations cover of fairly broad product spectrum, we can hope that SCM's experience is a good indicator for the rest of the economy. I, st any rate, am more confident than I was even two months ago that 1977 will be a fourth consecutive record year for your company, and I wanted to write and tell you so.

ucts are fully priced, and they cost as mucb, or more, here. The problem is trying to convince the Japanese that trade is a two-way street.

"If they want to export $14 billion or so in products to various places, they bave got to make Japan aveilable to imports somewhere near the same level. If the growth rate of a Japanese product in a foreigo market is as high as 25 or 50 percent, we can perbaps manage to sejuat to thet level in time, but not to a 200 or 300 percent in-

He was referring specifically to this year's massive jump in exports of Japanese color televiaion sets to the United States, which some aourcea have estimated to have risen almost 300 percent in 1976 so far this year. That situation has been referred to the Internstional Trade Commission in Washington for possible curbs.

In answer, the Japanese maintain that the full-year shipment will not remain that high and that, anyway, they are providing a product that the American consumer wants. They point to the heavy ordering of Japanese TV sets by Sears and J. C. Penney, under their own private lebels, as evidence of the American market's demand.

Getting the Japanese to restrain their exports to the United States may be lesser problem than convincing them to open their own market here to the products of other nations.

The Japanese make it virtuslly impossible for foreign computer service companies, for instance, to link up their service with a Japanese company viasatellite. They want that business for their own companies.

In the case of trying to sell American autos in this market, the problems are just as formidsble. They are particulartough in imposing environmental stsndards on the American manufac-turers. For example, even cars equipped with the rigid standards de-manded by California have difficulty entering Japan, One source here said that Detroit had to spend some $200 to $500 to bring each car up to the Japanese requirements on lights and other safety featurea. The market for American cars in Japan is now only about 17,000 units a year, but it could be four or five times greater if restrictions were oot so tough, one American said.

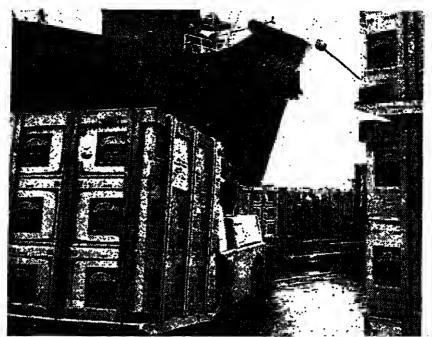

On the fisheries question, where the Uoited States objective is to cootrol the take of foreign fishing boats within 200 miles of the Americao coast, the Issue does not seem so pressing. Japan wants to cut back, but it bas legal problems here in putting its fishing vessels under American jurisdiction and determining a reduction in its own

The aviation problem may be more difficult. Like Britain, the Japanese are interested in capacity limitations on international flights, a sobject that the United States considers economically

The American view is that with rates and routes already controlled, putting controls on capacity would deprive the public of the last vestige of competitive benefits. The Japanese feel that the lack of restrictions on capacity affords an uofair advantage to large, well-financed foreign airlines.

All of these trade issues are nettlesome, but Japanese sources maintain they do oot constitute "major problems." And they say that the current trade picture in favor of Japen should be viewed in its proper light—a temporary phenomenon that is nowhere so serious as it was in 1971 when the Nixon Administration jolted this country with some harsh remedies. The current deficit is relatively smaller than the one of five years ago. And there is a strong disposition to cooperate in solving troublesome issues on both

Dollar Eases Against the Pound

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The dollar had a mixed dsy on European exchange markets today, easing against the troubled British pound and Italian lira. The price of gold rose on main bullion markets. The United States currency eased in Milan to close at 868.35 lire, against yesterday's 868.75. The lira's marginal improvement against the dollar and most European currencies continued a rally that followed Monday's partial lifting of curbs on foreign exchange dealings designed to protect it. signed to protect it.

Brokers noted today that the Bank of ltaly was again forced to sell large amounts of dollars outside normal banking channels to prop up the troubled Italian currency. The bank reportedly sold as much as $100 million todsy, raising to an estimated $500 million its support since Mooday.

In London, the pound steadied at $1.6470, up from yesterday's $1.6465. The dollar also lost marginally in Amsterdam, closing at 2.5465 guilders against yesterday's 2.5470.

MCI to Continue Efforts to Offer Phone Service

By ROBERT J. COLE

The MCI Communications Corporation said yesterday that it intended to press its claim for the right to offer a lowercost long-distance phone service in competition with the American Telephone aod Telegraph Company.

The telecommunications company, which so far has lost $100 million in eight years of operations, maintained that its loog-distance service, known es Execunet, brought in about 40 percent of the company's revenues, but that a court order, effective Oct. 12, has balted all future sales of the service to phooe users.

William G. McGowan, board chairman of MCI, stressed in an ioterview, however, that the court order did not apply to Execuset service to present customers. In a separate development, Mr. McGowan said MCI had ahown a profit since Oct. 1, and that be expected the company to remain profitable, MCI is scheduled to report its results for the MCI reported a loss of $1,4 million for the June quarter of this year compared with a loss of $7.3 million a year earlier. Sales rose to $13 million from $4.2 million in the same period.

Last summer the Federal Communications Commission ruled that Execunet was not an authorized phone service because it did not operate entirely over its own system. Users connect with MCI terminals by dialing a local phone number, but the wires between the user and the terminels are not MCI property.

Last July, at the request of MCI, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, granted MCI a stay of the F.C.C. order—thus enabling the company to cootioue selling Execunet. In November the court deoled a o A.T.&T. request to change the court order. Two mooths ago. A.T.&T. again sought to upset the court decision or to modify it. On Oct. 12 the court modified the F.C.C order blocking Execunet service so that it applied only to future sales. The court denied an A.T.&T. motion to expedite The spokesman sain

Warner-Lambert Ordered

To Sell Parke Davis Units After consideration of a final proposal, the Federal Trade Commission ordered the Werner-Lambert Company partially to divest itself of Parke Davis & Company, its drug manufacturing division.

The F.T.C., which first issued a complaint seeking the divestiture in June 1971, said that five units of Parke Davis should be sold within one year to other companies.

Warner-Lambert said the divestiture would involve less than I percent of its total sales, which were $2.17 billion in 1975. Net income io 1975 totaled $163.8 million.

The units that Werner Lambert has been ordered to sell include those manufacturing thyroid preparations, cough remedies, drops and lozenges, normal serum albumin and tetanus immune globusalary information considered too sensitive only a few years ago. It's estimated that a solid majority of big companies tell such employees the precise pay range set for their positions. A substantial minority also give comparable data for other levels of the corporate hierarchy Ironically openness about pay is routine at the corporate pyramid's very top. Proxy regulations require publicly held companies to disclose compensation of their three highest-peid officers, if their pay exceeds $40,000. The same $40,000 threshold applies to all directors.

As a rule of thumb, the top of pey ranges are typically set SO percent above the minimum, so disclosing those figures does not jeopardize the confidentiality of actual salaries, compensation specialists say. But the range gives an employee an idea of where he stands and the increases he can look toward.

The Corning Glass Works in upstate Coroing says it has fixed a range for every job "cleer up to the cheirman." It also has a policy of disclosing to employees the annual increase—usually an ecross-the-boards percentage—in the floor and ceiling for each range. the floor and ceiling for each range.

Sometimes other corporate objectives lead to greater disclosure about pay. To encourege promotion from within, the TRW Defense end Space Systems Group to Redondo Beach, Calif., posts a weekly listing of all jobs coming open in the 10,000-person organization—in-cluding the relevent pay range. The listing includes such professional posts as legel counsel (range $22,880 to

The Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill, N.J., shuns pay ranges because it likes to think of its 6,000 professional employees as equal "members" of its technical staff, Instead, Bell Labs has long published an annual "scattergram" showing each employee's actual salary as an anonymous dot on a chart com-pering salary levels with years of professional experience.

Alton Norman, director of salary administration, says a Bell Labs employee can readily see how he stands com-pered with his professional peers. But

"we in по way went to disclose (specific individual's salary," Mr. Norman stresses. "That's a sacred area."

According to Professor Edward E. Lawler 3d of the University of Michigan, companies might be better off if pay secrecy were less sacred. "You get weird perceptions of what the salary system is." he has found. Typically employees overestimate what co-workers are paid, and that fens job dissatisfaction has contends.

are paid, and that fens job dissatisfaction, he contends.

Professor Lawler also believes that secrecy hurts by freeing managers from being held eccountable for salary decisions. "You get bosses doing indefensible things," be says. In fact, he argues one barrier to greater openness is that many salary systems can't stand the light of day.

At Michigan's Institute for Social Barry

At Michigan's Institute for Sociel Research, where Professor Lawler works, a monthly printout is circulated show-ing each individual's salary and most recent raise. "It hasn't caused a furor," says the professor, who says his Michigan pay runs $36,000 a year. He is also a visiting scientist at the Battelle Memorial Institute, but declines to disclose thet salary. "I'm afraid Battelle may get upset," he says.

young executives? Thet's one possibility disceroed in population trends by Arch Patton, recently retired director of McKinsey & cently retired director of McKinsey & Company, Between now and 1985, he says, the 30-to-40 ege group—the younger management pool—will swell by 45 percent, while the 4S-to-S5 ege group will shrink.

The result will be inexperience in oversupply and experience becoming ever scarcer." Mr. Patton writes in the September-October issue of the Harvard Business Review. Seasoned managers will command a premium, but less demand-and lower pay-is in store for fledgliog executives.

But Mr. Patton also expects the hunger for experienced people to push companies into devising a 'two-track' pay system that moves tomorrow's relatively few outstanding young executives abead with merit pay increases much faster than todey's. "You're going to see a very dual system with a tremendous upward push," Mr. Patton-predicted in a recent interview.

But we expect the change to increase our profits substantially, since we will be removing the $4 million annual loss and using the capital for furniture and carpets to ex-pand our inventories in more profitable goods."

The move would also lovolva the closing of three furniture-carpet warehouses.

Founded in 1948, Korvette soon after arranged with H. L. Klion Inc., a leased furniture operator, to sell furniture in the Korvette stores, after making e similar arrangement with the Federal Carpet Company. However, Korvette later bought both those leased operations and managed them as copany-owned ectivities.

Marketers Tap the Campus Crowd

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY Pickpockets aren't the only kind of people who love crowds. Marketers cer-tainly do also. They just can't look at a crowd scene without thinking up some way to commercialize on it.

Such was the case when the manage-ment of the College Marketing and Re-search Corporation began to concen-trate on the annual rites of spring that bring mobs of college kids to Daytona Beach, Fla. As its name suggests, that unit of Playboy Enterprises is terribly interested in the campus crowd and how to reach lt.

Out of the commercial concentration by such youthful marketers as Alan K. Swift, president, and Peter A. Spina, New York chief, (both are 26 years old) grew College Expo '76, a program that attracted 50 exhibitors with new marketing ideas to the Daytona Plaza Hotel last March.

They paid a minimum of $550 for each 8 foot by 10 foot booth, and says Mr. Swift, "We made a marginal profit. But the trade tells me that if you can dn that in your first year, you can con-sider it an overwhelming success."

Many potential exhibitors bave a policy of not entering any show in its first year, he said. Some of the liquor companies, considered natural prospects, also felt that way, and others were concerned with the City Fathers' attitude toward liquor sampling.

This year, however, College Expo'77 has arranged for a centrally located bar to serve exhibiting distillers' products at a discount.

But the youngsters who did go through the half last spring—about half of the 100,000 who were on the heach such as Frisbees, ice coolers, sun tanlotion, recording tapes, Playboy posters and records, copies of Oui magazine, shampoo, cologne and cigars. There were also free stereo demonstrations. The exhibitors who were trying to sell things were unsuccessful because of all the freebies and probably won't be back next year, Mr. Swift said. The minimum tah will be up to $650.

College Marketing is also ready, willing and able to help exhibitors mount exciting outside cultural programs, such as Frisbee tournaments and sand castle huilding competitions.

One inducement that may attract Playboy magazine advertisers to the ciming event—to be beld March 19 through March 22—is that they can epply their merchandising credits to-ward participation. A single four-color page, for example, carries with it a $350 credit that can be used for anything within Playboy Enterprises that cen be legally purchased.

Agency Raps Wall St. Ads

Edward A. McCabe, whose advertising agency doesn't have a Wall Street account hut would obviously like one, made a foray into the area yesterday and threw the blocks to the Financial Communications Societ

To begin with, he told the group, "I think it would be generous to say it [Wall Street advertising and marketing] was not quite out of the Dark Ages or maybe just entering the Gray Ages. The financial community, he said, is naive about marketing, doesn't believe comsumer advertising and runs ads-that create and perpetuate the very image it needs to change. "Instead of figuring out ways to get in step with the rest of the business world," he said, "it has devised all kinds of complicated ways to protect itself from the encroachment of outside wisdom." Even though there are many bright, young dynamic people down there in The Street, Mr. McCabe, who is senior vice president of Scali, McCabe, Sloves, said financial advertising "runs the gamut from the invisible to the inane." While he had the podium he ran a reel of Perdue Chicken commercials, which be belped to make, and with all sincerity called them "brilliant creative advertising."

GAF Studys Listeners

One of the first things that the GAF Corporation did after taking over WNCN-FM, the radio that went from classical to rock and then back again, was to commission Crossley Surveys to study WNCN's listeners—at least these who had already expressed themselves as supporters of the classical

Epting Joins SSC&B

Lawrence Epting is moving over to SSC&B as an executive vice president on the account management side. The president of Norton Simon Communications, the in-house agency of Norton Simon Inc., has previously been with Ted Bates & Company and Compton Advertising. He'll also join the board at SSC&B.

Commercial Units Join

The New York Association of Independent Commercial Producers, which is four years old and has 27 members, has merged with the recently-formed West Coast organization called the Association of Independent Commercial Producers, which has 38 members in Los Angeles. The national group, which will take the name of the California body, plans to open additional offices in Chicago, San Francisco, Dallas, Atlanta and Miami for starters. Members, the association maintains, account for two-thirds of the industry's annual $300 million volume.

Liquor Tax Rise Sought

In Wisonsin, the Task Force on Alcohol-Drug Abuse, appointed four months ago by the Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, a state agency, has recommended a sizable tax mcrease on all alcoholic beverages to finance a $9 million statewide ad campaign to teach people the responsible use of alcohol and drugs.

Michael Birkley, chairman of the task force said yesterday that while the state ranked 40th in the collection of such taxes it ranked fifth in con-sumption of alcohol. The state is al-ready spending $129 million annually to belp persons alcoholically impaired.

How Consumer Can Choos Auto From Confusing Arr

than G.M.'s own mid-sized cars. This point is not lost in Ford's ads. 'In 1977," one TV commercial proclaims, "many full-size family cars as you know them will disappear, as some car makers offer only cut-down sizes." Then it touts the LTD-"The full-sized Ford that keeps its full size." Something is missing here, too: The spot, understandably enough, does not mention that, according to a new Federal index, the smaller Chevy actually has more space inside than the higger LTD.

Sorting Out the Changes

In the face of all this, how is the In the face of all this, how is the sbopper to sort out the changes?

The normal reshuffling of models is the easy part. It is simply this: Three familiar fixtures are gone—the convertible by any name; and the Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant, replaced entirely by the popular, compact Aspens and Volares introduced by the Chrysler Corporation last year.

Chrysler Corporation last year.

Apart from G.M.'a redesigned big cars, there is only one other 1977 model that can be called new. It is the American Motors Corporation's subcompact Pacer station wagon. All the rest of the "new" cars involve surface changes. What was the mid-sized Ford Elite has been dressed in new clothes and called the Thunderbird. The older, bigger Thunderbird has been dropped. Similarly, the mid-sized Ford Torino has been transfigured into the LTD-II, the Mercury Montego into the Cougar and the Continental Mark IV mto the Mark V. And what used to be the mid-sized Dodge Coronet is now the Monaco. What was the full-sized Monaco is now the Royal Monaco.

Monaco is now the Royal Monaco.

The hard part is comparing G.M.'s "downsized" big cars with other large cars and intermediates, (The accompanying comparisons immeditaely involve only G.M. and Ford Although Chrysler makes large cars and hopes to sell them at G.M.'s expense, it is concentrating heavily on compacts. So far this year, G.M. and Ford together have accounted for about 9 of every 10 big cars sold in the United States.)

cars sold in the United States.) Exterior Sizes and Weights

Begin with exterior size and weight. By these traditional measures of size, G.M.'s largest cars definitely are smaller than their rivals'. The base models of the Chevrolet Impale and Caprice Classic, for example, weigh in at be-tween 3,643 and 3,716 pounds. The LTD ranges between 4,368 end 4,406 pounds. In addition, the Chevies are n full foot shorter than the Fords. Not only that, the 116-mch wheelbase of the Impala and the Caprice (contrasting with 121 inches for the LTD) is exactly the same as that of Chevrolet's own Chevelle sedan-a "mid-

In addition to these corporate offi-cer changes, Gillette yesterday also announced a 17 percent decline in thirdquarter earnings. The company attrib-uted this to the effect of lower foreign exchange rates in most of the foreign markets in which it does business.

The Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company made the fullowing senior management changes this week. John R. Torell 3d was promoted to executive vice president and member of the Bank's general administrative board.
He succeeds Philip H. Milner as nfficer in charge of the Metropolitan Division.
Mr. Milner, who remains as executive vice president and member of the administrative board, was designated an annistrative board, was designated an assistant in the president Douglas E. Ebert, was promoted to senior vice president and deputy general manager in charge of a newly created branch banking group. Edward A. Association. His departure from Marine Midland is effective Dec. 31.

In stepping down from the association post, Mr. Mansfield said: "I feel that it is most important that the association president, as a key industry spokesman, be actively engaged in banking. Since I am taking early retirement from the bank, it is essential that the position be placed in the hands of a banker with day-to-day contact in our profession."

Directors of the association said that H. Russell Johnson, first vice president, would succeed Mr. Mansfield as presi-dent. Mr. Johnson is chairman, president and chief executive officer of the Oneida National Bank and Trust Com-pany of Central New York in Utica.

1633 BROADWAY BUILDING SOLD TO PRIVATE GROUP

The Irving Trust Company, managing partner for the four banks that foreclosed on the building at 1633 Broadway in May 1974, reported yesterday the sale of the 48-story building to a group of private investors.

John F. McGinn, vice president of Irving's mortgage and real estate department, said, "We think the sale of the building is a strong indication of investor confidence in the future of New

In addition to Irving, the other banks involved are the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, Chemical Bank and Bankers Trust Company. They bad acquired commership of the building with a foreclosure bid of nearly $69 million in 1974.

According to Mr. McGinn, the purches price consisted of cash and a purches chase price consisted of cash and a purchase money mortgage sufficient to enable the banks to recover their full investment.

Challenge Avis. See if our car service network will work

Avis has three challenging questions you should ask before you sign any car lease which includes service. How convenient are the locations? How national is the service network?

better for you.

How good is the service? After you hear the answers, find out il we can give you better ones. We've got a reputation for trying harder. Make us live up to it

You'll like riding on our reputation

For this campus hero, the pain may linger long after the glory is forgotten.

AntileftistsDownfall of Ma

"I have several souvenirs of my college football days. An arthritic hand, calcium deposits on my feet and forehead, two chronically painful shoulders and a pair of permanently damaged ankles.

"But I'm luckier than some. Andy Lowe played defensive end for Texas Tech, and now his left leg may have to be amputated..."

In College Football's Crisis, ex-lineman George Simpson writes about the agony of college football that lasts long after the pom-pom girls have grown old.

Drawing on a variety of sources, players, coaches and experts across the nation, Simpson carefully documents the sorry story of college coaches whose dreams of winning are built on battered bodies.

Among other evidence. Simpson cites the 1975 study by Penn State researcher Dr. Kenneth Clarke, who surveyed 42 high schools and colleges through the National Athletic Injury/Illness Reporting System.

The NAIRS report found that there were 28 serious injuries for every 100 football players.

Worst of all, reports Simpson, are coaches whose greed for victory has intimidated team trainers—and even team physicians. The result is that possibly serious injuries are treated as trivial. As a result, players who should be on the bench are in the game—and, in later years, in constant therapy.

This is an ugly story. But it is reported without relish. With no sense of gossipy satisfaction.

The editors of SPORT believe that no solution will be found until the roar of the crowd—on campus and off—delivers an unmistakable message: Make sure that what happened to George Simpson does not happen again.

The story of College Football's Crisis. Just part of the November issue of the one magazine that gives you a helluva lot more than just the score.
